HOW TO USE THE SUPPLEMENT.

THE titles of the articles and defined words and phrases are repeated in the order in which they are to be found in the AMERICAN AND ENGLISH ENCYCLOPÆDIA OF LAW, Second Edition. At the top of each page are given the name of the subject and the pages thereof which are supplemented by reference to and statement of the late cases. Thus:

956-961

AGENCY.

Vol. I.

at the top of a page signifies that pages 956 to 961 of the article "Agency" in the first volume of the Second Edition are supplemented.

In both text and notes the catch lines which appear in the Second Edition are here repeated in connection with new cases, thereby denoting that such new cases support the statement of law made in the text or notes of the Second Edition under the corresponding catch line.

The large heavy-faced figures refer to the pages of the volume of the Second Edition. The smaller figure following the page number in the notes refers to the original note numbered by that same figure on that page. Thus, a note numbered 950. 2., with cases cited, indicates that those cases support the proposition to which the cases in note 2 on page 950 were cited.

In some instances the new cases have necessitated the writing of new text, and the fact that such text is new is indicated by inclosing it with brackets. In the notes great freedom has been indulged in stating new illustrations and applications.

The omission of a title that appeared in the Second Edition implies that no new cases on that subject have been found.

SUPPLEMENT

TO THE

(SECOND EDITION.)

1. A. — See note 1.

ABANDON. — See note 2.

2. See note 1.

1. 1. Used as an Equivalent of "The." — See Wastl v. Montana Union R. Co., 24 Mont. 159.

"A Marriage." — In an action for annulment of marriage it was contended that "a marriage," as used in Civ. Code Cal., § 82, providing that a marriage may be annulled for certain causes, meant only that for one of those causes a marriage ceremony may be annulled, but that, if a plaintiff admits the existence of marriage without the a, he cannot invoke the remedy provided by that section. The court said: "We see no such distinction in the code. Marriage means, generally, a certain existing relation or status, and a marriage can mean nothing more than this same status as existing between two particular persons." Linebaugh v. Linebaugh, 137 Cal. 26.

"A Judge." — The adjective a, commonly called the "indefinite article," because it does not define any particular person or thing, is entirely too indefinite, when used in a state constitution providing that "the state shall be divided into convenient circuits, each circuit to be made up of contiguous counties, for each of which circuits a judge shall be elected," to define or limit the number of judges which the legislative wisdom may provide for the judicial circuits of the state. State v. Martin, 60 Ark. 343.

2. Abandonment of Goods in Bonded Warehouse. — Anglo-California Bank v. Secretary of Treasury, (C. C. A.) 76 Fed. Rep. 749.

2. 1. Barnett v. Dickinson, 93 Md. 267, quoting 1 AM. AND ENG. ENCYC. OF LAW (2d ed.) 1, 2; Canton Co. v. Baltimore, etc., R. Co., 99 Md. 202; Cassell v. Crothers, 193 Pa. St. 363, quoting 1 AM. AND ENG. ENCYC. OF LAW (2d ed.) 1, 2; Scott v. Moore, 98 Va. 687, citing 1 AM. AND ENG. ENCYC. OF LAW (2d ed.) 1, 2. See also Nichols v. Lantz, 9 Colo. App. 1; Hough v. Brown, 104 Mich. 113; Merchants' Nat. Bank v. Greenhood, 16 Mont. 395.

Intent — Questions of Law and Fact. — Kansas City, etc., R. Co. v. Wagand, 134 Ala. 392; Gassert v. Noyes, 18 Mont. 216; Farmers' Irrigation Dist. v. Frank, (Neb. 1904) 100 N. W. Rep. 286; Lockhart v. Wills, 9 N. Mex. 344.

Abandonment Distinguished from Gift, or Barter, or Surrender. — Burdick v. Cameron, 10 N. Y. App. Div. 589.

Abandonment of Children. — Gay v. State, 105 Ga. 599.

Abandonment in the Sense of Desertion. — Simon v. Simon, (N. Y. Super. Ct. Eq. T.) 15 Misc. (N. Y.) 515.

Personal Property. — Kansas City, etc., R. Co. v. Wagand, 134 Ala. 392, citing 1 AM. AND ENG. ENCYC. OF LAW (2d ed.) 2.

ABANDONMENT AND TOTAL LOSS

(IN MARINE INSURANCE).

BY E. C. ELLSBREE.

5. I. DEFINITION. — See note 2.

6. III. TOTAL LOSS — 1. Divisions of the Subject. — See note 2.

2. Actual Total Loss — a. DEFINITION. — See note 3.

b. DESTRUCTION OF OBJECT INSURED — (1) General Principles. —

See notes 5, 7.

7. c. TOTAL LOSS TO INSURED — (1) General Principles. — See note 2.

8. (2) Sale by Necessity. — See note 2.

9. (4) Particular Cases — (a) Memorandum Articles. — See note 1.

10. See note 2.

11. (c) Freight. — See note 2.

12. (d) Total Loss Only. — See note 2.

d. TOTAL LOSS WITH BENEFIT OF SALVAGE. — See note 6.

13. 3. Constructive Total Loss — a. DEFINITION. — See note 1.

b. CRITERIA — (2) Quantum of Damage — (a) English Rule. — See note 2.

(b) American Rule. — See note 3.

5. 2. The C. F. Bielman, 108 Fed. Rep. 878, quoting 1 AM. AND ENG. ENCYC. OF LAW (2d ed.) 5.

6. 2. Western Assur. Co. v. Poole, (1903) 1 K. B. 376.

3. Soelberg v. Western Assur. Co., 119 Fed. Rep. 23, 55 C. C. A. 601.

Notice of Abandonment Not Required in Case of Actual Total Loss. — The Livingstone, 122 Fed. Rep. 278.

The Sinking of a Ship constitutes an actual total loss, and such total loss is not converted into a partial loss by the subsequent raising of the ship by the underwriter. Sailing Ship Blairmore Co. v. Macredie, (1898) A. C. 593.

5. When Subject-matter Loses Its Form and Species. — Asfar v. Blundell, (1896) 1 Q. B. 123.

7. Cargo. — If the thing insured is so changed in its nature by the perils of the sea as to become an unmerchantable thing, which no buyer would buy and no honest seller would sell, then there is a total loss. Asfar v. Blundell, (1896) 1 Q. B. 123.

7. 2. Illustrations — Loss of Cargo. — Where a portion of the cargo is recovered in a condition to be transhipped, and suitable for the purposes for which it was originally intended, although not so suitable as it would have been if it had not been submerged in the sea, there is no absolute total loss. Washburn, etc., Mfg. Co. v. Reliance Marine Ins. Co., 106 Fed. Rep. 116.

Capture. — A ship abandoned on the high seas was picked up and towed to Brazil, where she was placed in the hands of the court for the enforcement of salvage claims. These claims were paid by the underwriters. The Brazilian court thereupon sold both ship and cargo, and the underwriters were held liable for a total loss without any allowance for the amount paid for salvage. Buchanan v. London, etc., Marine Ins. Co., 65 L. J. Q. B. 92.

8. 2. Nova Scotia Marine Ins. Co. v. Churchill, 26 Can. Sup. Ct. 65.

9. 1. Washburn, etc., Mfg. Co. v. Reliance Marine Ins. Co., 179 U. S. 1, affirming 106 Fed. Rep. 116, (C. C. A.) 82 Fed. Rep. 296; Devitt v. Providence Washington Ins. Co., 173 N. Y. 17.

10. 2. Washburn, etc., Mfg. Co. v. Reliance Marine Ins. Co., 179 U. S. 1, affirming 106 Fed. Rep. 116, (C. C. A.) 82 Fed. Rep. 296.

11. 2. Trinder v. Thames, etc., Marine Ins. Co., (1898) 2 Q. B. 114, 78 L. T. N. S. 485.

12. 2. Insurance Co. of North America v. Canada Sugar-Refining Co., (C. C. A.) 87 Fed. Rep. 491, reversed on another point 175 U. S. 609.

6. Louisville Ins. Co. v. Monarch, 99 Ky. 578.

13. 1. Insurance Co. of North America v. Canada Sugar-Refining Co., (C. C. A.) 87 Fed. Rep. 491, reversed on another point 175 U. S. 609; Soelberg v. Western Assur. Co., 119 Fed. Rep. 23, 55 C. C. A. 601; Devitt v. Providence Washington Ins. Co., 61 N. Y. App. Div. 390; McLain v. British, etc., Marine Ins. Co., (Supm. Ct. App. T.) 16 Misc. (N. Y.) 336.

Necessity of Notice of Abandonment. — There can be no constructive total loss where no notice of abandonment is given. Western Assur. Co. v. Poole, (1903) 1 K. B. 383; Nova Scotia Marine Ins. Co. v. Churchill, 26 Can. Sup. Ct. 65.

2. Ship. — See Trinder v. Thames, etc., Marine Ins. Co., (1898) 2 Q. B. 114, 78 L. T. N. S. 485; Sailing Ship Blairmore Co. v. Macredie, (1898) A. C. 593.

Cargo. — Devitt v. Providence Washington Ins. Co., 61 N. Y. App. Div. 390; Insurance Co. of North America v. Canada Sugar-Refining Co., (C. C. A.) 87 Fed. Rep. 491, reversed on another point 175 U. S. 609; Washburn, etc., Mfg. Co. v. Reliance Marine Ins. Co., 179 U. S. 1.

14. 1. Test of the Prudent Owner. — Sailing Ship Blairmore Co. v. Macredie, (1898) A. C. 593; Angel v. Merchants Marine Ins. Co., (1903) 1 K. B. 811. See also Cunningham v. Maritime Ins. Co., (1899) 2 Ir. 257, distinguishing Roux v. Salvador, 3 Bing. N. Cas. 266, 32 E. C. L. 110.

16. 1. Sea damage which cannot be repaired at a port within two thousand miles, and then only at a cost which exceeds the value of the ship, justifies an abandonment. Trinder v. Thames, etc., Marine Ins. Co., (1898) 2 Q. B. 114, 78 L. T. N. S. 485.

The frustration of the undertaking insured justifies an abandonment. Musgrave v. Mannheim Ins. Co., 32 Nova Scotia 405.

An Exception in a Policy that the insurer shall be free from any claim consequent on loss of time, whether arising from a peril of the sea or otherwise, includes a case where the object of the voyage is frustrated by the combined effect of the breaking of a shaft, which is a peril of the sea, and the loss of time consequent thereon. Bensuade v. Thames, etc., Marine Ins. Co., (1897) 1 Q. B. 29.

17. 3. Expenses Incurred on Account of Cargo. — Where a policy provided that in determining the amount of loss "expenses incurred on account of the cargo or any part thereof" should be excluded, expenses incurred in removing part of the cargo, that the vessel might float, were for the benefit of the vessel as well as the cargo, and they should not be excluded. Harvey v. Detroit F. & M. Ins. Co., 120 Mich. 601.

19. 2. Western Assur. Co. v. Poole, (1903) 1 K. B. 376.

In Case of Undervalued Policy. — Abandonment must be the voluntary act of the assured. The demand and receipt of the full amount of the policy value on a policy undervaluing the ship does not of itself import any abandonment. In such a case the owner may repair and retain his ship, and recover of the insurers for the repairs up to the full policy valuation. This rule is of great importance on largely undervalued policies, since otherwise on partial losses the assured would often be unable to recover his full insurance without a sacrifice of the ship. The St. Johns, 101 Fed. Rep. 469.

3. Exception to Rule. — Where a policy provided that there could be no abandonment except in case of absolute total loss, it was not necessary, in case of constructive total loss, to prove abandonment. McLain v. British, etc., Marine Ins. Co., (Supm. Ct. App. T.) 16 Misc. (N. Y.) 336; Devitt v. Providence Washington Ins. Co., 61 N. Y. App. Div. 390, affirmed 173 N. Y. 17.

Where Abandonment of No Benefit to Insurer. — An abandonment is indispensable in all cases of constructive total loss, except in those where it could not possibly be of any benefit to the insurer. Insurance Co. of North America v. Canada Sugar-Refining Co., (C. C. A.) 87 Fed. Rep. 491, reversed on another point 175 U. S. 609.

20. 1. Soelberg v. Western Assur. Co., 119 Fed. Rep. 23, 55 C. C. A. 601.

21. 3. Sailing Ship Blairmore Co. v. Macredie, (1898) A. C. 593, 79 L. T. N. S. 217.

4. Right of Underwriter to Repair. — In England it has been held that, where a vessel has sunk and notice of abandonment has been given, the insurer cannot reduce a total loss to a partial loss by raising and repairing such vessel. Sailing Ship Blairmore Co. v. Macredie, (1898) A. C. 593, 79 L. T. N. S. 217.

23. 1. Where the cost of repairs exceeds one-half of the value of the boat, and hence, under the provisions of the policy, there is a total loss, the insured is justified in abandoning the boat, and in claiming the full amount of the policy. Jones v. Western Assur. Co., 198 Pa. St. 206.

24. 1. Valid Abandonment Not Defeated by Subsequent Restoration. — Ruys v. Royal Exch. Assur. Corp., (1897) 2 Q. B. 135, 77 L. T. N. S. 23.

25. 4. Insurance on Cargo for Voyage. — Musgrave v. Mannheim Ins. Co., 32 Nova Scotia 405.

A constructive total loss of cargo may arise by the loss of the ship under circumstances amounting to the destruction of the contemplated adventure, when no part of the cargo can be forwarded by a substituted ship except at a cost beyond the value of the goods. In-insurance Co. of North America v. Canada Sugar-Refining Co., (C. C. A.) 87 Fed. Rep. 491, reversed on another point in 175 U. S. 609.

26. 3. Submerged Vessel Raised. — See Sailing Ship Blairmore Co. v. Macredie, (1898) A. C. 593, 67 L. J. P. C. 96, 79 L. T. N. S. 217.

Attempt to Recover Cargo Abandoned. — Where the insurers determined to try to recover the cargo of a sunken vessel, but afterwards abandoned the project, and its situation was such that there was no reasonable probability that it could be recovered after the company withdrew the men and means provided for the purpose, the insured was justified in abandoning the property then submerged. Louisville Ins. Co. v. Monarch, 99 Ky. 578.

Vessel Stranded Six Months. — Under a rule of a marine insurance company providing that a stranded vessel which is not saved within six months may be considered as a constructive total loss, the fact that the vessel might be saved at a future date does not prevent the operation of the rule. Rowland, etc., Steamship Co. v. Maritime Ins. Co., 6 Com. Cas. (Eng.) 160.

27. 2. Nova Scotia Marine Ins. Co. v. Churchill, 26 Can. Sup. Ct. 65.

3. Impossibility of Obtaining Means of Repair at Point of Distress. — Nova Scotia Marine Ins. Co. v. Churchill, 26 Can. Sup. Ct. 65. See also Angel v. Merchant's Marine Ins. Co., (1903) 1 K. B. 811.

4. Vessel Disabled — Cargo Delivered in Another Vessel. — Where the disabling of a vessel necessitates the transshipment of the cargo, it being of a perishable nature, a constructive total loss of freight results. Musgrave v. Mannheim Ins. Co., 32 Nova Scotia 405.

29. 1. The fact that a portion of the cargo was delivered to the insured, not in the ordinary course of the voyage, but by the insurer of the cargo, after a practical abandonment, and through a settlement as upon a total loss, in which such portion was received in part payment, will not prevent a recovery for a total loss of profits. Canada Sugar Refining Co. v. Insurance Co. of North America, 175 U. S. 609, reversing (C. C. A.) 87 Fed. Rep. 491.

2. When Abandonment Necessary. — In case of total loss of insurance on profits no abandonment is necessary. Canada Sugar-Refining Co. v. Insurance Co. of North America, 82 Fed. Rep. 757, 175 U. S. 609.

An actual partial loss of profits cannot be made total by abandonment. Insurance Co. of North America v. Canada Sugar-Refining Co., (C. C. A.) 87 Fed. Rep. 491, reversed on another point 175 U. S. 609.

5. Canton Ins. Office v. Woodside, (C. C. A.) 90 Fed. Rep. 301.

Articles Separately Valued. — There may be a loss of a portion of goods of the same species, shipped in separate packages and separately valued. Singer Mfg. Co. v. Western Assur. Co., 10 Quebec Super. Ct. 379.

Effect of Agreement. — The parties may modify the terms of their contract of insurance by agreeing that an entire loss or destruction of part of the goods, of the some species, shipped and insured in bulk, shall be treated as a total loss, and be recoverable for as a total loss. Mowat v. Boston Marine Ins. Co., 26 Can. Sup. Ct. 47.

31. 1. Must Be Absolute and Explicit. — Insurance Co. of North America v. Johnson, 70 Fed. Rep. 794, 37 U. S. App. 413.

Statement of Interest Conveyed. — It is not necessary that an abandonment should state with mathematical exactness the interest conveyed. Insurance Co. of North America v. Johnson, 70 Fed. Rep. 794, 37 U. S. App. 413.

Waiver of Objection to Form of Abandonment. — Insurance Co. of North America v. Johnson, 70 Fed. Rep. 794, 37 U. S. App. 413.

32. 2. Excusable Delay. — The act of the insurer in ignoring an informal tender of abandonment and disclaiming any liability whatever sufficiently excuses any more formal tender at the time. De Farconnet v. Western Ins. Co., 110 Fed. Rep. 405.

3. Further Authorities. — Harvey v. Detroit F. & M. Ins. Co., 120 Mich. 601.

35. 2. When Evidence Sufficient. — Where the insurer refuses to accept abandonment, and there is no ambiguity in its attitude, and what is done is no more than it has a right to do under the sue and labor clause of the policy without incurring liability, such acts cannot be construed as an acceptance of abandonment. Washburn, etc., Mfg. Co. v. Reliance Marine Ins. Co., 179 U. S. 1, affirming (C. C. A.) 82 Fed. Rep. 296. See also Soelberg v. Western Assur. Co., 119 Fed. Rep. 23, 55 C. C. A. 601.

Repairing. — Where the underwriters take possession of a ship, incompletely repair her, and then allow her to be sold for the cost of those repairs, there is a sufficient acceptance of an abandonment. If these acts are not an acceptance they constitute a conversion of the ship, and this latter precludes a claim of non-acceptance. McLeod v. Insurance Co. of North America, 34 Nova Scotia 88.

36. 4. The Red Sea, (1896) P. 20; Mason v. Marine Ins. Co., 110 Fed. Rep. 452, 49 C. C. A. 106, quoting 1 AM. AND ENG. ENCYC. OF LAW (2d ed.) 36.

4. Where Testator Constitutes Two Residues. — A bequest of a specific amount was made to a legatee payable on his attaining a certain age, with proviso that if he died before attaining that age the legacy was to be divided among five others — four to receive specific amounts, the fifth the residue. A subsequent clause of the will gave one-half of the residue of the estate to the same legatee on the same terms. The legatee died without issue before attaining the specified age, and it was held that the specific sums bequeathed the four out of the first fund should be paid in full and prior to any payment to the fifth. *Sykes v. "It is a general rule that specific legacies do not abate with or contribute to general legacies. There are exceptions, as where the whole estate is given in specific legacies and then a pecuniary legacy is given, or where an intention that the specific legacies shall abate appears in the will." Heath v. McLaughlin, 115 N. Car. 398.

Testatrix took, without adoption, a two-year-old child, cared for him and received the fruits of his labor during minority, lived with him a number of years in a home he had built partly with money loaned by her and which loan was evidenced by a bond secured by mortgage on the house. She bequeathed the bond and mortgage to this quasi-adopted son, and certain bank deposits to relatives, and it was held that the bequest to the son did not abate. Matter of Brown, (Surrogate Ct.) 42 Misc. The plaintiff owned an ice field and brought an action to restrain the defendants, who operated a cement factory near by, from so conducting their business as to cast cinders and soot upon his ice field and so destroying the ice. It was held that the injunction should be granted. American Ice Co. v. Catskill Cement Co., (Supm. Ct. Spec. T.) 43 Misc. (N. Y.) 221.

Dam. — Masonic Temple Assoc. v. Banks, 94 Va. 695.

Oyster Bed. — In Powell v. Wilson, 85 Md. 347, equity took jurisdiction of a suit to compel the defendant to remove his oyster bed from the plaintiff's land.

Cemetery. — In the case of Lowe v. Prospect Hill Cemetery Assoc., 58 Neb. 94, it was held that equity would enjoin the location of a cemetery in close proximity to private dwellings where it would contaminate the water in the wells. Compare Elliott v. Ferguson, (Tex. Civ. App. 1904) 83 S. W. Rep. 56.

Wisconsin. — Ryan v. Schwartz, 94 Wis. 403.

In State v. Ohio Oil Co., 150 Ind. 21, it was held that the mere fact that the state could prosecute the defendant at law and recover fines for the maintenance of a public nuisance did not deprive equity of power to abate the nuisance.

An Occupation of Land by Gypsies and Other Persons who cause a nuisance to the neighborhood has been held sufficient to cause an injunction to be granted restraining the owner of the land from allowing it to be so occupied. Atty.-Gen. v. Stone, 60 J. P. 168.

Foul Odors. — In Lefrois v. Monroe County, 24 N. Y. App. Div. 421, it was held that equity would enjoin the defendant from fertilizing a farm by using the sewage of its almshouse, as the sewage polluted the air and also the waters of a stream that the plaintiff used.

Gambling House. — In State v. Patterson, 14 Tex. Civ. App. 465, it was held that equity would not restrain the running of a gambling house, even though it was a public nuisance, because there was an adequate remedy at law.

In England an injunction has been granted restraining horse races on Sunday where the noise and disturbance continually interfered with the peace and quiet of residents and worshippers in the neighborhood. Dewar v. City, etc., Racecourse Co., (1899) 1 Ir. 345.

Frequent Recurrence of Injury as Ground for Equity Jurisdiction. — Ecton v. Lexington, etc., R. Co., (Ky. 1899) 53 S. W. Rep. 523.

2. Quantum of Damage. — Ryan v. Schwartz, 94 Wis. 403.

Actual Structural Damages to property are not essential to the issuance of an injunction where it is shown that, as a result of the nuisance, the property is frequently rendered almost uninhabitable, and that the comfort and health of the occupants are at all times materially interfered with. Hopkin v. Hamilton Electric Light, etc., Co., 2 Ont. L. Rep. 240, affirmed 4 Ont. L. Rep. 258.

Actual Injury or Danger to Health need not be shown as a prerequisite to the issuance of an injunction to restrain the continuance of a nuisance causing serious annoyance to persons in the neighborhood. Atty.-Gen. v. Keymer Brick, etc., Co., 67 J. P. 434.

163. 1. Definition. — Baumgartner v. Eignbrot, (Md. 1905) 60 Atl. Rep. 601, quoting 1 AM. AND ENG. ENCYC. OF LAW (2d ed.) 163.

In Humphrey v. Pope, 122 Cal. 253, the court said: "The word 'abduct' is from the Latin abduco, to lead away. Abduction is the taking away a wife, child, or ward by fraud and persuasion or open violence. Carpenter v. People, 8 Barb. (N. Y.) 606; State v. George, 93 N. Car. 570. In private or civil law it is the act of taking away a man's wife by violence or persuasion. 3 Steph. Com. 536."

"Abduction" and "Taking Away" Equivalent Expressions. — Humphrey v. Pope, 122 Cal. 253.

2. As to actions for the alienation of the wife's affections, see the title HUSBAND AND WIFE, 862 et seq.

Motive Not Material. — Intentional persuasion of the wife to leave her husband creates a cause of action in favor of the husband regardless of the motive underlying such persuasion. Hartpence v. Rogers, 143 Mo. 623.

164. 1. Loss of Wife's Society Gist of Action. — See the title HUSBAND AND WIFE, 862. 6.

2. Notice by Husband Not to Harbor Wife. — Compare Powell v. Benthall, 136 N. Car. 145.

A Sister and Brother-in-law who harbor the wife are not liable in damages where they have not been instrumental in bringing about the separation and have not counseled its continuance. Their relationship to the wife is relevant and material on the question of motive; and the burden is not upon the defendants to show justification, but upon the plaintiff to show enticement or persuasion. Powell v. Benthall, 136 N. Car. 145.

2. California. — Humphrey v. Pope, 122 Cal. 253, holding that the wife has a right of action regardless of whether the husband was forcibly abducted or merely enticed away from her; and the fact that the damages recovered would be community property does not affect the right of action.

No Right of Action in New Jersey. — Hodge v. Wetzler, 69 N. J. L. 490.

In Tennessee it seems that the wife is not entitled to maintain such an action except in a case where the cause of action arises after she has been abandoned by her husband. Smith v. Smith, 98 Tenn. 101, 60 Am. St. Rep. 838.

In Wisconsin it is held that the wife has no right of action either at common law or by statute. Lonstorf v. Lonstorf, 118 Wis. 159, re-affirming Duffies v. Duffies, 76 Wis. 374, 20 Am. St. Rep. 79, cited in the original note.

2. Where the Husband Had No Affection for his wife at the time of the acts alleged to have induced him to abandon her, it was held that she could not recover. Servis v. Servis, 172 N. Y. 438, reversing 64 N. Y. App. Div. 612.

The Attempt to Entice Must Have Been Successful. — Van Olinda v. Hall, 88 Hun (N. Y.) 452.

It Is a Question of Fact for the Jury to decide whether the allowance of sexual intercourse by the defendant to the plaintiff's husband was an enticement which caused him to abandon the plaintiff. The court said: "The carnal intercourse may be — nay, generally is, — the greatest of enticements and allurements." Romaine v. Decker, 11 N. Y. App. Div. 20.

3. Right of Wife to Writ of Habeas Corpus. — See the title HABEAS CORPUS, 181 et seq.

4. Right of Father in Case of Abduction of Child. — Wheeler v. Price, 21 R. I. 99.

171. 1. Damages Recoverable. — See the title HUSBAND AND WIFE, 863.

Excessive Damages. — See Hartpence v. Rogers, 143 Mo. 623.

172. 1. Principle upon Which Damages Estimated. — Exemplary damages may be allowed where malice and oppression are involved; and damages may be recovered for mental anguish, mortification, and injury to the feelings. Nevins v. Nevins, 68 Kan. 410.

See generally the title HUSBAND AND WIFE, 866, and the following cases: Lockwood v. Lockwood, 67 Minn. 476; Nichols v. Nichols, 147 Mo. 387; Love v. Love, 98 Mo. App. 562; Wilson v. Coulter, 29 N. Y. App. Div. 85.

Excessive Damages. — In Van Olinda v. Hall, 88 Hun (N. Y.) 452, a verdict for two thousand dollars was held excessive, it appearing that the relations between the husband and wife were not cordial and that the husband did not provide for his family, and the evidence of enticement being very unsatisfactory.

173. 3. Kentucky — "Woman" Includes Girl of Twelve. — The Kentucky statute uses the word "woman" in the generic sense, and applies as well to a child of twelve years as to a woman of mature years. Couch v. Com., (Ky. 1895) 29 S. W. Rep. 29.

England. — To support an indictment under the statute 25 Vict., c. 100, § 56, it is not necessary to prove that the fraud of the prisoner was practised upon the child itself. Reg. v. Bellis, 17 Cox C. C. 660, 5 Reports 492.

But Active Influence for the Illicit Purpose Necessary. — See note 2.

175. (2) Gist of the Offense. — See note 1.

176. (3) When Offense Complete. — See note 2.

177. (5) Purpose of the Taking Must Be Proved. — See note 2.

178. See note 1.

3. Defenses — b. WHAT ARE NOT — (1) Consent of Female. — See note 6.

179. (2) Ignorance of Age. — See note 1.

(3) Previous Unchastity. — See note 2.

174. 1. Persuasion, Enticement, or Device Sufficient; Force Unnecessary. — Rex v. Jarvis, 20 Cox C. C. 249; State v. Bussey, 58 Kan. 679.

2. Instances. — The defendant invited the prosecutrix to get into his buggy and go with him to her sister's house, some miles distant; the prosecutrix consented; while on the way, the defendant had sexual intercourse with the prosecutrix once; there was no evidence that the defendant ever had any sexual intercourse with the prosecutrix afterward. It was held that this evidence was insufficient to establish a taking away for promiscuous prostitution within the meaning of Rev. Stat. Mo. (1899), § 1842. State v. Rorebeck, 158 Mo. 130.

An active participation, by inducement or otherwise, on the part of the defendant in causing the girl to leave home, must be shown in order to support a charge of taking a girl under sixteen years of age out of the parents' possession and against their will. A mere passive yielding to the girl's suggestion is not sufficient. Rex v. Jarvis, 20 Cox C. C. 249.

Where No Active Part Is Taken by the Defendant, who merely yields to the suggestion of the female, there is no abduction by such defendant. Rex v. Jarvis, 20 Cox C. C. 249.

Must Be Unlawful and Against Woman's Will. — State v. Hromadko, 123 Iowa 665.

175. 1. What Amounts to a Taking. — Where the evidence showed that the defendant went to the bed of the prosecutrix while she was asleep, and awoke her by placing his hand on her hip and tried to unbutton her drawers, against her will, it was held to constitute a taking within the meaning of the statute making it unlawful to take and detain a woman against her will with intent to have carnal knowledge of her; and that the evidence was sufficient to sustain a conviction. Couch v. Com., (Ky. 1895) 29 S. W. Rep. 29.

176. 2. When the Offense Is Complete. — Under Pen. Code Cal., the gravamen of the offense is the purpose or intent. Where, therefore, the defendant obtained a parent's consent to take his daughter from B county, in which she lived, into A county, for the ostensible purpose of procuring her legitimate employment, but, when once in A county, he decided to place the girl in a house of prostitution, it was held that, as the intent first manifested itself in A county, the crime must be held to have been committed there. People v. Lewis, 141 Cal. 543.

It is not necessary, in a prosecution for taking away from a parent a female under the age of eighteen years, for the purpose of concubinage, that the taking away should have been accompanied by sexual intercourse; the offense was complete when the defendant took her for that purpose. State v. Bobbst, 131 Mo. 328.

177. 2. Prostitution. — Prostitution is a word of general meaning and need not be defined. Tores v. State, (Tex. Crim. 1901) 63 S. W. Rep. 880.

The Act of June 7, 1887, relative to the detention of any female in any room, against her will, for the purpose of prostitution, or with intent to cause such female to become a prostitute, does not apply to a man holding sexual intercourse with his stepdaughter, in his own house. Bunfill v. People, 154 Ill. 640.

Concubinage. — South v. State, 97 Tenn. 501, citing 1 AM. AND ENG. ENCYC. OF LAW (2d ed.) 178, 179.

A long-continued illicit intercourse is not necessary to constitute the relation of concubinage. When a man and woman not married agree to cohabit with each other as though the marriage relation existed between them, without fixing any limit as to duration, she becomes his concubine as soon as cohabitation begins. State v. Bussey, 58 Kan. 679.

Under the Missouri statute, one who persuades a girl to leave her home and live with him for a number of days, at different places, as man and wife, is guilty of taking her away for the purpose of concubinage, even though he intended to marry the girl. State v. Adams, 179 Mo. 334.

178. 1. Chastity of the Woman. — The burden of proving the chastity of the woman is not on the state; but the want of chastity is a matter of defense. Griffin v. State, 109 Tenn. 17; Bradshaw v. People, 153 Ill. 156.

6. Consent of Female. — State v. Bobbst, 131 Mo. 328; South v. State, 97 Tenn. 496; Griffin v. State, 109 Tenn. 17, citing 1 AM. AND ENG. ENCYC. OF LAW (2d ed.) 178. See also Bradshaw v. People, 153 Ill. 156.

179. 1. Ignorance of Age of Female. — Riley v. State, (Miss. 1895) 18 So. Rep. 117; Tores v. State, (Tex. Crim. 1901) 63 S. W. Rep. 880.

2. Previous Unchastity of Woman. — State v. Bobbst, 131 Mo. 328.

The fact that the girl had had sexual intercourse with the defendant prior to the commission of the crime charged, is no defense if it appears, beyond a reasonable doubt, that the girl was living with her parents a chaste life

6. The Dress and Appearance of the child on the stand, and the absence of documents in the possession of the prosecution tending to show her age, may be considered by the jury on the question of age. People v. Ragone, 54 N. Y. App. Div. 498.

Inscription on Tombstone. — Where a witness testified that the girl was born the same year that a brother of his, who was then dead, was born, but that he could not recollect the year his brother was born, but the inscription on his dead brother's tombstone read that he was born in April, 1884, it was held that the evidence was admissible for the purpose of establishing the girl's age. Boyett v. State, 130 Ala. 77, 89 Am. St. Rep. 19.

181. 4. Evidence of Previous Unchastity. — A new trial will be ordered on a verdict obtained upon the testimony of an abandoned and criminal girl, actuated by revenge, and supported by the testimony of the keeper of a bawdy house, where it appears that the defendant, a policeman, directed the girl to a house of prostitution, thinking she would go there as a domestic. People v. Masterson, 96 N. Y. App. Div. 610.

Question of Parent's Consent for the Jury. — People v. Cerami, 101 N. Y. App. Div. 366.

182. 1. Letters. — Letters written to the defendant by the girl, and obtained from his custody, were permitted in evidence as explaining the relations of the parties and their feelings and conduct toward each other. South v. State, 97 Tenn. 496.

2. Evidence of Previous Marriage of Defendant Inadmissible. — People v. Cerami, 101 N. Y. App. Div. 366.

3. People v. Miller, 70 N. Y. App. Div. 592.

The Testimony of a Person Abducted by the Same Parties at the same time is sufficient corroboration. People v. Panyko, 71 N. Y. App. Div. 324.

Evidence Is Not Corroborative unless it tends to prove to some extent the guilt of the accused by connecting him with the crime charged. People v. Swasey, 77 N. Y. App. Div. 185.

A Medical Examination of a young girl twelve days after the commission of the offense, which shows that the girl had had sexual intercourse, but no time is fixed, is not corroborative where the girl testifies that at various times prior to the commission of the offense, she had had sexual intercourse. People v. Swasey, 77 N. Y. App. Div. 185.

183. 5. Abide the Judgment. — Harris v. Kansas Elevator Co., 66 Kan. 372.

184. 1. It is error to instruct that an "abiding conviction of the guilt" of the defendant, or full satisfaction of his guilt, is the equivalent of belief beyond a reasonable doubt. Williams v. State, 73 Miss. 823.

185. 3. If Able. — Under a Maine statute providing that the local board of health may remove a person infected with any disease dangerous to public health to a separate house and there care for him at his charge "if able," the phrase "if able" relates to the pecuniary ability of the party at the time the expenses were incurred. Greenville v. Beauto, (Me. 1904) 58 Atl. Rep. 1026.

ABORTION.

BY G. W. WALSH.

186. I. DEFINITION.— See note 1.

187. II. THE OFFENSE—HOW REGARDED—1. At Common Law—With Consent of Woman and Before Quickening.— See note 1.

188. 2. By Statute.— See note 2.

III. ELEMENTS OF THE OFFENSE—1. Pregnancy—Quick with Child.— See notes 3, 4.

2. Intent.— See note 5.

How Shown.— See note 7.

189. 3. Means.— See notes 2, 3.

190. See notes 1, 2.

4. Results—Death of Mother—Death of Child—By Statute.— See note 4.

Death of Child.— See note 5.

186. 1. State v. Magnell, 3 Penn. (Del.) 307.

187. 1. Abortion with Mother's Consent and Before Quickening.— Eggart v. State, 40 Fla. 527; State v. Alcorn, 7 Idaho 599, 97 Am. St. Rep. 252.

188. 2. See People v. Abbott, 116 Mich. 263.

Consent of Woman Immaterial.— Barrow v. State, 121 Ga. 187.

3. Stage of Pregnancy Immaterial.— State v. Carey, 76 Conn. 342; Eggart v. State, 40 Fla. 527; State v. Alcorn, 7 Idaho 599, 97 Am. St. Rep. 252; Com. v. Surles, 165 Mass. 59.

4. The Word "Child," as used in section 81 of the Georgia Penal Code, means a living child; that is to say, an unborn child so far developed as to be ordinarily called "quick," and which is still alive when the alleged unlawful means are employed to produce the miscarriage or abortion. Taylor v. State, 105 Ga. 846; Sullivan v. State, 121 Ga. 183; Barrow v. State, 121 Ga. 187.

5. Intent the Gravamen of Offense.— State v. Magnell, 3 Penn. (Del.) 307; State v. Jones, 4 Penn. (Del.) 109; State v. Crews, 128 N. Car. 581.

Criminal Intent Extends to Consequences of Act.— Barrow v. State, 121 Ga. 187.

7. Circumstances.— The intent of the accused is to be gathered from his acts, considered in connection with, and in the light of, the surrounding conditions and circumstances. State v. Alcorn, 7 Idaho 599, 97 Am. St. Rep. 252.

Evidence of Intention.— In State v. Jones, 4 Penn. (Del.) 109, the court said: "The specific intent here is the intent to produce the miscarriage, and the act or advice must relate to that intent. But that intent may be proved either by direct and positive testimony, such as the admission of the defendant, or other direct evidence of the fact, or by all the circumstances surrounding the case; and you may gather the intent from the entire case."

189. 2. Administering.— McCaughey v.

State, 156 Ind. 41; State v. Moothart, 109 Iowa 130.

As used in the statute the word "administer" means to give, and it is not necessary for the state to prove that the woman was compelled to take the medicine. State v. Jones, 4 Penn. (Del.) 109.

Under Rev. Stat. Fla. (1892), § 2618, if a party simply advises or prescribes the taking of any medicine, drug, or other noxious thing, unlawfully, and with criminal intent, the inhibited crime is complete whether the advice be followed or the prescription taken or not. Eggart v. State, 40 Fla. 527.

3. Character of Medicine.— The law does not require any particular kind, quantity, or quality of medicine to be alleged, nor would it be necessary to prove such kind, quantity, or quality on trial. State v. Dean, 85 Mo. App. 473, citing State v. Van Houten, 37 Mo. 357.

190. 1. Mode of Accomplishment Not Material.— A person uses an instrument or other means when he furnishes them to be applied to the forbidden purpose; it is not necessary that he must have performed an operation in person. State v. Moothart, 109 Iowa 130.

Means Need Not Be Effectual.— State v. Crews, 128 N. Car. 581. But see contra, under the Ohio statute, State v. Springer, 4 Ohio Dec. 169, 3 Ohio N. P. 120.

2. Texas Statute.— Fretwell v. State, 43 Tex. Crim. 501.

4. Under Statute.— State v. Alcorn, 7 Idaho 599, 97 Am. St. Rep. 252; People v. Abbott, 116 Mich. 263; State v. Dean, 85 Mo. App. 473.

In New Jersey, under the Crimes Act, 1898, the crime of abortion is designated as a high misdemeanor, but for such offense when death results a severer penalty is provided by the section defining the crime. State v. Meyer, 65 N. J. L. 237, 86 Am. St. Rep. 634, reversing 64 N. J. L. 382.

5. At Common Law.— State v. Alcorn, 7 Idaho 599, 97 Am. St. Rep. 252; State v. Prude, 76 Miss. 543.

3. Generally Woman Not Criminally Liable.—State v. Smith, 99 Iowa 26, 61 Am. St. Rep. 219; State v. Prude, 76 Miss. 543; Smartt v. State, (Tenn. 1904) 80 S. W. Rep. 586; Moore v. State, 37 Tex. Crim. 552.

4. The Connecticut statute makes it a crime for a woman to procure her own miscarriage. State v. Carey, 76 Conn. 342.

5. Seifert v. State, 160 Ind. 464, 98 Am. St. Rep. 340; Moore v. State, 37 Tex. Crim. 552; State v. Lilly, 47 W. Va. 496.

The Nebraska statute (Crim. Code, §§ 1, 2) defining accessories is declaratory of the common law; one who is present when the crime is committed, aiding and assisting therein, is, notwithstanding these sections, a principal, although his hand was not the instrument through which the crime was perpetrated. Dixon v. State, 46 Neb. 298.

A Person Sending, and Directing the Use of, medicine for producing an abortion is a principal. Burris v. State, (Ark. 1904) 84 S. W. Rep. 723.

Pennsylvania.—Com. v. Bell, 4 Pa. Super. Ct. 187.

Tennessee.—Smartt v. State, (Tenn. 1904) 80 S. W. Rep. 589, quoting 1 AM. AND ENG. ENCYC. OF LAW (2d ed.) 191.

Texas.—Miller v. State, 37 Tex. Crim. 579, citing 1 AM. AND ENG. ENCYC. OF LAW (2d ed.) 192; Moore v. State, 37 Tex. Crim. 552; Hunter v. State, 38 Tex. Crim. 61.

2. Corroboration Not Necessary.—State v. Smith, 99 Iowa 26, 61 Am. St. Rep. 219; Com. v. Bell, 4 Pa. Super. Ct. 187; Smartt v. State, (Tenn. 1904) 80 S. W. Rep. 589, quoting 1 AM. AND ENG. ENCYC. OF LAW (2d ed.) 192; Miller v. State, 37 Tex. Crim. 579, citing 1 AM. AND ENG. ENCYC. OF LAW (2d ed.) 192.

3. Weight of Testimony Question for Jury.—State v. Carey, 76 Conn. 342; Seifert v. State, 160 Ind. 464, 98 Am. St. Rep. 340; Smartt v. State, (Tenn. 1904) 80 S. W. Rep. 589, quoting 1 AM. AND ENG. ENCYC. OF LAW (2d ed.) 192.

4. Third Persons as Accomplices and Accessories.—In those states in which a woman is not guilty of a crime in procuring her own miscarriage, a third person who furnishes her with the means or appliances is chargeable as a principal only. He cannot be charged as an accessory or accomplice in such a case, for want of a principal. Such third person can be an accessory or accomplice only when he aids a person other than the woman in procuring the abortion. Moore v. State, 37 Tex. Crim. 552.

5. Knowledge of the Object in View Necessary.—Moore v. State, 37 Tex. Crim. 552.

193. 1. Failure of Attempt Immaterial.—State v. Magnell, 3 Penn. (Del.) 307; Eggart v. State, 40 Fla. 527; State v. Moothart, 109 Iowa 130; People v. Conrad, 102 N. Y. App. Div. 566.

The Use of a Harmless Substance by a woman, who believes she is taking a noxious drug, with the intent to commit an abortion, renders such woman guilty of an attempt to commit an abortion. Reg. v. Brown, 63 J. P. 790.

In Ohio there is no such crime as attempting to procure an abortion. State v. Springer, 4 Ohio Dec. 169, 3 Ohio N. P. 120.

2. Evidence that Medicine Is Intended for Procuring Abortion.—The mere fact that a medicine is labeled, "Caution—ladies are warned against using these tablets during pregnancy," is not sufficient evidence that such medicine is intended or represented as a means of causing an abortion. Rex v. Karn, 5 Can. Crim. Cas. 543.

3. Woman upon Whom the Abortion Is Committed as a Witness.—State v. Carey, 76 Conn. 342; Com. v. Bell, 4 Pa. Super. Ct. 187.

In Texas a woman cannot testify against her husband in a case in which he committed an abortion on her before they were married. Miller v. State, 37 Tex. Crim. 575.

4. Admissibility of Dying Declarations.—Dunn v. People, 172 Ill. 582; State v. Meyer, 65 N. J. L. 237, 86 Am. St. Rep. 634, reversing 64 N. J. L. 382.

Dying Declarations of Woman Held Admissible.—Seifert v. State, 160 Ind. 464, 98 Am. St. Rep. 340; Com. v. Keene, 7 Pa. Super. Ct. 293.

6. Res Gestæ.—State v. Alcorn, 7 Idaho 599, 97 Am. St. Rep. 252.

Narrative of Past Transaction.—State v. Young, 55 Kan. 349.

194. 2. Corpus Delicti.—Seifert v. State, 160 Ind. 464, 98 Am. St. Rep. 340.

The corpus delicti may be proved by declarations and circumstances, but the order in which evidence proving the different material facts is introduced is not material. State v. Alcorn, 7 Idaho 599, 97 Am. St. Rep. 252.

It is competent for a physician testifying as an expert to give as his opinion, from an examination of the body after death, and from his previous knowledge of the deceased, that it was not necessary to produce an abortion in order to save the life of the deceased, State v. McCoy, 15 Utah 136.

5. Admissibility of Medical Books. — Clark v. Com., 111 Ky. 443. See also the title DOCUMENTARY EVIDENCE.

The general rule that medical books are not admissible in evidence is subject to the exception that specified books may be introduced in rebuttal to contradict a witness who has testified to having derived therefrom teaching that they do not contain, or whose teachings are substantially different from that testified to, Eggart v. State, 40 Fla. 527.

A petition for opening a road, describing it as beginning about one hundred and fifty yards from a dwelling, insufficiently describes the place of beginning under the Oregon statute. Sime v. Spencer, 30 Oregon 340.

Time — Offense Committed About the Time. — The word about is a very comprehensive term. It may cover a considerable length of time. Under the evidence rule that other offenses committed at the same time may be shown, a distinct offense committed "about the time" of the offense for which defendant was on trial does not show such other offense to have been committed at the same time, James v. State, 40 Tex. Crim. 195.

Taxation. — The word about is equivalent to the word "substantial," when employed in framing a state statute providing that a county board may set forth by an order substantially the amount of excess taxation required. Peoria, etc., Union R. Co. v. People, 198 Ill. 318.

"About to Sign." — The statement in a journal entry that the speaker was "about to sign" bills means that he was at that time engaged in signing bills. State v. Cahill, (Wyo, 1904) 75 Pac. Rep. 433.

199. 1. Executory Contract of Sale — Contracts to Furnish "About So Much." — Bass Dry Goods Co. v. Granite City Mfg. Co., 113 Ga. 1142, citing 1 AM. AND ENG. ENCYC. different meaning, and that according to the common understanding persons leaving their houses on visits, excursions, or other temporary occasions, do not remove from or cease to occupy them, it is sufficient for the present purpose to say that, as matter of law, in order to avoid the defendants' policy by reason of the condition therein against vacancy, the insured premises must not only have been vacant for more than thirty days without their assent, but the vacancy must have been occasioned 'by the removal of the * * * occupant' therefrom."

Absolute Predestination means that "God foreknew and predestined all things whatsoever that may come to pass, whether with reference to the material universe or the salvation of souls," — that is, God predestinated all things which happen. Bennett v. Morgan, 112 Ky. 512.

Absolute Assignment. — An instrument passing the whole right of an assignor in the moneys payable under a building contract to the assignees by way of security is an absolute assignment (not purporting to be by way of charge only), within the meaning of the Judicature Act, 1873, § 25, subs. 6. Hughes v. Pump House Hotel Co., (1902) 2 K. B. 190, distinguishing Mercantile Bank v. Evans, (1899) 2 Q. B. 613.

A Contingent Claim Does Not Become Absolute within the meaning of the Decedents' Act until it becomes a claim proper to be presented to the County Court for final adjudication as a claim against the estate. Hazlett v. Blakely, (Neb. 1903) 97 N. W. Rep. 808.

"An abstract is defined to be 'that which comprises or concentrates in itself the essential qualities of a larger thing or of several things; an abridgment, compendium, epitome, or synopsis.'" Hess v. Draffen, 99 Mo. App. 580.

1a. Abstract Books Not Subject to Taxation. — In Loomis v. Jackson, 130 Mich. 594, following Perry v. Big Rapids, 67 Mich. 146, 11 Am. St. Rep. 570, it was held that abstract books used in furnishing abstracts of title to land were not subject to taxation, though they were by statute made subject to levy under execution. Compare Leon Loan, etc., Co. v. Equalization Board, 86 Iowa 127, 41 Am. St. Rep. 486.

1b. Abstract Books Subject to Execution. — Loomis v. Jackson, 130 Mich. 594. This case was decided under Pub. Acts Mich. 1899, p. 308, it having been theretofore held (Dart v. Woodhouse, 40 Mich. 399, 29 Am. Rep. 544) that abstract books referring to land titles, being unpublished manuscript, were not leviable property.

213. 1. In Illinois the vendor must furnish evidence of his title, which by usage is an abstract. Brewer v. Fox, 62 Ill. App. 609.

2. Purchaser Must Examine for Himself. — Symms v. Cutter, 9 Kan. App. 210. See also Webster Realty Co. v. Thomas, (Supm. Ct. App. Div.) 94 N. Y. Supp. 916.

214. 1. Delay in Furnishing Abstract Waived by Making Payment under Contract. — McAlpine v. Reicheneker, 56 Kan. 100.

7. Perfect Title. — Where the contract was that the vendor furnish an abstract showing a complete or perfect title, the vendee was held entitled to rescind the sale on the failure of the vendor to furnish such an abstract. Loring v. Oxford, 18 Tex. Civ. App. 415.

Good and Marketable Title. — A contract for an abstract showing a perfect title requires that the abstract show a good and marketable title. Gates v. Parmly, 93 Wis. 294.

A Defect in an Abstract of Title Which Is Not Insisted on by the purchaser as the reason for refusing the deed is not available as a defense to a suit against him for specific performance where the vendor would have been able to cure the defect and offered to do so. *Wold v. 216. 2. Right of Access to Public Records. — Bell v. Commonwealth Title Ins., etc., Co., 189 U. S. 131.

Rule in Other States. — In Georgia it is held that persons wishing to make copies of, or abstracts from, the records of land titles for the purpose of compiling abstracts of titles to be used in a private abstract and land title business are not entitled to do so without obtaining the consent and paying the fees of the custodian of such records. Land Title Warranty, etc., Co. v. Tanner, 99 Ga. 470.

The Kansas statute confers on abstractors the right of access to the public records for the purpose of carrying on their business. Allen v. Hopkins, 62 Kan. 175.

3. The Mississippi statute requires the boards of county supervisors to make abstracts of land titles for their respective counties, and to keep them up to date at all times, and provides for compensation to be paid by the landowners. Yazoo, etc., Valley R. Co. v. Edwards, 78 Miss. 950.

217. 2. Glawatz v. People's Guaranty Search Co., 49 N. Y. App. Div. 465.

219. 6. Usage. — In Eberhardt v. Miller, 71 Ill. App. 215, the court said: "We suppose it is the usual practice in making abstracts of title to manifest such facts by the affidavits of persons cognizant thereof, and while such affidavits are not legal proof of the matters therein set forth they are usually accepted as sufficient for the purpose."

7. Under the Illinois statute an abstract of title is admissible in evidence only when it is stated on oath that the original deeds or other instruments "are lost or destroyed, or not within the power of the party to produce the same, and that the records thereof are destroyed by fire or otherwise." Walton v. Follansbee, 165 Ill. 480.

Under the Texas statute documentary evidence of title not contained in the abstract is not admissible. Parker v. Cockrell, (Tex. Civ. App. 1895) 31 S. W. Rep. 221.

1*a*. The Nebraska statute (Laws 1887, p. 565) provides that when any abstractor shall have filed his bond an abstract of title certified to and issued by him shall "be received in all courts as prima facie evidence of the existence of the record of deeds, mortgages, and other instruments, conveyances, or liens affecting the real estate mentioned in such abstract, and that such record is as described in said abstract of title." Gate City Abstract Co. v. Post, 55 Neb. 742.

Contract, Not Tort. — Thomas v. Carson, 46 Neb. 765; Glawatz v. People's Guaranty Search Co., 49 N. Y. App. Div. 465.

Abstractors Required to Give Bond. — In some states abstractors are required to give bond with sureties, payable to the state, on which they are liable to persons injured by their negligence or want of skill; but this provision does not constitute them public officers. Allen v. Hopkins, 62 Kan. 175.

221. 2. Measure of Damages. — Keuthan v. St. Louis Trust Co., 101 Mo. App. 1. See also Security Abstract of Title Co. v. Longacre, 56 Neb. 469.

4. Williams v. Hanly, 16 Ind. App. 464.

5. Failure to note a judgment lien does not render the abstractor liable where the purchaser loses the land by the enforcement of an unrecorded mortgage executed before the rendition of the judgment, because the loss in such case is not the result of the failure of the abstract to show the judgment lien; and a claim that the purchaser would not have taken the land if the judgment lien had appeared in the abstract of title is too remote. Denton v. Nashville Title Co., (Tenn. 1904) 79 S. W. Rep. 799.

222. ABUSE AND MISUSE. — See note 1.

Bldg., etc., Assoc. v. West Jersey Title, etc., Co., 64 N. J. L. 27.

The Kansas statute provides that abstractors shall give a bond, and that they "shall be liable on said bond to any person or persons for whom he or they may compile, make, or furnish abstracts of title, to the amount of damage done to said person or persons by any incompleteness, imperfection, or error" in such abstract. Allen v. Hopkins, 62 Kan. 175.

Abstractor Employed by Agent of Undisclosed Principal is liable for damages to the undisclosed principal. Young v. Lohr, 118 Iowa 624.

221. 7. Brown v. Sims, 22 Ind. App. 317, 72 Am. St. Rep. 308; Symms v. Cutter, 9 Kan. App. 210, quoting 1 AM. AND ENG. ENCYC. OF LAW (2d ed.) 221; Denton v. Nashville Title Co., (Tenn. 1904) 79 S. W. Rep. 799. See also Thomas v. Carson, 46 Neb. 765; Glawatz v. People's Guaranty Search Co., 49 N. Y. App. Div. 465.

The statute relating to bonded abstractors (Comp. Stat. Neb. (1897), §§ 65-69) was intended to extend the liability of abstractors beyond the limits fixed by the common law, and one who purchases real estate on the faith of a certificate of title furnished to his vendor by a bonded abstractor may maintain an action for damages grounded on the failure of the abstractor to make the proper search and true certificate. Gate City Abstract Co. v. Post, 55 Neb. 742.

222. 1. Kline v. Hibbard, 80 Hun (N. Y.) 50.

Abuse of Discretion. — Stewart v. Stewart, 28 Ind. App. 378; Citizens St. R. Co. v. Heath, 29 Ind. App. 406. As ground for a new trial, see Stroup v. Raymond, 183 Pa. St. 279.

Abuse a Woman or Child. — Chambers v. State, 46 Neb. 447, following Palin v. State, 38 Neb. 867.

The term abusing is equivalent to carnally knowing in a statute punishing the rape of a female child. "The abusing, construed with the carnally knowing, means the imposing upon, deflowering, degrading, ill-treating, debauching, and ruining socially, as well as morally, perhaps, of the virgin of such tender years, who, when yielding willingly, does so in ignorance of the consequences, and of her right and power to resist. * * * To have injured the organs in some way other than by endeavoring to penetrate with his person, if done with her consent, though it would be abusing her, would not be a crime, because there was no act of carnal knowledge." State v. Monds, 130 N. Car. 697.

But the law does not require cities and towns to construct approaches from the houses or lots of adjacent owners to the traveled part of the way, or to grade and construct the way up to the lines of the lots. Atty.-Gen. v. Collins, (Mass. 1904) 71 N. E. Rep. 574, following Metcalf v. Boston, 158 Mass. 284.

Extent of Right. — The absolute right to ingress and egress is limited to a street or highway which is the only means of access to the property. Therefore the owner of abutting property cannot enjoin the obstruction or closing of a street or highway if he has other reasonable means of access. Kinnear Mfg. Co. v. Beatty, 65 Ohio St. 283, 87 Am. St. Rep. 600.

The extent of the abutting proprietor's rights is that the street, including roadway and sidewalk, shall not be closed or obstructed so as to impair ingress to or egress from his lot by himself and those whom he invites there for trade or other purposes. *Hester v. To the same effect, see Chicago, etc., R. Co. v. Milwaukee, etc., Electric R. Co., 95 Wis. 561, 60 Am. St. Rep. 137.

Question Unsettled in New Jersey. — The contention that the construction of an electric railway upon a country road imposes a servitude in addition to that charged upon the lands by the original taking for a public highway, entitling the owner of the fee to additional compensation to be first made, was said to be an unsettled question in New Jersey. *Ehret v. Milburn v. Fowler, 27 Hun (N. Y.) 568. The plaintiff is entitled to the lateral support of the highway for her building as against a wrongdoer, and as any unlawful obstruction or interference with a highway is, per se, a nuisance, negligence in the digging need not be shown."

was held that the making of public improvements under direct and positive legislative authority, although it may cause damage to abutting owners by its indirect consequences, does not constitute a taking within the constitutional provision which forbids the taking of private property for public purposes without just compensation.

The public may regulate by law the use of its public ways in such manner as the legislature may think will best serve the public interest. The kind of use that may be permitted is of no consequence to the abutting landowner. He has been paid his damages for the creation of the way, so the public controls its use, and he must take his chances, with the rest of the community in which he lives, of any inconvenience suffered by reason of the use that the public may see fit to permit. *Taylor v. IV. OFFENSES WHICH ADMIT OF ACCESSORIES — Common-law Felony. —

See note 4.

257. 1. Komrs v. People, 31 Colo. 214 citing 1 AM. AND ENG. ENCYC. OF LAW (2d ed.) 257; State v. Berger, 121 Iowa 585, quoting 1 AM. AND ENG. ENCYC. OF LAW (2d ed.) 257; State v. Roberts, 50 W. Va. 422; Reg. v. Campbell, 2 Can. Crim. Cas. (Quebec) 357, 8 Quebec Q. B. 322.

Mansf. Dig. Ark., § 1505, defines an accessory as one "who stands by, aids, abets, or assists," in the execution of a crime. Under the common law one so indicted would be a principal, and so his guilt would not be dependent upon the guilt of the principal in the first degree. Williams v. U. S., 1 Indian Ter. 560.

By the Texas statute (Pen. Code 1895, art. 86) an accessory is defined as "one who knowing that an offense has been committed conceals the offender, or gives him any other aid in order that he may evade an arrest or trial or the execution of his sentence." Street v. State, 39 Tex. Crim. 134.

A Mere Spectator Is Not an Accessory under the Illinois code making those who are present aiding and abetting accessories and punishable as principals. Jones v. People, 166 Ill. 264.

258. 1. Riggins v. State, 116 Ga. 592; Begley v. Com., (Ky. 1904) 82 S. W. Rep. 285; Pearce v. Territory, 11 Okla. 438; State v. Roberts, 50 W. Va. 422. See also Lamb v. State, (Neb. 1903) 95 N. W. Rep. 1050.

Crim. Code Neb., §§ 1, 2, defining accessories, is in accord with the common law, and so one who aids and abets, being present, is a principal and not an accessory. Dixon v. State, 46 Neb. 298; Casey v. State, 49 Neb. 403.

2. People v. Garnett, 129 Cal. 364; Anderson v. State, 39 Tex. Crim. 83; Robertson v. State, (Tex. Crim. 1904) 80 S. W. Rep. 1000.

Some Overt Active Assistance, such as furnishing the person who has committed the principal crime with a horse to flee on, or giving him a gun with the view of resisting arrest, is necessary to make one an accessory after the fact. Chenault v. State, (Tex. Crim. 1904) 81 S. W. Rep. 971.

3. Principal and Accessory Before the Fact Distinguished. — Griminger v. State, 44 Tex. Crim. 21, citing 1 AM. AND ENG. ENCYC. OF LAW (2d ed.) 258. See also Wilkerson v. State, (Tex.

Crim. 1899) 57 S. W. Rep. 956; Mitchell v. State, 44 Tex. Crim. 228.

4. Absence Necessary to Constitute an Accessory. — Hill v. State, 42 Neb. 503; State v. Roberts, 50 W. Va. 422.

How Modified by Some of the Criminal Codes. — See Jones v. People, 166 Ill. 264.

5. Under the Colorado Statute "an accessory during the fact is a person who stands by, without interfering or giving such help as may be in his or her power to prevent a criminal offense from being committed." Farrell v. People, 8 Colo. App. 524.

6. State v. Roberts, 50 W. Va. 422.

259. 1. When All the Participants Are Principals — Accomplices and Principals Distinguished. — People v. Repke, 103 Mich. 459; State v. Paxton, 126 Mo. 500; Pryor v. State, 40 Tex. Crim. 643; Williamson v. State, (Tex. Crim. 1895) 29 S. W. Rep. 470; English v. State, 34 Tex. Crim. 190; Winnard v. State, (Tex. Crim. 1895) 30 S. W. Rep. 555; Tittle v. State, (Tex. Crim. 1895) 31 S. W. Rep. 677; McDonald v. State, 34 Tex. Crim. 556; Isaacs v. State, 36 Tex. Crim. 505; Colter v. State, 37 Tex. Crim. 284; Barnett v. State, (Tex. Crim. 1904) 80 S. W. Rep. 1013.

In order that confederates in crime may be guilty as principals, "the statute requires either their presence and participancy, or if the parties were not actually present, then those not actually present must be doing some act in furtherance of the common design, or they must be engaged in procuring aid or arms or means of some kind to assist in the commission of the offense while the others are executing the unlawful act." Wright v. State, 40 Tex. Crim. 45.

260. 3. State v. Rowe, 104 Iowa 323; State v. Elliott, 61 Kan. 523, both cases citing 1 AM. AND ENG. ENCYC. OF LAW (2d ed.) 260.

A man may be guilty of raping his wife by aiding and abetting another man to violate her person, even though he could not be guilty of the actual doing of the offense. State v. Haines, 51 La. Ann. 731.

4. Lay v. State, 12 Ind. App. 362; Wagner v. State, 43 Neb. 1.

263. 1. Riggins v. State, 116 Ga. 592; Oerter v. State, 57 Neb. 135; Casey v. State, 49 Neb. 403; State v. Roberts, 50 W. Va. 422.

3. Brooks v. State, 103 Ga. 50; Williams v. U. S., 1 Indian Ter. 560; Strait v. State, 77 Miss. 693; Com. v. House, 10 Pa. Super. Ct. 259; Kingsbury v. State, 37 Tex. Crim. 259. See also Begley v. Com. (Ky. 1904) 82 S. W. Rep. 285.

Under Penal Code Cal., § 32, providing for the punishment of accessories to a "person charged" with a felony, it is necessary first that the criminal should be indicted and charged, or an information filed against him. People v. Garnett, 129 Cal. 364.

Penal Code Tex., art. 90, provides for the trial of an accessory before the principal when the principal has escaped. The principal if caught must be tried first, and if acquitted the accessory must be freed; also, a brother cannot be accessory to a principal. Therefore an accessory must be discharged upon the death of his principal unconvicted. Moore v. State, 40 Tex. Crim. 389.

One Who Counsels, Advises, and Procures the Commission of a Crime may be convicted of a higher degree of the offense than the one who perpetrates the crime. State v. Gray, 55 Kan. 135.

5. State v. Jones, 115 Iowa 113; State v. Rowe, 104 Iowa 323; Com. v. Bradley, 16 Pa. Super. Ct. 561; State v. Roberts, 50 W. Va. 422.

The Texas Penal Code provides for the trial and indictment of an accessory, before that of the principal, when the principal has escaped. Under this statute a judgment against an accessory is evidence against the principal. Dent v. State, 43 Tex. Crim. 126.

Parties Ignorant of Crime Who Render Aid After They Discover the Crime. — Those who begin to aid a thief to carry away stolen property not knowing it was stolen, but who learn the fact and continue to aid in the asportation, are guilty as principals. Green v. State, 114 Ga. 918.

2. Accessory Rendering Assistance. — Street v. State, 39 Tex. Crim. 134; Caylor v. State, 44 Tex. Crim. 118.

Receiving Stolen Goods immediately after the commission of the crime renders one liable for aiding and abetting even though the goods be returned to the thief. Reg. v. Campbell, 8 Quebec Q. B. 322.

Under the Connecticut statutes one who receives stolen goods is an accessory and his liability is independent of that of the principal. State v. Kaplan, 72 Conn. 635.

In construing Penal Code Ga., §§ 171, 172, the judge uses the following language: "In this state, receiving stolen goods, knowing the same to have been stolen, is indictable and punishable as an offense separate and distinct from the larceny itself, although the offender's connection with the latter crime is recognized to be that of an accessory after the fact, and it is provided that he 'shall receive the same punishment as would be inflicted on the person convicted of having stolen or feloniously taken the property.'" Springer v. State, 102 Ga. 447.

Penal Code N. Y., § 550, providing for the offense of receiving stolen property, was construed to apply to a defendant who had allowed stolen money to be placed to his credit in bank. People v. Ammon, 92 N. Y. App. Div. 205.

And see the title RECEIVING STOLEN GOODS.

3. What Constitutes an Accessory After the Fact. — Chitister v. State, 33 Tex. Crim. 635.

One who, knowing that a crime has been committed, makes an offer to the perpetrator that he will not prosecute if the latter will pay him what he owes him, which offer is not accepted, is not an accessory after the fact. Robertson v. State, (Tex. Crim. 1904) 80 S. W. Rep. 1000.

It is not essential that the aid rendered shall be of a character to enable the criminal to effect his personal escape or concealment, but it is sufficient if it enables him to evade present arrest and prosecution. Gatlin v. State, 40 Tex. Crim. 116.

Illustration. — See Hearn v. State, 43 Fla. 151.

268. 2. Mere Inaction or Omission Not Sufficient. — State v. Doty, 57 Kan. 840, citing 1 AM. AND ENG. ENCYC. OF LAW (2d ed.) 269 [268].

There must be some affirmative act taken with a view to the concealment of the crime, in order to constitute one an accessory. People v. Garnett, 129 Cal. 364.

One who is merely present at the commission of a crime and who fails to report it is guilty of no offense. Monroe v. State, (Tex. Crim. 1904) 81 S. W. Rep. 726.

An Agreement Not to Prosecute is in violation of Penal Code Tex. 1895, art. 291, and makes those so agreeing accessories after the fact. Gatlin v. State, 40 Tex. Crim. 116.

3. Chitister v. State, 33 Tex. Crim. 635.

A mother who advises her daughter to say that some one other than her stepfather is the father of an illegitimate child born to the daughter, is not an accessory after the fact. State v. Doty, 57 Kan. 835.

Words "Immediately, Continuously, and Wholly Disable" Construed and Cases Reviewed. — See Brendon v. Traders, etc., Acc. Co., 84 N. Y. App. Div. 530.

Confined to House. — Where the policy provides that the insured must be totally disabled and confined to the house in order to recover on the policy, the fact that the insured is able to go to the office of the physician in a car does not prevent a recovery on the policy if he is incapacitated for work or business. The clause must receive a reasonable interpretation. Mutual Ben. Assoc. v. Nancarrow, 18 Colo. App. 274.

305. 1. Riding Construed. — Standing on the platform of a railroad car is not riding "in" a passenger conveyance within the meaning of a policy providing that double the sum specified should be paid, if the insured should be injured "while riding as a passenger in a passenger conveyance." Aetna L. Ins. Co. v. Vandecar, (C. C. A.) 86 Fed. Rep. 282, Thayer, J., dissenting. See also Van Bokkelen v. Travelers Ins. Co., 34 N. Y. App. Div. 399, affirmed 167 N. Y. 590.

388. *2a. "The meaning of a term in such common use as an accommodation train is generally, if not universally, known. Webster defines it to be 'one running at moderate speed, and stopping at all, or nearly all, stations.' Passenger travel is partly local, from station to station and for different distances along the route, as well as to the destination of the train. Through trains and limited trains do not meet the demands of such travel, and, in the general understanding, an accommodation train is one designed to accommodate the public in that respect, and arranged to stop at most of the stations to effect that object." A prosecutrix who has been forced is not an accomplice, and her evidence does not require corroboration, nor will the fact that the crime amounts to rape bring it within the rule requiring corroboration of the evidence given by the woman raped. State v. Kouhns, 103 Iowa 720.

To the same effect, see Smith v. State, 108 Ala. 1, 54 Am. St. Rep. 140.

Adultery. — One who admits participation in adultery is an accomplice. State v. Scott, 28 Oregon 331.

Rape. — The prosecutrix in a rape case is held not to be an accomplice. Hamilton v. State, 36 Tex. Crim. 372.

A woman who agrees not to inform on the man who raped her, but to shield him from the consequences of his crime, is not an accomplice of the man. Miller v. State, (Tex. Crim. 1903) 72 S. W. Rep. 996.

Statutory Rape. — A girl under the age of consent, although consenting to the act, is not an accomplice of the man who commits the offense of statutory rape upon her. State v. Hilberg, 22 Utah 39; Bond v. State, 63 Ark. 504, 58 Am. St. Rep. 129; Smith v. State, (Tex. Crim. 1903) 73 S. W. Rep. 401.

Accomplices in Other Similar Crimes. — A witness who did not participate in the crime for which the defendant is on trial is not an accomplice, although he may have been his accomplice in other distinct offenses of the same nature. People v. Sternberg, 111 Cal. 3.

Mere Associates of Criminals are not accomplices. St. Louis v. Roche, 128 Mo. 541.

False Swearing. — Where the defendant was prosecuted for false swearing as to the age of a girl with whom he eloped she was held to be an accomplice whose testimony required corroboration. Smith v. State, 37 Tex. Crim. 488.

It Is for the Jury to decide whether or not the corroborating witness is also an accomplice; and a verdict of guilty raises a presumption that they found him not to be an accomplice. But if incompetent testimony is admitted to show that the witness is not an accomplice, the verdict will be set aside. People v. Creegan, 121 Cal. 554.

ACCORD AND SATISFACTION.

BY O. D. ESTEE.

408. I. DEFINITION AND GENERAL PRINCIPLES — Definition. — See note 1.

409. Effect — Rescission. — See note 1.

410. II. THE AGREEMENT OF ACCORD — 1. Subject-matter of the Accord. — See note 2.

412. 3. Consideration of the Accord — a. GENERALLY — Must Be of Benefit to the Creditor. — See notes 3, 4.

413. b. PART PAYMENT OF LIQUIDATED DEBT OR DEMAND — (1) Common-law Rule — Part Payment No Satisfaction. — See note 1.

408. 1. Hennessy v. St. Paul City R. Co., 65 Minn. 13; Lestienne v. Ernst, 5 N. Y. App. Div. 378, citing 1 AM. AND ENG. ENCYC. OF LAW (2d ed.) 408.

Other Definitions. — An accord is "an agreement to accept, in extinction of an obligation, something different from or less than that to which the person agreeing to accept is entitled." Rued v. Cooper, 119 Cal. 463; Arnett v. Smith, 11 N. Dak. 55.

"An accord and satisfaction is the substitution, by agreement of the parties, of something else in place of the original claim; and, when executed, its effect is to extinguish the antecedent liability." Boston Newmarket Gold Min. Co. v. Orme, 18 Colo. App. 359. To the same effect see Continental Nat. Bank v. McGeoch, 92 Wis. 286; Rettinghouse v. Ashland, 106 Wis. 595.

Receiving payment in a different medium from that called for in the contract is an accord and satisfaction. San Juan v. St. John's Gas Co., 195 U. S. 510.

The Minds of the Parties Must Meet in making the agreement. See Harby v. Henes, (Supm. Ct. App. T.) 45 Misc. (N. Y.) 366.

409. 1. See Boston Newmarket Gold Min. Co. v. Orme, 18 Colo. App. 359; Arnett v. Smith, 11 N. Dak. 55.

Personal Injuries. — Where a person becomes totally blind from injuries after acceptance of a payment in full satisfaction and discharge of all claims, it has been held that he may maintain an action despite such payment, it being a question for the jury whether he has by his conduct debarred himself from suing for damages. Ellen v. Great Northern R. Co., 49 W. R. 395.

Where the plaintiff accepts a sum of money from the defendant in settlement of his claim for personal injuries, the plaintiff cannot, in the absence of fraud, retain the money and sue the defendant on the theory that the agreement was invalid. Drahan v. Lake Shore, etc., R. Co., 162 Mass. 435.

A Resumption of Cohabitation subsequent to the accruing of instalments under a deed of separation between a husband and wife does not operate as an accord and satisfaction of a cause of action the wife may have for the default of the husband in paying such instalments. Macan v. Macan, 70 L. J. K. B. 90.

4. Adequacy of Consideration. — "The adequacy of the consideration will not be gone into by the court if it be what is known to the law as a 'valuable consideration.'" Chicago, etc., R. Co. v. Clark, (C. C. A.) 92 Fed. Rep. 968, reversed on other points in 178 U. S. 353.

Waiver of Right to Appeal. — The waiving of the right to appeal by a judgment debtor is sufficient consideration to support an agreement to discharge a judgment by the payment of a smaller sum than the amount due. Williams v. Blumenthal, 27 Wash. 24.

413. 1. United States. — Lincoln Sav. Bank, etc., Co. v. Allen, (C. C. A.) 82 Fed. Rep. 148. Compare San Juan v. St. John's Gas Co., 195 U. S. 510.

South Carolina.—Riggs v. Home Mut. F. Protection Assoc., 61 S. Car. 448.

Wisconsin.—Prairie Grove Cheese Mfg. Co. v. Luder, 115 Wis. 20.

Comment on Common-law Rule.—The common-law rule is not looked upon with favor and is confined strictly to those cases that fall within it. Chicago, etc., R. Co. v. Clark, 178 U. S. 353, reversing (C. C. A.) 92 Fed. Rep. 968; Jackson v. Volkening, 81 N. Y. App. Div. 36.

Insolvency of Debtor.—Where the debtor was insolvent and made an agreement with his creditor that he would not go through bankruptcy if the creditor would accept part payment of the debt in satisfaction thereof, and the debtor was forced to borrow the money to make the part payment, there was a sufficient consideration to support the accord and satisfaction. Rotan Grocery Co. v. Noble, (Tex. Civ. App. 1904) 81 S. W. Rep. 586.

Where a judgment debtor has no property subject to execution, but agrees to pay a smaller amount in satisfaction of the whole judgment by paying monthly instalments out of his salary which is exempt from execution, the payment of the amount agreed upon and the giving of the satisfaction piece to the debtor constitute an accord and satisfaction. Meeker v. Requa, 94 N. Y. App. Div. 300.

Payment before maturity by an insolvent debtor, of a part of the debt, out of a fund that his creditors could not reach is a good consideration for the discharge of the whole debt. Dalrymple v. Craig, 149 Mo. 345.

Receipt under Protest.—Hodges v. Tennessee Implement Co., 123 Ala. 572; Jennings v. Durlfinger, 23 Ind. App. 673; Pease v. Sagnaw, 126 Mich. 436; Levenson v. Gillen Pub. Co., (Supm. Ct. App. T.) 30 Misc. (N. Y.) 454.

Receiving a check under protest, that is tendered in full settlement of the claim, does not make an accord and satisfaction. Robinson v. Leatherbee Tie, etc., Co., 120 Ga. 901.

Rule Changed by Statute in Some States.—Chicago, etc., R. Co. v. Clark, 178 U. S. 366, citing the statutes of Alabama, California, Georgia, Maine, North Carolina, Tennessee, and Virginia; Ebert v. Johns, 206 Pa. St. 395, citing 1 AM. AND ENG. ENCYC. OF LAW (2d ed.) 414.

Mississippi Rule.—In Mississippi a liquidated claim may be satisfied by the payment of a small amount. The courts criticise severely the rule of the common law. Clayton v. Clark, 74 Miss. 499, 60 Am. St. Rep. 521.

North Carolina Rule.—Code Civ. Pro. N. Car., § 574, permits the compromise of a liquidated claim by the payment of a smaller sum than the amount due. Wittkowsky v. Baruch, 127 N. Car. 313.

Virginia Rule.—Civ. Code Va., § 2858, provides that "part performance of an obligation, promise, or undertaking, either before or after a breach thereof, when expressly accepted by the creditor in satisfaction, and rendered in pursuance of an agreement for that purpose, though without any new consideration, shall extinguish such obligation, promise, or undertaking." Standard Sewing Mach. Co. v. Gunter, 102 Va. 568.

Payment of Liquidated Demand Is No Consideration for Release of Unliquidated Demand.—Walston v. F. D. Calkins Co., 119 Iowa 150.

Where the plaintiff was paid a sum of money that was admittedly due him, and gave a receipt in full settlement of all claims including an unliquidated claim arising out of a breach of contract, there was no consideration for the accord and satisfaction, and the agreement was void. Ness v. Minnesota, etc., Co., 87 Minn. 413.

In Chicago, etc., R. Co. v. Clark, 178 U. S. 353, reversing (C. C. A.) 92 Fed. Rep. 968, the debt consisted of two items, one of which was liquidated and the other unliquidated, and it was held that the payment of so much as was liquidated, which payment was made and accepted in satisfaction of the entire indebtedness, constituted a good accord and satisfaction. In this decision the court applied the rule that the general doctrine as to the effect of part payment of a debt in satisfaction of the whole should be confined strictly to cases within it.

Acceptance of Part Payment in Full Settlement of Claim.—The acceptance of part payment in full settlement of a liquidated claim does not operate as an accord and satisfaction. Abelson v. Gordon, (Supm. Ct. App. T.) 36 Misc. (N. Y.) 812.

Retention of Check Given Conditionally.—The maker of a note, which had become due, requested a renewal of part of the note and inclosed his check, stating that it was for the discount of the renewal. The check was cashed and the amount thereof credited to the maker of the note. Renewal of the note was refused, and it was held that the retention of the check did not amount to an accord and satisfaction, as the claim was liquidated. Kelley v. Lawrence, 78 N. Y. App. Div. 484.

An Agreement to Satisfy a Judgment by accepting certificates of indebtedness which the judgment debtor holds against the judgment creditor is without consideration and void where the face value of the certificates of indebtedness is much smaller than the judgment. Russell v. Meek, (Ky. 1900) 58 S. W. Rep. 373.

Estoppel. — Where a debtor, who had paid less than the full amount of a liquidated claim, was given a receipt in full by the creditor, and a third party on the strength of this receipt assumed all the debtor's liabilities, the creditor was estopped from setting up the fact that there was no consideration for the release of the rest of the liquidated claim. *Ebert v. When Defendant Pays Part and also Surrenders Claims. — Where a tenant surrendered an unexpired lease it was held that this was a sufficient consideration to support an agreement with the landlord to accept a part payment of the rent that was due in satisfaction of the whole amount. Lewis v. Donohue, (Supm. Ct. App. T.) 27 Misc. (N. Y.) 514.

Payment to Different Party. — A agreed with the owner of certain real estate to pay off the mortgage on the property. It was held that the payment of a smaller sum directly to the owner himself was a sufficient consideration for the owner's agreement to release A from the payment of the mortgage. Lee v. Timken, 23 N. Y. App. Div. 349.

Check or Note for Less than Amount of Liquidated Claim Held Not a Good Accord and Satisfaction. — Nathan v. Smith, (N. Y. City Ct. Gen. T.) 24 Misc. (N. Y.) 374; Shanley v. Koehler, 80 N. Y. App. Div. 566; Frank v. Gump, (Va. 1905) 51 S. E. Rep. 358.

Thus in Forest v. Davis, (N. Y. City Ct. Gen. T.) 20 Misc. (N. Y.) 1, an agreement was made whereby a debt should be satisfied at sixty cents on the dollar, by the debtor's giving to the creditor his three checks payable in the future. It was held that this furnished no consideration for an accord and satisfaction.

"To constitute an accord and satisfaction it is necessary that the money or check, or whatever is offered, should be offered in full satisfaction of the demand, and should be offered in such a manner or accompanied by such acts or declarations as amount to a condition that if the party to whom it is offered takes it he does so in satisfaction of his demand. If the offer is made in such a manner, and it is accepted, the acceptance will satisfy the demand, although the creditor protests at the time that the amount received is not all that is due or that he does not accept it in full satisfaction of his claim. The creditor has no alternative except to accept what is offered with the condition upon which it is offered, or to refuse it; and if he accepts, the acceptance includes the condition, notwithstanding any protest he may make to the contrary." Canton Coal Co. v. Parlin, etc., Co., 215 Ill. 244, citing 1 AM. AND ENG. ENCYC. OF LAW (2d ed.) 419. See also U. S. Bobbin, etc., Co. v. Thissell, (C. C. A.) 137 Fed. Rep. ¶; Cornelius v. Rosen, (Mo. 1905) 86 S. Evidence that Debt or Claim Is Disputed should be submitted to the jury. McCormick v. Shea, (Supm. Ct. App. T.) 94 N. Y. Supp. 485.

Where the creditor cashed a check sent by the debtor in full settlement of an unliquidated claim, it was strong evidence of an accord and satisfaction, notwithstanding the creditor's assertion that he merely accepted the check as a payment on account. King v. Dorman, (Supm. Ct. App. T.) 26 Misc. (N. Y.) 133.

Intention of Parties. — In order for a payment of a sum of money to be an accord and satisfaction of an unliquidated claim the parties must intend the payment to have that effect. Snow v. Reichman, (Supm. Ct. App. T.) 18 Misc. (N. Y.) 234.

Utah. — Whitney v. Richards, 17 Utah 226.

Composition Agreement. — There was an agreement to release the liability of indorsers of certain promissory notes on their paying twenty-five per cent. of the face value of the notes. Composition notes for the twenty-five per cent. were given, but were not paid at maturity. These notes were not extended, but certain payments were made and accepted on them after maturity. However, it was held that this did not bar a suit to enforce the original liability of the indorsers, as there was no satisfaction. Cincinnati Third Nat. Bank v. Humphreys, 66 Fed. Rep. 872.

Failure to Perform Agreement to Arbitrate. — An agreement was made to submit a controversy to arbitration, but the agreement was never carried out. It was held that an action at law over the matter was not barred by the failure to arbitrate the dispute. Welch v. Miller, 70 Vt. 108.

Assent under Duress. — See Rochester Mach. Tool Works v. Weiss, 108 Wis. 545.

A Threat to Sue Civilly is not such a compulsion as will avoid the agreement. Atkinson v. Allen, 36 U. S. App. 255, 71 Fed. Rep. 58.

Evidence of Assent. — That defendant appears to be satisfied with the settlement is a fact which can be given in evidence. Plano Mfg. Co. v. Kautenberger, 121 Iowa 213.

446. 1. Tennessee Brewing Co. v. Hendricks, 77 Miss. 491.

Sufficient Admission. — An offer to settle by giving a note for the balance of an account stated is a sufficient admission of the correctness. Hollenbeck v. Ristine, 105 Iowa 488, 67 Am. St. Rep. 306.

2. Admissions Must Be Direct and Unconditional. — Columbia River Packing Co. v. Tallant, 132 Fed. Rep. 271, citing 1 AM. AND ENG. ENCYC. OF LAW (2d ed.) 446. See also Love v. Ramsey, (Mich. 1905) 102 N. W. Rep. 279.

A memorandum appended to an account, stating that "the above account is subject to an attachment" to a certain amount in a designated action, does not alter the legal character of the account stated or qualify the implied promise, but operates merely as a notification that present payment was prevented by the debt being arrested on an attachment issued at the instance of a third person. Halliburton v. Clapp, 1 N. Y. App. Div. 71.

446. 3. See Seal Lock Co. v. Chicago Mfg., etc., Co., 98 Ill. App. 637.

4. Payment as Admission of Correctness. — Payment by a debtor, of one of a series of notes, by offsetting credits in his favor, without reference to the whole indebtedness, to close which the notes were given, he having reserved the right to correct errors in the account, cannot be urged as such an acknowledgment of the correctness of the whole indebtedness as will preclude inquiry into the correctness of the original account. Cannon v. Vaughn Lumber Co., 52 La. Ann. 757.

The rendition of an account and its retention without objection is but one circumstance to be submitted with all others to the trier of fact, to determine whether there has been an account stated. Harrison v. Henderson, 67 Kan. 202.

Bank and Depositor. — Schoonover v. Osborne, 108 Iowa 453; Kenneth Invest. Co. v. National Bank of Republic, 96 Mo. App. 125; McKeen v. Boatmen's Bank, 74 Mo. App. 281; Farry v. Farmers', etc., Bank, (N. J. 1904) 58 Atl. Rep. 305; Nodine v. Union First Nat. Bank, 41 Oregon 386, citing 1 AM. AND ENG. ENCYC. OF LAW (2d ed.) 449.

But this presumption of assent to the correctness of items in his bank book may be rebutted by other facts. Dingley v. McDonald, 124 Cal. 90.

Administrators Excepted. — The mere silence of an administrator, not being a party in his own right, or his failure to object to an account against his intestate, when it is presented to him, is not sufficient to establish an account stated. Withers v. Sandlin, 44 Fla. 253.

No Evidence of an Account Stated. — Evidence by the manager of a hotel to the effect that it was usual to bill guests weekly and that he never heard of the defendant objecting to such bills, was not sufficient to show an account stated. Davis v. Fromme, 23 N. Y. App. Div. 498.

450. 2. Regarded as Applicable to All Classes of Business Men. — See Ault v. Interstate Sav., etc., Assoc., 15 Wash. 627.

451. 2. Accounts Sent by Mail. — See Bee v. Tierney, 58 Ill. App. 552.

In Daytona Bridge Co. v. Bond, (Fla. 1904) 36 So. Rep. 445, the court said: "Where the presentation of an account is by mail, the person sought to be charged must in terms be a party to the account, or the grounds upon which it is sought to hold him as a debtor should be clearly made known to him, and a demand for payment made; otherwise, no presumption arises from his silence in relation thereto."

3. Presumption as to Receipt of Accounts Mailed. — See New York Cab Co. v. Crow, (Supm. Ct. App. T.) 23 Misc. (N. Y.) 340.

The Presumption Is Negated by the testimony of the person to whom account is rendered that he never received the letter. Ault v. Interstate Sav., etc., Assoc., 15 Wash. 627.

5. No General Test as to Reasonable Time for Retaining Account. — See Raub v. Nisbett, 118 Mich. 248.

Retaining an account for five months before making an objection was held an unreasonable time. McLaughlin v. U. S., 36 Ct. Cl. 138.

The retention of an account for forty-two days without objection was held to create an account stated. Donald v. Gardner, 44 N. Y. App. Div. 235.

From twenty to twenty-five days may not be an unreasonable time in view of all the circumstances. Ault v. Interstate Sav., etc., Assoc., 15 Wash. 627.

Adverse Possession of Original Tract. — The title by adverse possession to the accretions, however recent, relates back to and follows the title of the mainland. Bellefontaine Imp. Co. v. Niedringhaus, 181 Ill. 426, 72 Am. St. Rep. 269; Benne v. Miller, 149 Mo. 228.

3. Purpresture. — See Revell v. People, 177 Ill. 468, 69 Am. St. Rep. 257.

473. 2. A certain lot, at the time of its conveyance was bounded by a street running along the ocean front, and a strip of land intervened between the street and the ocean. Subsequently the ocean washed away the street and the water line came up to the lot. Thereafter the ocean receded. It was declared that the accretions belonged to the owner of the strip and not to the owner of the lot. Ocean City Assoc. v. Shriver, 64 N. J. L. 550. See also Bradley v. McPherson, (N. J. 1904) 58 Atl. Rep. 105; Hinckley v. Peay, 22 Utah 21, per Baskin, J., dissenting.

Right to Accretions as Dependent on Contiguity. — Sweringen v. St. Louis, 151 Mo. 348, citing 1 AM. AND ENG. ENCYC. OF LAW (2d ed.) 473, note 2; Stockley v. Cissna, (C. C. A.) 119 Fed. Rep. 812; Widdicombe v. Chiles, 173 Mo. 195, 96 Am. St. Rep. 507.

In Crandall v. Smith, 134 Mo. 633, Gantt, J., said: "There is nothing salutory about accretion."

3. Reliction Defined as derelict land or land left dry by the retirement of the sea. Ocean City Assoc. v. Shriver, 64 N. J. L. 550.

Periodic Subsidence of the waters, occasioned by the seasons, does not constitute dereliction. Sapp v. Frazier, 51 La. Ann. 1718.

4. Recession Must Be Slow, Gradual, and Imperceptible. — Stockley v. Cissna, (C. C. A.) 119 Fed. Rep. 812; Wallace v. Driver, 61 Ark. 429; Fuller v. Shedd, 161 Ill. 462, 52 Am. Reliction Takes Place Must Frequently in Lakes and Ponds. — Fuller v. Shedd, 161 Ill. 462, 52 Am. St. Rep. 380; Olson v. Huntamer, 6 S. Dak. 364.

Reclamation of Soil. — In New Jersey the owner of lands at high-water mark has the right to reclaim lands of the state lying under tide water in front of his ownership. Simpson v. Moorhead, 65 N. J. Eq. 623. See Sage v. New York, 10 N. Y. App. Div. 294.

475. 1. Reappearance After Submergence. — Stockley v. Cissna, (C. C. A.) 119 Fed. Rep. 812; Widdicombe v. Rosemiller, 118 Fed. Rep. 295; Hughes v. Birney, 107 La. 664; *Ocean City Assoc. v. When Portions of the Mainland, etc. — Stockley v. Cissna, (C. C. A.) 119 Fed. Rep. 812.

When an Island is washed away by the action of the waters and gives place to the channel of the river, and thereafter land appears in its place owing either to reliction or elevation by alluvial deposits, proprietorship thereof returns to the original owner of the island. Widdicombe v. Rosemiller, 118 Fed. Rep. 295. But see Vogelsmeier v. Prendergast, 137 Mo. 271.

Duration of Submergence. — Hughes v. Birney, 107 La. 664; Simpson v. Moorhead, 65 N. J. Eq. 623.

Where Identity Is Lost. — Stockley v. Cissna, (C. C. A.) 119 Fed. Rep. 812; Widdicombe v.

Johnson*, 155 Mo. 191; Victoria v. Schott, 9 Tex. Civ. App. 332.

Thus, the owner of land bounded by the Missouri river does not become the owner of an island which forms in front of his property, because he does not own any part of the bed of the stream but only to the water's edge. Perkins v. Adams, 132 Mo. 131; Hahn v. Dawson, 134 Mo. 581; Moore v. Farmer, 156 Mo. 33, 79 Am. St. Rep. 504. See also Cox v. Arnold, 129 Mo. 337, 50 Am. St. Rep. 450.

Springer*, 35 Oregon 312; Hinckley v. Peay, 22 Utah 21.

Content Reason for the Rule. — "It preserves the fundamental riparian rights, which often constitute the principal value of the land, of access to the water." French-Glenn Live-Stock Co. v. Springer, 35 Oregon 312.

2. Principles of Division — Rules Given. — Stockley v. Cissna, (C. C. A.) 119 Fed. Rep. 812; Naumant v. Burch, 91 Ill. App. 48; Newell v. Leathers, 50 La. Ann. 162, citing 1 AM. AND ENG. ENCYC. OF LAW (2d ed.) 477; Benne v. Miller, 149 Mo. 228. See also De Lassus v. Faherty, 164 Mo. 361.

Where a tract is bounded by north and south survey lines, and on the east by a river, the method of apportionment is to extend such lines, and accretions formed beyond the extended lines belong to the adjacent owners. Smith v. Johnson, 71 Fed. Rep. 647.

Where contiguous properties lie upon the upper bank of a river flowing southeasterly and are separated by a north and south section line, the accretions are to be divided by extending the section line. McCamon v. Stagg, 2 Kan. App. 479. See also Gorton v. Rice, 153 Mo. 676.

Where a lake has dried up imperceptibly "the title of the shore owner extends to the centre of the lake, the boundary line of his tract extending from the shore or meandered line, on lines converging to a point in the centre of the lake bed." Shell v. Matteson, 81 Minn. 38.

Modification of Rules of Apportionment. — There is no fixed and universal rule to be applied without modification to every instance of accretions in determining the rights of coterminous owners therein. Smith v. Johnson, 71 Fed. Rep. 647; Gorton v. Rice, 153 Mo. 676.

Accrued Not Equivalent to Due. — Under an Iowa statute providing that "the executor of a tenant for life who leases real estate so held, and dies on or before the day on which the rent is payable, * * * may recover the proportion of rent which had accrued at the time of his death," rent would not become payable before due, and the word accrued must be construed to mean an apportionment of the rent between the executor and reversioner pro rata as to time, because, if accrued is held to mean "due," then the statute is deprived of all vitality. Gudgel v. Southerland, 117 Iowa 309.

3. Cause of Action. — Weiser v. McDowell, 93 Iowa 772. See Barnes v. Brooklyn, 22 N. Y. App. Div. 522.

Accrue in Sense of Arise. — See Union Cent. L. Ins. Co. v. Skipper, (C. C. A.) 115 Fed. Rep. 72.

The Phrase "Accrued Claims," in a statute providing that the emergency fund of an assessment insurance company shall be used first in the payment of accrued claims, means claims which become accrued through the death of Accusation. — "The term accusation is a broad term; it includes indictment, presentment, information, and any other form in which a charge of a crime or an offense can be made against an individual. The term, as used in our law in reference to trials in courts having jurisdiction in misdemeanor cases, is but the equivalent of an information at common law." Per Cobb, J., in Gordon v. State, 102 Ga. 679. See also Wright v. Davis, 120 Ga. 670.

Accusation — Accused. — In Brannan v. State, 44 Tex. Crim. 399, the court said: "A person is said to be accused of an offense from the time that any 'criminal action' shall have been commenced against him. A legal arrest without warrant; a complaint to a magistrate; a warrant legally issued; an indictment, or an information, are all examples of accusation, and a person proceeded against by either of these is said to be accused. As we understand an accusation under our statute, it applies to a pending prosecution, and when that prosecution has been terminated in a conviction it ceases to be an accusation."

482. 1. Reg. v. Kempel, 31 Ont. 633.

2. Accustomed Equivalent to Usual in an instruction defining ordinary care, St. Louis S. W. R. Co. v. Smith, 30 Tex. Civ. App. 336. See also St. Louis Southwestern R. Co. v. Brown, 30 Tex. Civ. App. 57.

2*a*. Acetanilid has been defined as a chemical compound prepared from aniline oil, a product of coal tar, by treatment with carbolic acid. It derives its characteristics purely from coal tar, and is properly classified under the Customs Duties Act under a paragraph providing for preparations of coal tar, not colors or dyes not specially provided for, rather than under paragraphs providing for medicinal compounds, or all chemical compounds not specially provided for. U. S. v. Roessler, etc., Chemical Co., (C. C. A.) 79 Fed. Rep. 313; and see the title REVENUE LAWS.

In McCandless v. Yorkshire Guarantee, etc., Corp., 101 Ga. 180, a deed began with the words "state of New York, county of New York," and recited that it was the deed of a certain corporation "by its president (naming him) and directors (naming two persons) of the state and county aforesaid." The deed was attested by two witnesses, one of whom added after his name the words "consul of the United States of America at Huddersfield, England." There was no evidence of where the deed was actually executed, and it was held that from the caption and the recitals in the deed it would be presumed that it was signed and attested in the county of New York, and therefore the attestation by such counsel was unauthorized and of no effect.

Illustrations. — The Tennessee statute requires the certificate of acknowledgment by a married woman to recite that the deed was executed "for the purposes therein expressed," and also that she executed it "understandingly." The omission of either of these recitals is a fatal defect. Literer v. Huddleston, (Tenn. Ch. 1898) 52 S. W. Rep. 1003.

Under the Texas statute the certificate of acknowledgment to a married woman's conveyance of the homestead must state that she executed the instrument for the purposes and consideration therein stated, or use equivalent expressions. Hurst v. Finley, 22 Tex. Civ. App. 605.

Adoption of Signature by Acknowledgment. — Godsey v. Virginia Iron, etc., Co., 82 S. W. Rep. 386, 26 Ky. L. Rep. 657.

Utah. — Deseret Nat. Bank v. Kidman, 25 Utah 379, 95 Am. St. Rep. 856.

Identity May Be Gotten by Comparison of Deed and Certificate. — Frederick v. Wilcox, 119 Ala. 355, 72 Am. St. Rep. 925.

Where the Officer of a Corporation Is a Trustee in whom is vested the legal title to the corporate property, the certificate need not show that the certifying officer knows such person to be the officer described. It is sufficient that he knows him to be the person executing the instrument. Thomas v. Wilcox, (S. Dak. 1904) 101 N. W. Rep. 1072.

545. 2. Personal Acquaintance Shown by Implication. — Deseret Nat. Bank v. Kidman, 25 Utah 379, 95 Am. St. Rep. 856.

6. Certificate as Evidence — a. GENERALLY — Evidence of Execution and Acknowledgment of Deed. — See note 2.

"Restraint" instead of "constraint" does not prevent probate. Mullens v. Big Creek Gap Coal, etc., Co., (Tenn. Ch. 1895) 35 S. W. Rep. 439.

"The severally executed" for "they severally executed," and the omission of "it" after "retract," are immaterial. Montgomery v. Hornberger, 16 Tex. Civ. App. 28.

547. 2. Omissions Not Fatal. — "She does not wish to retract said execution," when omitted, is not fatal where there is substantial compliance. Northwestern, etc., Hypotheek Bank v. Berry, 89 Fed. Rep. 408.

"They" being omitted before "executed the same" does not invalidate the certificate. Tew v. Henderson, 116 Ala. 545.

Omission of the name of the person acknowledging the certificate is not fatal. Larson v. Elsner, 93 Minn. 303.

"Residing within the country" when omitted did not invalidate an acknowledgment. Jordan v. Underhill, 91 N. Y. App. Div. 124.

"Their" before "free and voluntary act" is not a fatal omission. Garton v. Hudson-Kimberly Pub. Co., 8 Okla. 631.

"Voluntary." See Mosier v. Momsen, 13 Okla. 41.

"She" was omitted before "had executed" and was not a fatal omission. Johnson v. Thompson, (Tex. Civ. App. 1898) 50 S. W. Rep. 1055.

The first name of the wife being omitted will not vitiate the acknowledgment where it appears that she was the wife. Noel v. Clark, 25 Tex. Civ. App. 136.

"And acknowledged the same to be her act" was omitted but was not fatal. Geil v. Geil, 101 Va. 773.

"Separate and apart from her husband" being omitted did not vitiate the acknowledgment. Adams v. Smith, 11 Wyo. 200.

Fatal Omissions.—The following omissions are fatal: "Understandingly," "and for the purposes therein expressed." Roulston v. Darby, (Tenn. Ch. 1898) 52 S. W. Rep. 318.

550. 1. Expressions Not Equivalent. — "Without fear or compulsion from any person," will not do instead of "without constraint from her husband and for the purposes therein expressed." Cox v. Railway Bldg., etc., Assoc., 101 Tenn. 490.

551. 1. Defective Certificates Cannot Be Aided by Parol. — Solt v. Anderson, (Neb. 1904) 99 N. W. Rep. 678. Compare Rogers v. Pell, 47 N. Y. App. Div. 240, affirmed 168 N. Y. 587.

552. 2. Surplusage May Be Rejected. — Adams v. Pardue, (Tex. Civ. App. 1896) 36 S. W. Rep. 1015; Lindley v. Lindley, (Tex. Civ. App. 1899) 50 S. W. Rep. 159.

553. 1. In Delaware it is held that, where there is no bad faith, the officer has a perfect right to supply any clerical omission, such as a statement that the parties were personally known to him. Hanson v. Cochran, 9 Houst. (Del.) 184.

554. 1. Requirement Mandatory. — The requirement of Code Tenn., § 2082, that the officer shall make "oath in open court to the truth of such correction" is mandatory, and the burden of showing compliance therewith is on those who seek the benefit of the corrected certificate. Therefore a finding of court in regard to such a correction, which fails to show that the oath was made "in open court" and that the officer swore "to the truth of the correction," does not show a compliance with the statute. Madden v. Mason, 106 Tenn. 194.

2. Bexar Bldg., etc., Assoc. v. Heady, 21 Tex. Civ. App. 154.

4. Idaho. — Civ. Code Idaho, title 6 of chapter 3, empowers the District Court to amend an instrument when the certificate is defective and the acknowledgment itself was good. Bunnell, etc., Invest. Co. v. Curtis, 5 Idaho 652.

574. 2. In construing a state statute allowing the construction of a channel across, along, through, or upon the waters of a bay, the court said: "Across the waters of any bay would seem to warrant the locating of a channel in and through any bay in any direction. 'Across, through, or upon' the waters of any bay certainly warrants a channel in any direction." Davis v. Port Arthur Channel, etc., Co., (C. C. A.) 87 Fed. Rep. 512.

Under an Ordinance Prohibiting Trains from Remaining Across a Street longer than a certain time it was held that a train the head end of which reached slightly into the street but did not obstruct travel thereon was not across the street within the ordinance. Crowley v. Chicago, etc., R. Co., (Wis. 1904) 99 N. W. Rep. 1016.

575. 2. "An Act is defined as 'that which is done or doing; the exercise of power, or the effect of which power exerted is the cause; a performance; a deed.' Webster. 'Something done or established.' Bouvier. * * * This being true, when the indictment alleged that the persons accused prevented the sheriff from removing a prisoner from jail it alleged that such persons had committed an act; and, therefore, the demurrer, which simply raised the point that the indictment did not charge that an act had been committed, was not well taken." Green v. State, 109 Ga. 540.

Whether "Act" Implies Intention. — "In common usage and understanding the word act signifies something done voluntarily, or, in other words, the result of an exercise of the will." Per Justice Shiras in dissenting opinion, Wilson v. Nelson, 183 U. S. 191.

"Act" Referring to Section of Statute — Synonymous with Article. — See Owensboro Deposit Bank v. Daviess County, 102 Ky. 174.

Act of Sale. — By the civil law, in force in Louisiana, the common mode of making such conveyances was by an "act of sale," so called, 585. 1. Wald v. Pittsburg, etc., R. Co., 162 Ill. 545.

Chancellor Kent's Definition. — The act of God means "inevitable accident, without the intervention of man and public enemies." The Majestic, 166 U. S. 375; Sonneborn v. Southern R. Co., 65 S. Car. 502.

A Fall of Dew, causing delay in the running of a train on which cattle had been shipped, is not such an act of God as to relieve the carrier from liability for delay in transportation. Missouri, etc., R. Co. v. Truskett, 2 Indian Ter. 633.

586. 1. Unusual Wind Storm. — See Olsen v. Meyer, 46 Neb. 240.

Whirlwind. — A whirlwind was held to be an act of God, where a storm of similar nature had never before occurred in the particular locality of the accident. Gulf, etc., R. Co. v. Compton, (Tex. Civ. App. 1896) 38 S. W. Rep. 220.

Damage by the Elements is construed as synonymous with the term "act of God." Pope v. Farmers' Union, etc., Co., 130 Cal. 139.

The Johnstown Flood was held properly described as an act of God. Wald v. Pittsburg, etc., R. Co., 162 Ill. 545.

587. 1a. Act of God an Affirmative Defense. — "Act of God" is a defense to an action, and must be pleaded as such. Orient Ins. Co. v. Northern Pac. R. Co., (Mont. 1905) 78 Pac. Rep. 1036.

588. 1. "Perils of the Sea" denote natural accidents peculiar to that element, which do not happen by the intervention of man, nor are to be prevented by human prudence." The Majestic, 166 U. S. 375.

2. No Defense in Case of Express Contract — England. — Hayward v. Daniel, 91 L. T. N. S. 319.

United States. — Phoenix Bridge Co. v. U. S., 38 Ct. Cl. 492.

Indiana. — Krause v. Crothersville, 162 Ind. 278, 102 Am. St. Rep. 203.

Michigan. — Mason v. Wierengo, 113 Mich. 152, 67 Am. St. Rep. 461, citing 1 AM. AND ENG. ENCYC. OF LAW (2d ed.) 588.

Minnesota. — Dow v. State Bank, 88 Minn. 363.

Mississippi. — Cox v. Martin, 75 Miss. 229, 65 Am. St. Rep. 604.

New Jersey. — Middlesex Water Co. v. Knappmann Whiting Co., 64 N. J. L. 251, citing 1 AM. AND ENG. ENCYC. OF LAW (2d ed.) 588.

Oregon. — Anderson v. Adams, 43 Oregon 630, quoting 1 AM. AND ENG. ENCYC. OF LAW (2d ed.) 588.

Pennsylvania. — Dixon v. Breon, 22 Pa. Super. Ct. 340.

Texas. — Gulf, etc., R. Co. v. Darby, 28 Tex. Civ. App. 229.

Washington. — "An act of God, to relieve from performance of a contract, must be such as reasonable prudence and foresight could not have guarded against." Bullock v. White Star Steamship Co., 30 Wash. 448.

Wisconsin. — Comstock v. Fraternal Accident Assoc., 116 Wis. 382, citing 1 AM. AND ENG. ENCYC. OF LAW (2d ed.) 382; Newell v. New Holstein Canning Co., 119 Wis. 641.

Where the Defendant Is Guilty of a Breach of His Contract and his performance would have avoided any loss, the fact that the loss was due to the act of God is no defense. Holt Mfg. Co. v. Thornton, 136 Cal. 232.

589. 2. Violent Rain Storm. — Where the premises were damaged by an unusually terrific tempest the landlord was not liable for the damage done to the plaintiff's goods, it not being shown that notice of the damage was given and that the defendant negligently failed to make the proper repairs. Brunswick Grocery Co. v. Spencer, 97 Ga. 764.

590. One of Two Alternative Obligations. — See note 1.

Sufficient Excuse. — To liberate a railroad company from its obligation to pay for goods damaged or lost in transit from a flood it must appear that the flood was unprecedented. It is not sufficient that it was of an extraordinary or unusual character. Missouri, etc., R. Co. v. Davidson, 25 Tex. Civ. App. 134.

What Constitutes an Act of God — A Question of Law. — Southern Pac. R. Co. v. Schoer, 114 Fed. Rep. 466, 52 C. C. A. 268.

594. 1. Carrier Exonerated Only When Loss Is Due Directly to Act of God. — Herring v. Chesapeake, etc., R. Co., 101 Va. 778.

In Texas it was held that a carrier was not liable for the loss of goods in a storm properly defined as an act of God, although the property could have been delivered before the storm began. The injury was not shown to have been the proximate result of the delay to deliver. International, etc., R. Co. v. Bergman, (Tex. Civ. App. 1901) 64 S. W. Rep. 999; Gulf, etc., R. Co. v. Darby, 28 Tex. Civ. App. 229.

595. 2. See Wald v. Pittsburg, etc., R. Co., 162 Ill. 545.

3. Failure to Exercise Due Diligence. — Where the injury to the plaintiff resulted from a collision caused by freight cars being driven by a violent storm from a side track on the main line, and it is shown that the accident might have been averted by the use of proper diligence in flagging the train on which the plaintiff was a passenger, the company cannot defend on the ground that injury was due to an act of God. Gulf, etc., R. Co. v. Bell, 24 Tex. Civ. App. 579.

ADEMPTION OF LEGACIES.

By J. E. BRADY.

611. II. DEFINITION. — See note 2.

Confined to Legacies. — See note 4.

613. IV. MODES OF ADEMPTION — 1. By Portions, on the Analogy of Advancements — a. BY PERSONS IN LOCO PARENTIS — (1) The Doctrine Stated Generally. — See note 2.

The Reasons for the Rule. — See note 3.

614. The Presumption. — See note 1.

616. (2) The Doctrine Analyzed and Its Qualifications Discussed —

(c) Advanced Portion Must Be a Gift. — See note 3.

617. (e) Legacy Must Be Certain as to Amount and Time of Accrual. — See note 1.

Early Rule Prevails in Some Jurisdictions. — See note 4.

(f) Gift Must Be of Substantial Amount. — See note 6.

618. (g) Advanced Portion Must Be Ejusdem Generis. — See note 2.

619. Intention of Testator Controlling. — See note 4.

Accomplishment by Testator of Purpose for Which Legacy Is Given. — See note 5.

620. (i) No Direction in Testament Necessary. — See note 5.

(j) Advanced Portion Only Presumed to Be Intended to Adeem; Rebuttal of the Presumption. — See note 8.

621. Presumption May Be Rebutted by Parol. — See note 1.

622. (k) Ademption Operates Pro Tanto Only. — See note 11.

611. 2. Tanton v. Keller, 167 Ill. 139.

4. Ademption Not Predicable of Devises. — Fisher v. Keithley, 142 Mo. 244, citing 1 AM. AND ENG. ENCYC. OF LAW (2d ed.) 611. See also Carmichael v. Lathrop, 108 Mich. 473.

613. 2. Ademption by Advanced Payments. — Wilson v. Smith, 117 Fed. Rep. 707, citing 1 AM. AND ENG. ENCYC. OF LAW (2d ed.) 613; Davis v. Close, 104 Iowa 261; *Carmichael v. 618. 2. Swinebroad v. Bright, 110 Ky. 616; Carmichael v. Lathrop, 108 Mich. 473.

Surrender of Notes. — A bequest of one thousand dollars to the testator's son, "to be paid by deducting the same from the amount he owes me, as evidenced by notes I hold on him," was adeemed by a subsequent surrender by the testator to his son of notes amounting to a thousand dollars. Davis v. Close, 104 Iowa 261.

Discharge of Mortgage. — A pecuniary legacy to be paid by the discharge of a mortgage held by the testator on the legatee's land was adeemed by a discharge of the mortgage in the testator's lifetime. Wheeler v. Wood, 104 Mich. 414.

619. 4. A Conveyance of Real Estate will adeem a legacy where such is clearly the intention of the testator. Carmichael v. Lathrop, 108 Mich. 473.

5. Bequest for Specific Purposes. — Tanton v. Keller, 167 Ill. 140, citing 1 AM. AND ENG. ENCYC. OF LAW (2d ed.) 619; Hershey's Estate, 17 Lanc. L. Rev. 389.

620. 5. Tuckett-Lawry v. Lamoureux, 1 Ont. L. Rep. 364.

8. Intent of Testator Controls. — Wilson v. Smith, 117 Fed. Rep. 707, citing 1 AM. AND ENG. ENCYC. OF LAW (2d ed.) 620; Wilson v. Smith, 11 Pa. Dist. 665, citing 1 AM. AND ENG. ENCYC. OF LAW (2d ed.) 620.

621. 1. Wilson v. Smith, 117 Fed. Rep. 707; Wilson v. Smith, 11 Pa. Dist. 665.

In Kentucky it has been enacted by statute that the person wishing to show that a legacy has been adeemed must assume the burden of proving that such was the intention of the testator. Swinebroad v. Bright, 110 Ky. 616.

622. 11. Pro Tanto Rule Prevails. — Tanton v. Keller, 61 Ill. App. 625, 167 Ill. 129.

623. (3) The Doctrine Criticised. — See note 1.

b. ADVANCES TO STRANGERS — No Presumption of Intention to Reduce the Legacy. — See notes 4, 5.

2. By Alienation — a. SALES AND GIFTS — General Rule as to Existence of Subject of Bequest. — See note 6.

624. Sale of Property Bequeathed. — See note 1.625. Doctrine Operates Pro Tanto Only. — See note 1.

b. CONVEYANCES OF REAL ESTATE — SURRENDER OF LEASES — Subsequent Conveyances. — See note 6.

627. c. PLEDGES AND MORTGAGES. — See note 1.

d. LOSS, DESTRUCTION, ETC. — Ademption Not Confined to Cases of Voluntary Disposition of Property. — See note 5.

3. By Transformation, Alteration, and Conversion — General Rule. — See note 9.

628. Conversion Without Knowledge of Testator. — See note 5.629. 4. By Removal — When the Element of Locality Is Unimportant. — See note 8.630. 5. By Acquisition — General Rule. — See note 1.

Collection of Promissory Note. — See note 2.

623. 1. Carmichael v. Lathrop, 108 Mich. 473.

4. No Presumption Where Bequest Is to a Stranger. — Re Smythies, 87 L. T. N. S. 742; Wilson v. Smith, 117 Fed. Rep. 707, citing 1 AM. AND ENG. ENCYC. OF LAW (2d ed.) 623; Wilson v. Smith, 11 Pa. Dist. 665, citing 1 AM. AND ENG. ENCYC. OF LAW (2d ed.) 623.

Strangers as well as children are, by section 4840, Ky. Stat., included within the rule of ademption of legacies. However, an intention to reduce the legacy is not to be presumed from the fact that a gift has passed between the testator and legatee. Such intention must be shown to have existed. Swinebroad v. Bright, 110 Ky. 616.

5. Tanton v. Keller, 167 Ill. 139. See Wilson v. Smith, 117 Fed. Rep. 707.

632. 2. Adequate Clause — Texas Code. — Gardner v. State, 40 Tex. Crim. 19; Farrar v. State, 29 Tex. App. 250.

633. 2a. Ad Hoc. — The translation "special" instead of the original ad hoc in relation to a curator has very much the same meaning, and in the decisions the two words are used indifferently. Sallier v. Rosteet, 108 La. 378.

4. Hanifen v. Armitage, 117 Fed. Rep. 845; Yuba County v. Kate Hayes Min. Co., 141 Cal. 360; People v. Keechler, 194 Ill. 235, citing 1 AM. AND ENG. ENCYC. OF LAW (2d ed.) 633; Hanover F. Ins. Co. v. Stoddard, 52 Neb. 745.

Adjacent in the Sense of Adjoining or Contiguous — "Adjacent to Each Other" — School Districts. — People v. Keechler, 194 Ill. 235.

Adjacent to Railroad Line — Dependent on Facts of Case. — Denver, etc., R. Co. v. U. S., (C. C. A.) 124 Fed. Rep. 156; Stone v. U. S., 167 U. S. 178, affirming (C. C. A.) 64 Fed. Rep. 667; *U. Adjacent Districts. — Section 219 of the New Zealand Municipal Corporations Act, 1900, empowers the construction of bridges by municipal councils, and provides that in certain circumstances the local authority of an adjacent district should contribute to the cost. It was held that the word adjacent is not a word of precise and uniform meaning, and the degree of proximity denoted is a question of circumstances. The court below having decided that the appellant city was adjacent to the respondent borough, although there was a distance of over six miles between their boundaries and three other local divisions intervened, its discretion was not interfered with. Wellington v. Lower Hutt, (1904) A. C. 773.

Distinguished from Adjacent. — Matthews v. Kimball, 70 Ark. 451; Hennessey v. Douglas County, 99 Wis. 129.

Same — Local Assessments. — See Matthews v. Kimball, 70 Ark. 451, holding that the property to be adjoining need not touch.

Same — Separated by Private Way. — Lehmer v. Horton, (Neb. 1903) 93 N. W. Rep. 964.

Synonymous with Contiguous. — Bent v. Glaenzer, (Supm. Ct. App. T.) 17 Misc. (N. Y.) 569.

Adjoining and Communicating. — A fire insurance policy on a "frame mill building and all additions thereto adjoining and communicating, occupied by the assured as a pail shop," covers a dry-house and engine-house connected therewith by a movable bridge, where such intention can be gathered from the language of the policy. Marsh v. Concord Mut. F. Ins. Co., 71 N. H. 253, affirming 70 N. H. 590.

652. 3. The admiralty courts of the United States will take jurisdiction in case of an injury to a seaman inflicted at sea on board a foreign ship, which has come within the jurisdiction of the court. Even if the libellant were an alien, it would be the duty of the admiralty court, which, for such cases, is a court of the world, to administer justice. Bolden v. Jensen, 70 Fed. Rep. 505.

American seamen on a foreign vessel may maintain an action for wages in a court of admiralty. The Alnwick, 132 Fed. Rep. 117.

A citizen of the United States who is a party to a suit of admiralty and maritime jurisdiction cannot be deprived of the right to have such a suit adjudicated by a court upon which admiralty jurisdiction has been conferred pursuant to the Constitution. The Neck, 138 Fed. Rep. 144.

4. Discretion in Exercising Jurisdiction in Matters Between Foreigners. — The Troop, (C. C. A.) 128 Fed. Rep. 856; Fairgrieve v. Marine Ins. Co., (C. C. A.) 94 Fed. Rep. 686; Poupirt v. Elder Dempster Shipping Co., 122 Fed. Rep. 983, affirmed (C. C. A.) 125 Fed. Rep. 732. See also The Neck, 138 Fed. Rep. 144.

653. 2. Special Ground Should Appear to Induce Court to Decline to Act. — Panama R. Co. v. Napier Shipping Co., 166 U. S. 280.

654. 1. Foreign Seamen. — Where one of the seamen is a citizen, the court will adjudicate the rights of other seamen similarly situated. The Falls of Keltie, 114 Fed. Rep. 357.

4. Where One of the Seamen Is a Citizen, the fact that the consul of the country of the ship's flag has adjudicated a cause adversely to the seamen, will not prevent the court from taking jurisdiction. The Falls of Keltie, 114 Fed. Rep. 357; The Alnwick, 132 Fed. Rep. 117.

In The Alnwick, 132 Fed. Rep. 117, the court said: "The assumption of jurisdiction against foreign ships has been always a matter of discretion with the court, even when the seamen are foreign also (The Troop, (C. C. A.) 128 Fed. Rep. 862), and this seems to be an instance for its exercise in the libelants' favor, they being American seamen and making a strong case for immediate relief."

Locality Is Not the Sole Test of jurisdiction, in cases of tort, but in conjunction therewith the tort must be committed by or against a vessel, or its owners, officers, or crew. Campbell v. Hackfeld, (C. C. A.) 125 Fed. Rep. 696.

A Beacon Attached to the Soil. — The admiralty has jurisdiction over a suit by the government against a vessel for an injury, commenced and consummated upon navigable water, to a beacon built on piles driven firmly into the bottom. The Blackheath, 195 U. S. 361, reversing 122 Fed. Rep. 112.

657. 3. The Strabo, 90 Fed. Rep. 110; Hermann v. Port Blakely Mill Co., 69 Fed. Rep. 646.

Nor does it affect such jurisdiction that the libellant's right to redress was founded upon a contract, a part of which was to be performed on land. The Willamette Valley, 71 Fed. Rep. 712.

But see The Blackheath, 195 U. S. 361, where it is said that there appears to be no reason why the fact that the injured property was afloat should have more weight in determining the jurisdiction than the fact that the cause of the injury was.

Or to prove that certain goods went into the possession of the assignee. Finance Co. v. Josephson, (Supm. Ct. App. T.) 88 N. Y. Supp. 707.

But his admissions made before assignment are competent. Armour v. Doig, (Fla. 1903) 34 So. Rep. 249.

If a conspiracy or combination had been entered into between the assignor and the assignee to effect a fraud on the creditors and such conspiracy or combination is made to appear prima facie, declarations made after the assignment are admissible. City Nat. Bank v. Bridgers, 128 N. Car. 322.

Attachment Proceedings—Admissions of Debtor.—Bentley v. Woolson Spice Co., (Neb. 1901) 95 N. W. Rep. 803.

Insurance Policy—Admissions of Insured.—The rule in regard to the admissions of the insured in a policy of life insurance is that they are not receivable against the beneficiary in the policy unless a part of the res gesta, because the beneficiary claims in his own right and not as the representative of or through the insured. Goodwin v. Provident Sav. L. Assur. Assoc., 97 Iowa 226, 59 Am. St. Rep. 411; Sutcliffe v. Iowa State Traveling Men's Assoc., 119 Iowa 220, 97 Am. St. Rep. 298; Henn v. Metropolitan L. Ins. Co., 67 N. J. L. 310; Arnold v. Metropolitan L. Ins. Co., 20 Pa. Super. Ct. 61; Thies v. Mutual L. Ins. Co., 13 Tex. Civ. App. 280. But see Atkins v. New York L. Ins. Co., (Tex. Civ. App. 1901) 62 S. W. Rep. 563. And in Manhattan L. Ins. Co. v. Myers, 109 Ky. 372, it was held that the acts and declarations of the insured in regard to the payment of the premium and his final conclusion not to pay it, but to let the policy lapse, were competent against the beneficiary, though she was the wife of the insured.

Within this rule, even an affidavit of the insured filed in a case pending before the insurance was applied for, stating the condition of his health, is not admissible against the beneficiary in a suit on the policy. Thompson v. Security Trust, etc., Co., 63 S. Car. 290.

But such admissions are always receivable against the beneficiary, if they constitute a part of the res gesta. Thus, where the defense to an action on a policy was that the insured committed suicide, it was held that his statement that he shot himself, and his refusal to give any reason for the act, were properly admitted. Sutcliffe v. Iowa State Traveling Men's Assoc., 119 Iowa 220, 97 Am. St. Rep. 298.

A well-founded distinction exists, however, in the case of fraternal benefit insurance, where the beneficiary is named by the insured, and whom he may change at any time before death. In such case there is no vested interest in the beneficiary in the certificate until it becomes fixed by death, and, therefore, in such cases the admissions of the insured are receivable

In Missouri an adoption may be effected by the execution, acknowledgment, and recording of a deed, the process being the same as in a conveyance of real estate. Clarkson v. Hatton, 143 Mo. 47.

728. 1. Strict Compliance. — Watts v. Dull, 184 Ill. 86, 75 Am. St. Rep. 141; Sarazin v. Union R. Co., 153 Mo. 479, citing 1 AM. AND

ENG. ENCYC. OF LAW (2d ed.) 728; Matter of Thorne, 155 N. Y. 140; Brown's Adoption, 25 Pa. Super. Ct. 259, quoting 1 AM. AND ENG. ENCYC. OF LAW (2d ed.) 728.

In order that the right to inherit may be acquired through adoption, there must be a compliance with the statute on the subject. A verbal agreement to adopt is not sufficient, though the child devoted herself to the adopting parents up to the time of their death, and fully performed her duties to them as a daughter. McColpin v. McColpin, (Tex. Civ. App. 1903) 75 S. W. Rep. 824. See also Clark v. West, 96 Tex. 437.

The Mere Surrendering of the Custody of a child does not constitute an adoption. Such a surrender of custody will be presumed not to be permanent, and the burden is on the party asserting the adoption to contravert the presumption. Miller v. Miller, 123 Iowa 165.

An Agreement to Adopt and to take steps, if necessary, to secure such adoption, cannot be made the basis of an agreement to convey land, and cannot be held sufficient to take the place of adoption. Bowins v. English, (Mich. 1904) 101 N. W. Rep. 204.

A Description in a Deed in which the grantee is termed the adopted daughter of the grantor cannot be regarded as an adoption under a special law authorizing the adoption. Conrad v. Herring, (Tex. Civ. App. 1904) 83 S. W. Rep. 427.

Defective Acknowledgment. — Adoption proceedings have been held to be void where the instrument of adoption was not acknowledged as required by the statute. Monk v. McDaniel, 120 Ga. 480. But see Cook v. Bartlett, 179 Mass. 576.

Substantial Compliance. — Matter of Evans, 106 Cal. 562; Matter of McKeag, 141 Cal. 403, 99 Am. St. Rep. 80; Flannigan v. Howard, 200 Ill. 396, 93 Am. St. Rep. 201; Hilpire v. Claude, 109 Iowa 159, 77 Am. St. Rep. 524; Ferguson v. Herr, (Neb. 1903) 94 N. W. Rep. 542.

The neglect by the recorder to properly index the record in an adoption proceeding, as required by statute, is an immaterial defect, and does not vitiate the adoption. Bresser v. Saarman, 112 Iowa 720.

Where it appeared that the statute of the state where the adoption took place was complied with in every particular excepting possibly the requirement of acknowledgment, it was held proper to submit it to the jury to determine whether or not there had been a sufficient conformity. Cook v. Bartlett, 179 Mass. 576.

In Wisconsin failure to state that the natural parents of such child shall be deprived of all legal rights respecting such child is immaterial where the statute is strictly followed as respects the contents of the order. In re Sandon, (Wis. 1905) 101 N. W. Rep. 1089.

728. 2. Henry v. Taylor, 16 S. Dak. 424. See also Merchant v. White, 77 N. Y. App. Div. 539, 12 N. Y. Annot. Cas. 233.

Indian Custom. — Where the grandmother of an Indian child, abandoned by its mother, took care of the child until its death, the grandmother could not on showing such facts merely claim that she had adopted the child, although according to a custom adhered to by the Indians an adoption had taken place. Non-she-po v. Wa-win-ta, 37 Oregon 213, 82 Am. St. Rep. 749.

3. Sarazin v. Union R. Co., 153 Mo. 479, quoting 1 AM. AND ENG. ENCYC. OF LAW (2d ed.) 728; Lynn v. Hockaday, 162 Mo. 111, 85 Am. St. Rep. 480.

In such cases the right of the claimant is derived solely from the contract and not by virtue of an intended adoption. Steele v. Steele, 161 Mo. 566.

Noncompliance with the statute by a woman who signs a paper with her husband adopting a child does not invalidate the adoption as to the husband. Burnes v. Burnes, 132 Fed. Rep. 485.

In Albring v. Ward, (Mich. 1904) 100 N. W. Rep. 609, 11 Detroit Leg. N. 328, it is stated as a matter of dictum that if the statute is not complied with the adoption fails and "the supposed adopted person obtains no interest in the property or estate of the adopting person."

Measure of Damages. — The defendant's intestate during his lifetime contracted with the plaintiff that he would adopt her and provide for her to the extent of leaving her one-half of his property at his death. The plaintiff remained with the deceased sixteen months, but no steps to adopt were ever taken. In an action for breach of contract it was held that the measure of damages was the value of the services rendered by the plaintiff. Sandham v. Grounds, 36 C. C. A. 103, 94 Fed. Rep. 83.

Specific Performance. — The plaintiff when a child was virtually adopted under a verbal agreement on the part of the deceased to bring the plaintiff up as his own child and to provide for her in his will as such. The contract having been fully performed except as to the provision in the will, the court decreed that the plaintiff was entitled to specific performance of the entire agreement. Healy v. Healy, 167 N. Y. 572, 55 N. Y. App. Div. 315.

In Grantham v. Gossett, 182 Mo. 651, the court makes the following statement, supported by the citation of a number of cases: "Oral contracts of the kind stated in the petition [a contract to adopt a child and make a will in his or her favor] when proven according to the standard of proof required, and shown to have been performed on the part of the parent and that of the child, when to suffer it to go unenforced would be to suffer a fraud to be perpetrated, will be decreed to be specifically performed." But the proof of such a contract must be to the point and must show beyond doubt that the parties did so contract. The court here ruled that the evidence offered was insufficient.

Where there has not been a substantial compliance with the statutes governing adoption and where the value of the services of the foster child are easily ascertainable, a parol agreement to make said foster child an heir will not be enforced even though the child has made a complete performance of the contractual obligation. Renz v. Drury, 57 Kan. 84.

729. 1. Consent of Parents. — Bresser v. Saarman, 112 Iowa 720.

The law of Massachusetts provides that "a giving up in writing of a child, for the purpose of adoption, to a charitable institution incorporated by law, shall operate as a consent to any adoption subsequently approved by such institution." Stearns v. Allen, 183 Mass. 404, 97 Am. St. Rep. 441.

Adoption by Deed. — Where the method of adoption is by the execution of a deed, there is in the Missouri statutes no provision made for consent of the natural parents of the adopted party, and it is held that such consent is not necessary to entitle the child to inherit as heir from the adopting parent. Clarkson v. Hatton, 143 Mo. 47.

Failure to Examine the Father does not affect the validity of the adoption where the court has acquired jurisdiction of all the parties whose consent is necessary. Matter of McKeag, 141 Cal. 403, 99 Am. St. Rep. 80.

Word "Parents" Construed. — In re Gregory, (Surrogate Ct.) 25 Civ. Pro. (N. Y.) 71, 13 Misc. (N. Y.) 363.

father not being obtained for the reason that he had been the offending party in a suit for divorce, a modifying decree of the divorce court, subsequent to the adoption, giving the custody of the child to the father for a part of each year, is ineffectual upon the status of the child as determined by the adoption. Younger v. Younger, 106 Cal. 377.

In Iowa the statute requires, in cases where parents are divorced or separated, the consent only of the parent entitled to the custody of the child; but it is held that the deed of adoption must clearly show the parent's consent. Hopkins v. Antrobus, 120 Iowa 21.

Consent of the mother is necessary only when she is living with her husband, or has custody and control of her child. James v. James, 35 Wash. 650.

730. 1. Abandonment of Child. — Watts v. Dull, 184 Ill. 86, 75 Am. St. Rep. 141 [citing 1 AM. AND ENG. ENCYC. OF LAW (2d ed.) 729, 730]; Parsons v. Parsons, 101 Wis. 76, 70 Am. St. Rep. 894. See Von Beck v. Thomsen, 44 N. Y. App. Div. 373, 7 N. Y. Annot. Cas. 33.

In some states it is provided by statute that the consent of a parent who has abandoned his child shall not be required in adoption proceedings. Watts v. Dull, 184 Ill. 86, 75 Am. St. Rep. 141; Wilson v. Otis, 71 N. H. 483, 93 Am. St. Rep. 564; Richards v. Matteson, 8 S. Dak. 77.

3. Next of Kin. — It is within the jurisdiction of the court to determine who may be the next of kin of the child adopted. Parsons v. Parsons, 101 Wis. 76, 70 Am. St. Rep. 894.

4. Consent of Child. — Stearns v. Allen, 183 Mass. 404, 97 Am. St. Rep. 441.

5. In re Gregory, (Surrogate Ct.) 25 Civ. Pro. (N. Y.) 71, 13 Misc. (N. Y.) 363.

731. 1. Who May Adopt. — Hopkins v. Antrobus, 120 Iowa 21.

In Massachusetts any person over twenty-one may adopt another younger than himself. Under the statute reciting the above it was held that the adoption of persons of middle age by a man of seventy was valid. Collamore v. Learned, 171 Mass. 99.

Specified Difference in Age Required. — See Baskette v. Streight, 106 Tenn. 549; Stearns v. Allen, 183 Mass. 404, 97 Am. St. Rep. 441.

Guardian May Adopt. — Unforsake's Succession, 48 La. Ann. 546.

2. Consent of Other Spouse Necessary. — The Kentucky statute providing that no order of adoption shall be made unless the husband or wife of the petitioner joins in the petition does not require that a petition shall be signed or sworn to by the wife of the petitioner, but merely that she shall join on the face of the petition. Bland v. Gollaher, (Tenn. Ch. 1898) 48 S. W. Rep. 320.

The Tennessee statute does not require a joint application by husband and wife for the adoption of a child, but provides generally that any person may adopt another on giving sufficient reasons and obtaining the sanction of the court. Under this statute where an adoption is by a husband without the concurrence of his wife, he is the exclusive adoptive parent, and at his death his widow has no right to the custody of the child as against its natural parents. Baskette v. Streight, 106 Tenn. 549.

Joint Adoption by Husband and Wife. — Stearns v. Allen, 183 Mass. 404, 97 Am. St. Rep. 441.

Under a statute providing that an adoption by a married person shall be in the form of a joint adoption by husband and wife, it is not sufficient for a wife to show that her husband is insane and for that reason did not join, and in such a case the right of adoption is denied. Watts v. Dull, 184 Ill. 86, 75 Am. St. Rep. 141.

3. Child Defined. — The word "child," as used in statutes of adoption, is not synonymous with "issue" and is more comprehensive in its meaning than the latter word. Virgin v. Marwick, 97 Me. 578. See also the title CHILD — CHILDREN.

Mere Irregularities are insufficient to annul the decree of adoption where the relationship has been entered into with honesty of purpose. Brown's Adoption, 25 Pa. Super. Ct. 259.

A Mere Error of the Clerk is not sufficient to invalidate an order of adoption, and the court may amend the record several years later by a nunc pro tunc order. Ward v. Magness, (Ark. 1905) 86 S. W. Rep. 822.

2. Collateral Attack. — Matter of McKeag, 141 Cal. 403, 99 Am. St. Rep. 80; Flannigan v. Howard, 200 Ill. 396, 93 Am. St. Rep. 201; Caldwell's Succession, (La. 1905) 38 So. Rep. 140, quoting 1 AM. AND ENG. ENCYC. OF LAW (2d ed.) 736; Wilson v. Otis, 71 N. H. 483, 93 Am. St. Rep. 564; Crocker v. Balch, 104 Tenn. 6.

A determination by a judge that the child to be adopted in proceedings for that purpose had been abandoned by its parent was a jurisdictional fact and is not open to collateral attack. Matter of Camp, 131 Cal. 469, 82 Am. St. Rep. 371.

In ejectment to recover lands claimed by the plaintiff as the adopted child of the deceased owner, it was held that it might be shown that the record in the adoption proceedings did not state the residence of the adopted party as expressly required by statute and that it was therefore void. Morris v. Dooley, 59 Ark. 483.

737. 3. Adult Inhabitants within the meaning of a statute prohibiting the sale of intoxicating liquors upon the petition of a majority of the adult inhabitants of a certain district means all males over the age of twenty-one years and females over the age of eighteen years. Wilson v. Lawrence, 70 Ark. 545.

ADULTERATION.

BY M. B. WAILES.

738. I. DEFINITION AND SCOPE — Definition. — See note 1.

739. III. BY STATUTE. — See note 2.

738. 1. Grosvenor v. Duffy, 121 Mich. 220; Com. v. Hufnal, 185 Pa. St. 376.

739. 2. Statutes Prohibiting Adulteration Valid under Police Power. — People v. Worden Grocer Co., 118 Mich. 604; People v. Hinshaw, (Mich. 1904) 97 N. W. Rep. 758; People v. Snowberger, 113 Mich. 86, 67 Am. St. Rep. 449; State v. Williams, (Minn. 1904) 100 N. W. Rep. 641 (linseed oil below test); Crossman v. Lurman, 171 N. Y. 329, 98 Am. St. Rep. 599, affirming 57 N. Y. App. Div. 393 (adulterated coffee); Com. v. Hartman, 6 Pa. Dist. 136; Com. v. Kevin, 202 Pa. St. 23, 90 Am. St. Rep. 613.

Sale of Food and Drugs Act — Adulteration by Abstraction. — Where a chemist supplied a purchaser with an ointment containing a smaller proportion of mercury than that prescribed by the pharmacopœia, it was held that the chemist was liable under section 6 of the act, although the purchaser did not refer to the pharmacopœia, as he must be taken to have demanded that the ointment be compounded of the proportions therein prescribed. Dickins v. Randerson, (1901) 1 K. B. 437. In this case it was further held that the fact that the ointment was a compounded drug would not take it out of section 6 of the above act. And see to the same effect Beardsley v. Walton, (1900) 2 Q. B. 1.

A Joint Stock Company Is a Person who may be convicted of an offense under section 6 of this act. Pearks v. Ward, (1902) 2 K. B. 1.

Knowledge of Purchaser. — A sale may be to the prejudice of the purchaser within section 6, although the purchaser had special knowledge, not derived from information given by the seller, that the article sold was not of the nature, substance, and quality demanded by him. The test is whether the sale would have been to the prejudice of a purchaser who had not that special knowledge. Pearks v. Ward, (1902) 2 K. B. 1.

Butter — Notice in Shop — Label on Wrapper. — A notice displayed on the walls of a shop that the butter sold was blended with milk by machinery, whereby it retained about twenty to twenty-four per cent. of moisture, is sufficient to protect the seller within the meaning of section 6 of the Sale of Food and Drugs Act. But a label on the inner wrapper in which the butter was delivered is not a sufficient notice by label within section 8 of this act. Pearks v. Houghton, (1902) 1 K. B. 889.

False Warranty — Limit of Time for Taking Proceedings. — Whitaker v. Pomfret, (1902) 1 K. B. 661.

False Warranty — Jurisdiction — Place Where Article Purchased for Analysis. — Manners v. Tyler, (1902) 1 K. B. 901; McNair v. Cave, (1903) 1 K. B. 24.

740. Oleomargarine. — See note 1.

Mode of Dividing Sample Purchased for Analysis. — Mason v. Cowdary, (1900) 2 Q. B. 419.

Alcoholic Liquors. — A Sale of Beer as Food, containing salicylic acid in any quantity, without a label on the package notifying the buyer that it contains such ingredient, is, when the beer is found to be poisonous or deleterious to health by its continuous or indiscriminate use, an offense against the pure food laws of the state, under the definition of an adulteration contained in clause 7, paragraph "b," section 3, of the act as amended April 22, 1890. State v. Hutchinson, 55 Ohio St. 573.

Whiskey is recognized by that name in the pharmacopœia, where its proper standard of purity and strength is laid down, and is a drug within the meaning of the pure food and drug statute. State v. Hutchinson, 56 Ohio St. 82.

Lard — Minnesota. — State v. Hanson, 84 Minn. 42, holding that the Minnesota statute prohibits the sale of cottole manufactured so as to resemble lard unless the package containing it is labeled "Lard Substitute."

740. 1. Oleomargarine — Validity of Act Prohibiting Sale. — State v. Armour Packing Co., 124 Iowa 323; State v. Rogers, 95 Me. 94, 85 Am. St. Rep. 395; People v. Rotter, 131 Mich. 250; People v. Phillips, 131 Mich. 395; State v. Bockstruck, 136 Mo. 335; Beha v. State, (Neb. 1903) 93 N. W. Rep. 155; State v. Ball, 70 N. H. 40; McCann v. Com., 198 Pa. St. 509; Com. v. Diefenbacher, 14 Pa. Super. Ct. 264; Com. v. Andrews, 24 Pa. Super. Ct. 571.

Interstate Commerce. — In Schollenberger v. Pennsylvania, 171 U. S. 1, the court said: "The general rule to be deduced from the decisions of this court is that a lawful article of commerce cannot be wholly excluded from importation into a state from another state where it was manufactured or grown. A state has power to regulate the introduction of any article, including a food product, so as to insure purity of the article imported, but such police power does not include the total exclusion even of an article of food. * * * The act of the legislature of Pennsylvania, under consideration, to the extent that it prohibits the introduction of oleomargarine from another state and its sale in the original package, as described in the special verdict, is invalid." Followed in Armour Packing Co. v. Snyder, 84 Fed. Rep. 136; In re Scheitlin, 99 Fed. Rep. 272; State v. Rogers, 95 Me. 94, 85 Am. St. Rep. 395; Fox v. State, 89 Md. 381, 73 Am. St. Rep. 193; Rasch v. State, 89 Md. 757; McAllister v. State, 94 Md. 290; Com. v. Vandyke, 13 Pa. Super. Ct. 484.

Thus a New Hampshire statute prohibiting the sale of oleomargarine as a substitute for butter, unless of a pink color, was held to be invalid as absolutely prohibitory. Collins v. New Hampshire, 171 U. S. 30. But see Armour Packing Co. v. Snyder, 84 Fed. Rep. 136.

And a state statute permitting the manufacture and sale of oleomargarine free from any coloring matter causing it to appear to be butter, but expressly forbidding the manufacture or sale within the state of any oleomargarine which contains any methyl, orange, butter yellow, annatto, aniline dye, or any other coloring matter, is constitutional. Capital City Dairy Co. v. Ohio, 183 U. S. 238.

Sale in Unbroken Packages. — A state statute prohibiting the sale of process butter unless it is plainly marked with the words "Renovated Butter," so as to prevent the imposition of a fraud on the public, falls within the police powers of the state, and is not in violation of art. 1, § 8 of the Federal Constitution, which delegates to Congress the power to regulate commerce between the states, even when such butter is sent from another state for purposes of sale in unbroken packages. Hathaway v. McDonald, 27 Wash. 659.

Construction of Statutes. — The Term "Yellow Butter," as used in the Michigan act prohibiting the sale of oleomargarine colored in imitation of yellow butter made from cream, means any butter produced from pure milk, or cream thereof, having a perceptible shade of yellow. People v. Phillips, 131 Mich. 395.

New York — Must Prove Intention to Sell as Butter. — People v. Meyer, 44 N. Y. App. Div. 1.

The Court Cannot Take Judicial Notice of the semblance of butter, and the plaintiff must establish that the oleomargarine kept, used, or served by the defendant has been so changed as to resemble dairy butter. People v. Meyer, 44 N. Y. App. Div. 1; People v. Hillman, 58 N. Y. App. Div. 571; People v. Berwind, (Supm. Ct. Tr. T.) 38 Misc. (N. Y.) 315.

Preservation of Portion of Sample. — The Massachusetts statute punishing the manufacture and sale of imitation butter, which provides for inspectors of milk taking samples of suspected butter, does not require the preservation of a portion before analysis, as does the statute in regard to the sale of adulterated milk. Com. v. Ryberg, 177 Mass. 67.

Seizure by Dairy Commissioner. — Under Laws Wash. 1899, p. 56, providing in section 28 that the dairy commissioner may seize and take possession of any article the sale of which is prohibited by that act, and in section 30 that no one shall manufacture or offer for sale process butter, unless the same is plainly marked "Renovated Butter," under penalty of fine or imprisonment, or both fine and imprisonment, the dairy commissioner is authorized to seize such process butter when kept for sale in violation of law, since by a construction of the two sections together the commissioner is fully clothed with such power, although the penalty by fine and imprisonment is imposed. Hathaway v. McDonald, 27 Wash. 659.

Inspection — Brands and Marks. — The subjects of section 5 of the Act of May 9, 1902, c. 784, 32 Stat. 196, are clearly "process or renovated butter," and the marking and branding thereof, prior to transportation. It is equally clear that the purposes of the section are to provide for the sanitary inspection of such butter at the place of manufacture, and to take every precaution in order that none shall be shipped from the factory which can in any way be injurious to the health of the consumer. All rules and regulations adopted by the secretary of agriculture which are calculated to carry such subjects and purposes into full effect have all the force of the statute itself. But a regulation forbidding the obliteration of a brand does not tend to aid in enforcement of the act and will not support an information for obliterating a brand. U. S. v. Bohl, 125 Fed. Rep. 625.

Tax on Manufacturers. — A federal statute providing for the taxation of persons engaged in the manufacture or sale of oleomargarine does not authorize such manufacture or sale in a state in which either is lawfully forbidden. People v. Meyer, 89 N. Y. App. Div. 185.

741. 1. Milk Below a Certain Standard Deemed Adulterated. — The Rhode Island statute provides that if milk be shown on analysis to contain more than eighty-eight per centum of watery fluids, or to contain less than twelve per centum of milk solids, or less than two and one-half per centum of milk fats, it shall be deemed to be adulterated. It is enough for the purpose of the prosecution if the milk complained of fails to meet the requirement of the statute in either of the three particulars specified. State v. Luther, 20 R. I. 472.

The Question Whether the Standard of Milk described by a statute is reasonable or not is not open to inquiry on the trial. Weigand v. District of Columbia, 22 App. Cas. (D. C.) 559.

Kind of Foreign Matter Used in Adulterating Immaterial. — State v. Schlenker, 112 Iowa 642, 84 Am. St. Rep. 360.

City Ordinances. — An ordinance providing for an examination of milk and the establishment where it is produced and the cows producing it, and prohibiting the sale of impure milk, is constitutional. Walton v. Toledo, 23 Ohio Cir. Dec. 547; Norfolk v. Flynn, 101 Va. 473, 99 Am. St. Rep. 918.

Experts. — A physician who is also a chemist was held to be qualified as an expert to testify on the effect of formaldehyde on milk as a substance of food, though his knowledge had been gained from reading and conversation and not from experiments. Isehour v. State, 157 Ind. 517, 87 Am. St. Rep. 228.

Constitutionality of Statutes. — A statute prohibiting the sale of adulterated milk is within the police power of the state, though there is no fraud or deceit in the sale, and the adulteration is harmless. State v. Schlenker, 112 Iowa 642, 84 Am. St. Rep. 360.

Gen. Stat. Minn. (1894), § 7002, which prohibits the sale of cream that contains less than twenty per centum of fat, is a valid exercise of the police power and is constitutional. State v. Crescent Creamery Co., 83 Minn. 284, 85 Am. St. Rep. 464.

The New York statute (Laws 1893, c. 338, as amended by Laws 1900, c. 101) providing a penalty for exposing for sale adulterated cream is constitutional. People v. Hills, 64 N. Y. App. Div. 584; People v. Laesser, 79 N. Y. App. Div. 384.

742. 1. Regulations as to Skimmed Milk. —

It is not an indictable offense under the Act of June 26, 1895, P. L. 317, entitled "An Act to provide against the adulteration of foods," etc., to sell, as "skimmed milk," milk from which the cream or butter fat has been taken by the centrifugal or "separator" process. Com. v. Hufnal, 185 Pa. St. 376.

2. Sufficiency of Evidence. — In an action for a penalty for selling adulterated cream, evidence that the number on the milk wagon corresponded with the defendant's license number, and that the cream was seized while the wagon was being driven through the streets of a city by a person admitted to be in his employ, was held sufficient to warrant a conviction, though there was no evidence of a direct sale. People v. Hills, 64 N. Y. App. Div. 584.

3. Manner of Taking Sample. — The analysis of a sample of milk taken from only part of the product delivered by the producer at any one time to a single purchaser will not afford a basis for an action for a penalty. People v. Wiard, 61 N. Y. App. Div. 612, affirmed 170 N. Y. 590; People v. Gilmor, 73 N. Y. App. Div. 483.

The provision of the statute requiring the taking of a sample of the "mixed milk of the herd of cows" from which the milk claimed to be adulterated was drawn applies only to the producer and not to a mere peddler. People v. Laesser, 79 N. Y. App. Div. 384.

The question of the fairness of the sample is ordinarily for the jury, but not where there is a total lack of evidence tending to impeach the fairness of the sample. People v. Laesser, 79 N. Y. App. Div. 384.

Manner of Taking Analysis. — "The object of the analysis is to show the amount of milk solids or of fat, and if a defendant in any case is furnished with those he is furnished, we think, with the analysis required by the statute to be sent to him." Com. v. McCance, 176 Mass. 292.

The Act of Congress of Feb. 17, 1898, impliedly repealed the Act of March 2, 1895, so as to make it no longer necessary to make the analysis in the presence of two witnesses; but the party having the milk or other articles of food for sale is required upon application to furnish a sample thereof to an officer of the health department for analysis, and the party analyzing the article is required to reserve a portion of the same, sealed, for thirty days, which in case of complaint shall be delivered to the defendant or his attorney. Weigand v. District of Columbia, 22 App. Cas. (D. C.) 559.

In the proceeding to recover a penalty for the violation of placitum 36 of the Act to Prevent the Adulteration of Milk (Gen. Stat., p. 1170), it is not necessary to show the particular manner in which the analysis was conducted. All that it was necessary to allege or to prove was that the milk contained more than eighty-eight per centum of watery fluids, or less than twelve per centum of milk solids. Vandegrift v. Meihle, 66 N. J. L. 92.

743. Other Articles.—See note 1.

Test by Lactometer.—See Com. v. Darling-ton, 9 Pa. Dist. 700.

Certificate of Analysis, When Admissible in Evidence.—In a prosecution under the Sale of Food and Drugs Act, 1875, for selling adulterated milk to a purchaser, the only evidence of adulteration was the certificate of the public analyst, which stated that the sample submitted to him "contained the percentage of foreign ingredients as under:—five per cent. of added water," it was held that the certificate was bad as evidence, under the act, of adulteration, because it did not state the constituent parts of the sample analyzed. Fortune v. Hanson, (1896) 1 Q. B. 202.

In a prosecution under the Sale of Food and Drugs Act, 1875, for selling adulterated milk, the certificate of the public analyst stated that the sample submitted to him contained six per cent. of added water, and went on to say: "This opinion is based on the fact that the sample contained 7.97 per cent. solids not fat, whereas genuine milk contains not less than 8.5 per cent. solids not fat." It was held that the certificate was good, although it did not state the constituent parts of the sample analyzed. Bridge v. Howard, (1897) 1 Q. B. 80.

Sufficiency of Certificate.—The insertion in the certificate given by a public analyst under the Sale of Food and Drugs Act, 1875, of the weight of the sample analyzed, is obligatory only where the weight of the sample is material to the accuracy of the analysis, and its omission does not necessarily invalidate the certificate where the accuracy of the analysis does not in any way depend upon the weight of the sample. Sneath v. Taylor, (1901) 2 K. B. 376.

Certificate of Analysis Not Conclusive.—At the hearing of an information under the Sale of Food and Drugs Act, 1875, the production of the certificate of the analyst is not conclusive evidence if the defendant tenders himself as a witness and gives evidence on his own behalf. Hewitt v. Taylor, (1896) 1 Q. B. 287.

743. 1. Michigan Statute.—Right of Defendant to Sample.—One charged with the sale of vinegar not in compliance with the statutory standard is not entitled to have a sample of the vinegar left with him by the prosecution, nor can he complain, upon conviction, that he was deprived of his property without due process of law because he was unable to obtain a sample for analysis, where he was not prevented from doing so by any person interested in the prosecution of the suit. People v. Worden Grocer Co., 118 Mich. 604.

Coloring Matter.—The provision of the statute prohibiting coloring an article, whereby damage or inferiority is concealed, has no application where the coloring matter employed in the manufacture of a lemon extract was not injurious to public health and the difference from the standard article in other respects consisted only in the elimination of nonessential ingredients. People v. Jennings, 132 Mich. 662.

Use of Harmless Coloring Matter No Defense.—The use of coal-tar dye, though harmless, to make vanilla extract appear of a better quality than it is, is within the Michigan statute prohibiting adulteration by coloring to conceal inferiority of an article. People v. Hinshaw, (Mich. 1904) 97 N. W. Rep. 758.

Substitution of Inferior Substance.—The provision of the Michigan statute that an article is adulterated "if any inferior or cheaper substance or substances have been substituted wholly or in part for it" should be construed in connection with the following provision: "if any valuable or necessary constituent or ingredient has been wholly or in part abstracted from it;" and therefore means the substitution of a cheaper or inferior substance for an essential ingredient. People v. Jennings, 132 Mich. 662.

New York Statute.—Adulterated Lemonade.—Where the defendant sold a preparation known as "Eiffel Tower Lemonade," which it appeared was manufactured of sugar, tartaric acid, citric acid, and five per cent. oil of lemon, it was held that a conviction would properly lie under section 41 of the New York Public Health Law. People v. Park, 60 N. Y. App. Div. 255.

The Prohibition Against the Sale of Dairy Products Containing a Preservative in the New York Agricultural Law is unconstitutional. People v. Biesecker, 169 N. Y. 53, 88 Am. St. Rep. 534, affirming 58 N. Y. App. Div. 391.

Vinegar.—In People v. Henry J. Heinz Co., 90 N. Y. App. Div. 408, the court said that the object of the statute, namely, to prevent adulteration and injury to health, is not defeated, or in any way hindered, by the treatment of the apple juice in the course of manufacture by the introduction of pure water for the purpose of reducing the product to the proper degree of acidity. "So long as the product complied with the standard of unadulterated products, all its ingredients being pure and in no way deleterious, it ought not to be declared impure or adulterated. The construction to be given to the word 'pure,' as used in section 50 of this statute, should be 'free from mixture or contact with that which is deleterious, impairs, vitiates, or pollutes.' Within this definition no violation of the statute has been shown."

Tagging Carcasses of Calves.—A statute making it unlawful "to ship to or from any part of this state" any carcass of a calf unless there is attached thereto a tag stating certain facts is not violative of the interstate commerce provisions of the Federal Constitution, nor does it conflict with the New York constitution as an unreasonable interference with private rights and property. People v. Bishopp, (Supm. Ct. Spec. T.) 44 Misc. (N. Y.) 12.

Ohio Statute.—Fraud on Purchaser.—To offer for sale as an article of food and as liquid coffee, a mixture of liquid coffee and chicory, is an offense under the statute, whether the compound be deleterious or not. It is a fraud on the purchaser. State v. Dreher, 55 Ohio St. 115.

Whether or Not an Analysis of the Adulterated Food should be made is discretionary with the trial judge. Breckenridge v. State, 4 Ohio Dec. 389.

Pennsylvania Statute.—Nature of Foreign Substance Added.—The Act of June 26, 1895, P. L. 317, entitled "An Act to provide against the adulteration of food and providing for the enforcement thereof," as properly construed, 744. Intent.— See notes 1, 2, 3.

prohibits the addition to a food product of any foreign substance poisonous or injurious to health, regardless of the quantity used, or whether or not the quantity of the substance used was sufficient to make the adulterated article poisonous or injurious to health. It is not the quantity but the nature of the substance added which the act prohibits. Com. v. Kevin, 202 Pa. St. 23, 90 Am. St. Rep. 613.

Texas Statute—Diseased Meat.—The mere fact that an animal's leg was broken and swollen when killed does not warrant a conviction for the sale of diseased meat under the Texas statute. Marxen v. State, 44 Tex. Crim. 41.

744. 1. Guilty Intent Not Necessary—Milk.—U. S. v. Southern R. Co., 135 Fed. Rep. 122 citing obiter 1 AM. AND ENG. ENCYC. OF LAW (2d ed.) 744; Reg. v. McIntosh, 33 Can. L. J. 246; Spiers v. Bennett, (1896) 2 Q. B. 65; Weigand v. District of Columbia, 22 App. Cas. (D. C.) 559; State v. Schlenker, 112 Iowa 642, 84 Am. St. Rep. 360; Vandegrift v. Meihle, 66 N. J. L. 92; People v. Laesser, 79 N. Y. App. Div. 384.

Oleomargarine.—State v. Rogers, 95 Me. 94, 85 Am. St. Rep. 395; State v. Ryan, 70 N. H. 196, 85 Am. St. Rep. 629; People v. Meyer, 44 N. Y. App. Div. 1; People v. Hillman, 58 N. Y. App. Div. 571, holding an intent to imitate natural butter not necessary if the article made is like natural butter; State v. Rippeth, 71 Ohio St. 85.

Com. v. Seiler, 20 Pa. Super. Ct. 260, holding that a dealer in butter who has bought renovated butter as and for creamery butter, believing it to be creamery butter, and sells it as such in good faith, is liable under the Act of July 10, 1901, for not having taken out a license. In such a case the intention of the violators of the law is immaterial.

Beer.—Beer, with which a quantity of arsenic injurious to health had been mixed in the process of manufacture, and which is sold by the retailer without knowledge or reasonable grounds for suspicion of the presence of arsenic, is not beer of the quality required by the act, and the retailer may be convicted under section 6 thereof. *Goulder v. Evidence of Good Character of defendant inadmissible where habitual sales of imitation butter were admitted. Com. v. Kolb, 13 Pa. Super. Ct. 347.

An Agent who, in good faith, takes an order for pure goods, is not guilty of a violation of the pure-food law, if his principal fills the order with adulterated goods. People v. Skillman, 129 Mich. 618; People v. Morse, 131 Mich. 68.

Where a milk salesman contracted to deliver pure milk to an association at a railway terminus, and delivered the milk in a pure and unadulterated condition to the railway company at a local station, and the milk was adulterated without his knowledge or consent during the transit from the local station to the terminus, it was held that the salesman was nevertheless guilty under section 6 of the Sale of Food and Drugs Act, 1875. Parker v. Alder, (1899) 1 Q. B. 20.

Defense—Written Warranty.—In a prosecution under the Sale of Food and Drugs Act, 1875, for adulterating milk, where the defendant relies on section 25 as a defense, it is sufficient if, in order to prove that he bought the milk in question with a written warranty, he proves that he had contracted with dairymen to supply him with milk daily; that they gave him a written warranty with respect to all milk which they should so supply, and that the milk in question was sold and supplied to him under that contract and warranty. He need not prove a specific written warranty with respect to each delivery, nor need there be evidence in writing to connect the milk in question with the warranty on which he relies. Elliot v. Pilcher, (1901) 2 K. B. 817, distinguishing Robertson v. Harris, (1900) 2 Q. B. 117.

2. Intent to Sell.—The mere fact that adulterated milk is found in cans upon one of defendant's wagons on the public street, and that his driver stated that they were for delivery, is not sufficient to show a sale or exposure for sale within the meaning of the statute. People v. Wright, (Supm. Ct. App. T.) 19 Misc. (N. Y.) 135; People v. Kellina, (Supm. Ct. App. T.) 23 Misc. (N. Y.) 134; People v. McDermott-Bunger Dairy Co., (Supm. Ct. App. T.) 38 Misc. (N. Y.) 365. Compare People v. Koch, (Supm. Ct. App. T.) 19 Misc. (N. Y.) 634.

The intent to sell adulterated milk or to have it for sale is an essential element of the offense, and mere possession alone apart from any such intent or purpose is not inhibited. People v. Timmerman, 79 N. Y. App. Div. 565, affirmed 179 N. Y. 550.

Sale in Restaurant.—The keeper or proprietor of a restaurant who keeps, uses, and serves for food to his guests, customers, and patrons, and for cooking, an article known as oleomargarine, made in imitation or semblance of butter produced from unadulterated milk or cream, subjects himself to the penalty imposed therefor by the Agricultural Law (L. 1893, c. 338, §§ 26, 27, 28) and it need not be alleged or proved by the plaintiff that the article in question was kept, used, or served as "butter" by said keeper or proprietor. People v. Berwind, (Supm. Ct. Tr. T.) 38 Misc. (N. Y.) 315.

3. See Com. v. Davison, 11 Pa. Super. Ct. 130, holding that the fact that the article sold was in imitation of butter is an essential element to a conviction under the Pennsylvania statute.

4. See Boone v. Thornsby, (Ky. 1899) 51 S. W. Rep. 563.

5. Uncle and Niece. — See Matter of Cramer, (Surrogate Ct.) 43 Misc. (N. Y.) 494, wherein a transaction between uncle and niece was held not to constitute an advancement.

7. A Brother to whom the deceased gave property during his lifetime is not a "descendant" within the meaning of the West Virginia statute controlling the question of advancements. Waldron v. Taylor, 52 W. Va. 284, wherein Brannon, J., in a dissenting opinion, quotes 1 AM. AND ENG. ENCYC. OF LAW (2d ed.) 775.

8. Father-in-law and Daughter-in-law. — But it was held that where a father transferred part of his farm to his daughter-in-law, intending it as his son's distributive share in his estate, and the son acquiesced in such disposition, this constituted an advancement to the son. Palmer v. Culbertson, 143 N. Y. 213.

9. Intention. — Moore v. Moore, 1 N. Bruns. Eq. Rep. 204. Comp. Schweitzer v. Schweitzer, (Ky. 1904) 82 S. W. Rep. 625.

11. Bissell v. Bissell, 120 Iowa 127.

13. To Constitute an Advancement the Transfer Must Be Voluntary. — Bissell v. Bissell, 120 Iowa 127.

776. 1. The Intention Will Not Be Presumed. — Moore v. Moore, 1 N. Bruns. Eq. Rep. 204.

2. Parol. — Faylor v. Faylor, 136 Cal. 92; Justis v. Justis, (Md. 1904) 57 Atl. Rep. 23; Palmer v. Culbertson, 143 N. Y. 213.

3. Statute Requiring Writing. — Bartmess v. Fuller, 170 Ill. 193; Gary v. Newton, 201 Ill. 170; Young v. Young, 204 Ill. 430; Jones v. Dawson, 68 Ill. App. 70; Boden v. Mier, (Neb. 1904) 98 N. W. Rep. 701; Pomeroy v. Pomeroy, 93 Wis. 262; Schmidt v. Schmidt, (Wis. 1904) 101 N. W. Rep. 678.

The Illinois statute provides that "no gift or grant shall be deemed to have been made in advancement unless so expressed in writing or charged in writing, by the intestate, as an advancement, or acknowledged in writing by the child or other descendant." Under this statute it is held that any advancement which is not evidenced in the manner required by the statute is in legal effect no advancement at all, however clear it may appear that it was so intended. Marshall v. Coleman, 187 Ill. 556.

The Nebraska statute requires that advancements be expressed in the gift or grant to be made as such, or, that they be charged in writing by the intestate as an advancement, or acknowledged in writing as such by the child or other descendant. Lodge v. Fitch, (Neb. 1904) 101 N. W. Rep. 338.

4. Lisle v. Huffman, 88 Mo. App. 143.

In the absence of special circumstances showing consideration or moral obligation for remittances from a mother to her son, it was held that the money should be considered advancements even against the intention of the mother. Heyward v. Middleton, 65 S. Car. 493.

Acts and Circumstances may be proved to show that a conveyance was not intended to be an advancement. Brennaman v. Schell, 212 Ill. 356.

777. 1. General Rule as to Subsequent Declarations. — Howard v. Howard, 101 Ga. 224; Ellis v. Newell, 120 Iowa 71; Dare's Estate, 24 Pa. Co. Ct. 58; Garner v. Taylor, (Tenn. Ch. 1900) 58 S. W. Rep. 758.

2. When Subsequent Declarations Part of Res Gestæ. — Heady v. Brown, 151 Ind. 75; West v. Beck, 95 Iowa 520; Bailey v. Barclay, 109 Ky. 636, citing 1 AM. AND ENG. ENCYC. OF LAW (2d ed.) 776.

But it has been held that though subsequent declarations of the father to a third person, to the effect that he had made advancements to a child, were not admissible, yet subsequent declarations were admissible to show that he had given the child nothing, since they were admissions against his interest. Waddell v. Waddell, 87 Mo. App. 216.

2. Advancement Not Revocable Without Donee's Consent.—But it was held that a daughter might prefer payment to having an advancement stand and that a note given by her to that end was not without consideration. See Banning v. Purinton, 105 Iowa 642.

5. Release—DeVault v. DeVault, (Tenn. Ch. 1898) 48 S. W. Rep. 361; Coffman v. Coffman, 41 W. Va. 8; Matter of Lewis, 29 Ont. 609. See also Morris v. Carlin, 18 Pa. Co. Ct. 281, 5 Pa. Dist. 714.

6. Where a note was indorsed to a granddaughter, "being the share of my estate that I intend her to have," it was held not to be a release of her interest in her grandfather's estate, since it did not appear that the ancestor had the same estate at his death as at the time the advancement was made. Binns v. Dazey, 147 Ind. 536, citing 1 AM. AND ENG. ENCYC. OF LAW (2d ed.) 781.

7. Donee's Option to Accept Advancement.—The donee was permitted to return notes given as an advancement when it appeared she could not collect on them, and it was held a pro tanto satisfaction of the advancement. Nall v. Wright, (Ky. 1904) 80 S. W. Rep. 1120.

Regulated by Statute. — Where the statute provides that an advancement shall be taken at what it would "now" be worth, it was held to refer to the time of distribution and not to the time the advancement was made. Finch v. Garrett, 102 Iowa 381.

The value of advancements should be estimated at what they would be worth at the death of the decedent if in the condition in which they were at the time the advancement was made. Eastwood v. Crane, (Iowa 1904) 101 N. W. Rep. 481.

784. 1. Advancement in Future — Valued at Time of Possession. — Safe Deposit, etc., Co. v. Baker, 91 Md. 297, citing 1 AM. AND ENG. ENCYC. OF LAW (2d ed.) 783; Matter of Lewis, 29 Ont. 609, citing 1 AM. AND ENG. ENCYC. OF LAW (2d ed.) 784.

In Cain v. Cain, 53 S. Car. 350, it is laid down as a general rule that "an estate in remainder after a life estate may be valued at one-half of the fee-simple value of the whole."

2. Will Fixing Value Controls. — In re Cummings, 120 Iowa 421.

Where the will directs that the value recited in the deed of conveyance should be the value of an advancement, and in legal effect no consideration was therein expressed, it was held that a receipt naming its agreed value given by the donee at the time of the conveyance was to be considered in connection with the deed, and the will thereby determined the value. Ballinger v. Connable, 100 Iowa 600.

3. Rents and Profits Not Chargeable. — Ladd v. Stephens, 147 Mo. 319.

4. Improvements Made by the Donee. — Eastwood v. Crane, (Iowa 1904) 101 N. W. Rep. 481.

6. But where a will directed that slaves should be charged as advances and also contained a clause equalizing shares to distributees, it was held that since the slaves were emancipated they were no longer property, and the expressed desire of the testator to divide his property equally would be thwarted if the children had to account for such slaves as advancements. Ezell v. Head, 99 Ga. 560.

785. 2. Culberhouse v. Culberhouse, 68 Ark. 405.

3. Not Chargeable up to Donor's Death. — Baker v. Safe Deposit, etc., Co., 93 Md. 368; Sprague v. Moore, 130 Mich. 92, 8 Detroit Leg. N. 1130, citing 1 AM. AND ENG. ENCYC. OF LAW (2d ed.) 785. See also Comer v. Shehee, 129 Ala. 588, 87 Am. St. Rep. 78. But see Slaughter v. Slaughter, 21 Ind. App. 641, wherein the writing evidencing the advancement provided that it should bear interest.

Unless There Be a Clearly Manifest Intention, advancements do not bear interest. Stahl's Estate, 25 Pa. Super. Ct. 402.

5. Chargeable for Time Between Death of Donor and the Distribution. — Sprague v. Moore, 130 Mich. 92, 8 Detroit Leg. N. 1130, citing 1 AM. AND ENG. ENCYC. OF LAW (2d ed.) 785, note 5. Compare In re Dallmeyer, (1896) 1 Ch. 372.

Interest is chargeable "from the testator's death down to the time when the estate ought to have been, or should be deemed to have been, divided." Re Hargreaves, 86 L. T. N. S. 43.

Where the one who claimed that there had been an unequal distribution waited twenty-two years before seeking to have the advancements settled, it was held that interest should be charged from the donor's death only for a period equal to "the probable law's delay," which was considered two years in this case. Wysong v. Rambo, (Tenn. Ch. 1899) 56 S. W. Rep. 1053.

Acts of Ownership. — In Stein v. Green, 6 Lack. Leg. N. (Pa.) 292, the court said: "The established rule with regard to woodland seems to be that when the party is a mere trespasser, to acquire title by adverse possession he must either fence or indicate his boundaries by distinct and visible marks upon the ground — that being the only way he can convey notice to the real owner on whom he intrudes, of the extent of his claim — and this must be accompanied by exclusive use and occupancy up to the boundaries so made." See also Goodson v. Brothers, 111 Ala. 589; Dickinson v. Bales, 59 Kan. 224.

Hauling sand at intervals of twenty years from an island which is submerged during half of each year is not sufficient, although that may be all the possession the claimant or owner is capable of making. Strange v. Spalding, (Ky. 1895) 29 S. W. Rep. 137.

Cutting Grass. — The mere fact that a trespasser cuts natural hay on and lets his cattle run over and feed upon wild and uninclosed land, adjoining land actually occupied by him, is not sufficient to constitute adverse possession. Stage v. Morosick, 69 Minn. 167.

Cutting Timber — Paying Taxes. — There can be no adverse possession of wild lands as against a superior title unless such possession is actual, exclusive, visible, and notorious. A mere claim by the occasional cutting of timber, the prevention of trespassers, the payment of taxes, and the assertion of title, is not sufficient. Wilson v. Braden, (W. Va. 1904) 49 S. E. Rep. 409. See also Fleming v. Katahdin Pulp, etc., Co., 93 Me. 110; McKinnon v. Meston, 104 Mich. 642.

Accretions. — In Benne v. Miller, 149 Mo. 228, the court said: "One who acquires title to the mainland by ten years' adverse possession acquires title to river deposits made and making on his front before and during the period in which his possessory title was forming." And see the title ACCRETION.

Adverse Possession to Middle of Stream. — One who holds to the shore of a stream by adverse possession "is confined to his actual occupancy on the shore unless by notorious acts of ownership, in so far as he may be able to exercise them, he furnishes evidence of his intention to claim and hold to the middle of the stream." *Stanberry v. Administrator's Deed. — A deed signed by the administrator of an estate is good as color of title, although it does not purport upon its face to have been executed under an order of the court of ordinary. Street v. Collier, 118 Ga. 470.

854. 2. Brind v. Gregory, 120 Cal. 640, affirmed 122 Cal. 480; Sesson v. Barker, 172 Ill. 361; Waldron v. Harvey, 54 W. Va. 618, 102 Am. St. Rep. 959, quoting 1 AM. AND ENG. ENCYC. OF LAW (2d ed.) 854.

A deed made by a special commissioner in a chancery cause, under a decree confirming the sale, purporting to convey the real estate described in the deed, gives color of title in the grantee, notwithstanding irregularities in the proceedings in such cause and sale. Hitchcox v. Morrison, 47 W. Va. 206.

Where there is an attempt, unattended with any fraud, to foreclose a mortgage, and a decree is rendered and a sale had, the deed made in pursuance of such decree and sale will be regarded as color of title made in good faith, though the decree is erroneous. Reedy v. Camfield, 159 Ill. 254.

No Jurisdiction of Person. — Wright v. Stice, 173 Ill. 571.

Tax Deeds. — Redfield v. Parks, 132 U. S. 239.

Under "Occupying Claimants' Acts." — See Miesen v. Canfield, 64 Minn. 513.

856. 1. Miesen v. Canfield, 64 Minn. 513. In La Crosse v. Cameron, (C. C. A.) 80 Fed. Rep. 264, the court said: "We do not deem the question to be one which is now at large. As we read the decisions, it is the settled law of the state of Wisconsin that possession for the requisite period under an instrument absolutely void upon its face will draw to it the protection of the statute." See also Hoge v. Magnes, (C. C. A.) 85 Fed. Rep. 355.

A Tax Deed will constitute color of title, under the statute, even if the tax upon which it was issued was void by reason of irregularities in the tax proceedings, and irregularities appearing on the face of the deed sufficient to render the deed void on its face will not operate to defeat the instrument as a color of title. Power v. Kitching, 10 N. Dak. 254, 88 Am. St. Rep. 691.

2. Bloom v. Strauss, 70 Ark. 483; Brinker v. Union Pac., etc., R. Co., 11 Colo. App. 166.

The existence of a defect in a tax sale, resulting from a defect in the assessment of the property, does not prevent the sale from being made the basis of prescription of ten years, where the defect is a latent one which the pur-

Presumption of Good Faith. — Possession to be the foundation for a prescription must not have originated in fraud, but direct evidence of bona fides is not required. A presumption of good faith arises from adverse possession. Baxley v. Baxley, 117 Ga. 60; Sexson v. Barker, 172 Ill. 361; Duck Island Club v. Bexstead, 174 Ill. 435; Dawson v. Edwards, 189 Ill. 60; Lampman v. Van Alstyne, 94 Wis. 417.

A Tax Deed, Though Void, would be evidence, as color of title, to mark the boundaries and extent of the purchaser's possession if there was any evidence that the plaintiff entered and claimed under it. National Bank v. Baker Hill Iron Co., 108 Ala. 635; Chabert v. Russell, 109 Mich. 571. See also Barron v. Barron, 122 Ala. 194; Pasley v. Richardson, 119 N. Car. 449.

The Record of a Tax Sale was admissible in evidence in connection with other evidence, to show the character of the possession, as being under a claim of ownership, and in hostility to the true owner, and thus to show an adverse holding of so much of the land as was in actual possession. Nashville, etc., R. Co. v. Mathis, 109 Ala. 377.

A Trustee's Deed, whether it was a proper execution of the power granted in the will or not, was admissible to characterize and define the possession subsequently held by the plaintiff. It gave at least color of title, and tended to show that a possession claimed under it was commensurate with the estate which it purported to convey. Dubuque v. Coman, 64 Conn. 475.

A Survey and Map never recorded were proper evidence to show the character of defendant's claim of right or title. Sulphur Mines Co. v. Thompson, 93 Va. 293.

AFFRAY.

- 915. I. DEFINITION. — See note 1.
916. II. ELEMENTS OF OFFENSE — Actual Fighting. — See note 1.
 By Two or More Persons. — See note 5.
917. Mutual Consent. — See note 3.
 In a Public Place. — See notes 4, 5.
920. AFORETHOUGHT. — See note 2.
921. AFTER. — See note 1.
925. AGAINST. — See note 1.
929. [AGED. — See note 1.]

915. 1. At Common Law. — State v. Fritz, 133 N. Car. 725. See also Strutton v. Com., (Ky. 1901) 62 S. W. Rep. 875; Reynolds v. Com., (Ky. 1904) 82 S. W. Rep. 978.

The Word "Affray" as Used in a Manslaughter Instruction does not mean that two persons must engage in a fight on a public road to be guilty of the common-law offense of an affray. If A halts B on a public highway and attempts to draw a gun on him, and B fires four shots at A, after which A fires one at B, it certainly would constitute an affray. Burton v. Com., (Ky. 1901) 60 S. W. Rep. 526; Reynolds v. Com., (Ky. 1904) 82 S. W. Rep. 978.

Appearing in Public Place Armed with Dangerous Weapons. — State v. Griffin, 125 N. Car. 693.

Dueling Is Simply an Aggravated Form of Affray, and under an indictment therefor the party may be convicted of a mutual fighting by consent without deadly weapons. State v. Fritz, 133 N. Car. 725.

Statutes Defining Affray — Georgia. — Gamble v. State, 113 Ga. 701.

Justification — Self-defense. — Failure to charge on self-defense in a prosecution for an affray is error. Coyle v. State, (Tex. Crim. 1903) 72 S. W. Rep. 847.

916. 1. Persons Engaged in a Friendly Scuffle are not guilty of an affray. State v. Freeman, 127 N. Car. 544.

Sufficiency of Evidence to Show an Affray. — See State v. Glenn, 119 N. Car. 804; Piper v. State, (Tex. Crim. 1899) 51 S. W. Rep. 1118.

5. Piper v. State, (Tex. Crim. 1899) 51 S. W. Rep. 1118.

917. 3. Mutual Consent of the Parties Necessary. — State v. Fritz, 133 N. Car. 725.

4. Public Place. — Piper v. State, (Tex. Crim. 1899) 51 S. W. Rep. 1118. Compare State v. Griffin, 125 N. Car. 692.

In Gamble v. State, 113 Ga. 701, it was held that a fight in the presence of a number of persons invited to attend a dance in a private house near a public road, in the absence of evidence to show the distance of the house from the road and whether the fighting could be seen or heard from the road, was not in a place open to the general public so as to constitute it a public place within the meaning of the law of affrays.

In State v. Fritz, 133 N. Car. 725, it was held that the presence of seven other persons, at a fight in the nature of a duel, made the place of combat a public place so as to constitute an affray.

5. State v. Fritz, 133 N. Car. 725.

920. 2. Malice Aforethought. — State v. Tate, 156 Mo. 119. See also Hathaway v. Com., (Ky. 1904) 82 S. W. Rep. 400.

921. 1. Subject to Order in Point of Right of Enjoyment. — Haug v. Schumacher, 166 N. Y. 506; Canfield v. Fallon, (Supm. Ct. Spec. T.) 26 Misc. (N. Y.) 345.

925. 1. Against the Will. — Gore v. State, 119 Ga. 418.

Against Law. — Drexel v. Daniels, 49 Neb. 99.

Verdict Against Evidence. (See also ENCYC. OF PL. AND PR., titles NEW TRIAL; VERDICT.) — See Jenkins v. Hankins, 98 Tenn. 545.

929. 1. The word aged, as used in a Texas statute making an assault aggravated when committed by a person of robust health or strength upon one who is aged or decrepit, "means that the party has reached that degree of weakness which characterizes declining years. One might be quite old, and yet not aged, within the meaning of the statute." Black v. State, (Tex. Crim. 1902) 67 S. W. Rep. 113.

As Used in Exemption Statute. — Allen v. Pearce, 101 Ga. 316.

For Necessaries it has been held that an infant may bind himself by an agent. Fruchey v. Eagleson, 15 Ind. App. 88.

941. 2. Rocks v. Cornell, 21 R. I. 532, citing 1 AM. AND ENG. ENCYC. OF LAW (2d ed.) 940-941.

Appointment Not Prejudicial to Infant. — The appointment of an agent for the purpose of giving notice of the rescission of a contract of insurance and making a demand is not such an act as can be held, as matter of law, to be prejudicial to an infant, and therefore void, but it is at most only voidable. Simpson v. Prudential Ins. Co., 184 Mass. 348, 100 Am. St. Rep. 560.

942. 2. Wife May Appoint Attorney in Relation to Her Separate Estate. — Linton v. National L. Ins. Co., 104 Fed. Rep. 584, 44 C. C. A. 54; Williams v. Paine, 169 U. S. 55; Nigh v. Dovel, 84 Ill. App. 228; Tompkins v. Triplett, 110 Ky. 824, 96 Am. St. Rep. 472; Morris v. Linton, 61 Neb. 537.

In Regard to Property Not Separately Held a married woman cannot appoint an agent. Macfarland v. Heim, 127 Mo. 327, 48 Am. St. Rep. 629; Spurlock v. Dornan, 182 Mo. 242.

Oral Appointment Insufficient. — In Alabama a married woman has been held not to be bound by the acts of an agent orally appointed. Troy Fertilizer Co. v. Zachry, 114 Ala. 177; Tuscaloosa First Nat. Bank v. Leland, 122 Ala. 289.

944. 8. Member of Corporation as Agent. —

A corporation may contract with directors to act as selling agents, provided this is done openly and with the express or implied assent of all the stockholders. Warren v. Para Rubber Shoe Co., 166 Mass. 97. See also the title OFFICERS AND AGENTS OF PRIVATE CORPORATIONS.

946. 4. Agency of Wife for Husband. — Steffens v. Nelson, (Minn. 1905) 102 N. W. Rep. 871; Sibley v. Gilmer, 124 N. Car. 635; Presnall v. McLeary, (Tex. Civ. App. 1899) 50 S. W. Rep. 1066.

Measure of Authority. — Whether the wife has power to bind her husband depends, not upon the bare fact of marriage or cohabitation, but upon his authority or assent, either express or implied. If it be express, her power must be measured by the terms employed in conferring it. If it be implied, its extent must be gathered from all the circumstances of the case. Jones v. Gutman, 88 Md. 355.

947. 3. Agency of Husband for Wife. — Nigh v. Dovel, 84 Ill. App. 228; Magerstadt v. Schaefer, 110 Ill. App. 166; Saunders v. King, 119 Iowa 291; Tompkins v. Triplett, 110 Ky. 824, 96 Am. Agency of Husband for Wife. — It is sufficient to establish a husband's agency for his wife by a preponderance of testimony, except where the husband has contracted in writing and in his own name, when the evidence must be clear and convincing beyond a reasonable doubt. Long v. Martin, 71 Mo. App. 569; Farley v. Stroch, 68 Mo. App. 85.

Proof as to Time. — One seeking to prove agency must show that such agency existed at the very time of the transaction in question. Booth v. Newton, 46 N. Y. App. Div. 175.

969. 1. Merely Assuming to Act as Agent Not Sufficient. — Lambert v. Gerner, 142 Cal. 399; Wilson v. Vogeler, (Idaho 1905) 79 Pac. Rep. 508; St. Louis, etc., R. Co. v. Brown, 3 Kan. See also People v. Courson, 87 Ill. App. 254, holding that evidence of an agent's acts is not admissible until his authority has been proved.

In MacLatchy v. Hannan, 104 N. Y. App. Div. 70, it was held that an assignment purporting to have been executed by an attorney in fact was not sufficient evidence of the title of the assignee, without proof that the person executing the assignment had authority to do so.

Declarations of an agent that he was such agent are admissible, not to prove the fact of agency, but to show that he held himself out as agent. Parker v. Bond, 121 Ala. 529. And what an agent said while professing to act for another is to be regarded as an act rather than a declaration, and is therefore admissible. Dodge v. Weill, 158 N. Y. 346. See also the title ADMISSIONS, vol. 1, p. 690 et seq., and matter pertaining thereto in this Supplement.

Illustrations. — A conversation between principal and agent is admissible as tending to show the character and extent of the agency. Frank v. Levi, 110 Iowa 267.

Although the authority of an agent terminates at the death of his principal, evidence as to the course of dealing between them is competent for the purpose of throwing light on the question of what authority was given to the agents by the executor. Dexter v. Berge, 76 Minn. 216.

Payment of Commissions. — As tending to prove agency evidence that one paid to another commissions for making a sale is admissible. Slaughter v. Coke County, (Tex. Civ. App. 1904) 79 S. W. Rep. 863.

Evidence to Prove Implied Agency. — Greater latitude is allowed in the admission of testimony tending to prove facts and circumstances from which the existence of an agency may legitimately be inferred than to prove an express agency. Patterson v. Van Loon, 186 Pa. St. 367.

How Apparent Authority Determined. — Johnston v. Milwaukee, etc., Invest. Co., 46 Neb. 480; Holt v. Schneider, 57 Neb. 523; Reid v. Kellogg, 8 S. Dak. 596.

The apparent authority of an agent for which his principal is liable must be such as a person of ordinary caution and prudence in business would be warranted in believing to exist. Welch v. Clifton Mfg. Co., 55 S. Car. 568.

Apparent Authority Defined. — Ostensible authority is such as a principal intentionally, or by want of ordinary care, causes or allows a third person to believe the agent to possess. Thomson v. Shelton, 49 Neb. 644; Phoenix Ins. Co. v. Walter, 51 Neb. 182; Holt v. Schneider, 57 Neb. 523; Lebanon Sav. Bank v. Henry, (Neb. 1902) 89 N. W. Rep. 169; Faulkner v. Simms, (Neb. 1902) 89 N. Agents of Private Corporations. — The rule of the text applies to corporations as well as to individuals. Bullen v. Milwaukee Trading Co., 109 Wis. 41.

It Is Presumed that an agent empowered to act at the beginning of a transaction is authorized until the termination of the matter. Parker v. Crilly, 113 Ill. App. 309.

An agent in charge of cattle for the purpose of seeing that they were properly at the place of shipment is not presumed to have authority to make a contract for such shipment where the principal has already made a contract for that purpose. Atchison, etc., R. Co. v. Watson, (Kan. 1905) 81 Pac. Rep. 499.

Good Faith Required of Third Party. — One having actual or constructive knowledge that an agent is exceeding his authority cannot hold the principal.

United States. — National Bank v. Munger, 95 Fed. Rep. 87, 36 C. C. A. 659; Colorado Springs Co. v. American Pub. Co., (C. C. A.) 97 Fed. Rep. 843.

Utah. — Nephi First Nat. Bank v. Foote, 12 Utah 157.

Essential Elements of Apparent Authority. — Before the application of this rule of law can be invoked, two important facts must be clearly established: First, the principal must have held the agent out to the public as possessing sufficient authority to embrace the particular act in question, or knowingly acquiesced in the agent's assertion of the requisite authority; and second, the party dealing with such agent must have had reason to believe, and must have believed, that the agent possessed the necessary authority. Connell v. McLoughlin, 28 Oregon 230; Harrisburg Lumber Co. v. Washburn, 29 Oregon 150.

Principal Must Have Knowledge of Acts. — To make out a case of implied authority in an agent to do acts beyond and in violation of his express authority, notice to the principal must be shown. Jackson v. Mutual Ben. L. Ins. Co., 79 Minn. 43.

corporation itself by its charter is not authorized to transact. Leary v. Albany Brewing Co., 77 N. Y. App. Div. 6.

A General Agent in a Particular Branch of his principal's business has no implied authority in any other branch. Lauer Brewing Co. v. Schmidt, 24 Pa. Super. Ct. 396.

Cannot Grant Interest in Principal's Business. — A general agent is not clothed, by virtue of his agency, with power to contract with an employee for an interest in his principal's business, or an interest in the profits thereof. Defenbaugh v. Jackson Paper Mfg. Co., 120 Mich. 242. See also Gore v. Canada L. Assur. Co., 119 Mich. 136.

Submission to Arbitration. — A general agent has no authority to bind his principal to a submission to arbitration. To be binding such reference can be made only under a special authority. Macdonald v. Bond, 195 Ill. 122, affirming 96 Ill. App. 116.

No Authority to Bind Principal for Debt of Another. — Pacific Lumber Co. v. Moffat, (C. C. A.) 134 Fed. Rep. 836. In this case the defendant's agent contracted in the defendant's name for the purchase of a large quantity of lumber from the plaintiff at a price exceeding the market rates in order to make up the amount lost by the plaintiff in consequence of previous sales to an insolvent. It was held that the defendant was not liable on the contract.

Apparent Authority — Estoppel. — Clark v. Dillman, 108 Mich. 625.

Agent Acting for Himself. — It is against the general law of reason that an agent should be intrusted with power to act for his principal and for himself at the same time. National Bank v. Munger, 95 Fed. Rep. 87, 36 C. C. A. 659; Park Hotel Co. v. St. Louis Fourth Nat. Bank, (C. C. A.) 86 Fed. Rep. 742; German Sav. Bank v. Des Moines Nat. Bank, 122 Iowa 737; *Hier v. Contra of General Agent. — Parsons Band-Cutter, etc., Co. v. Mallinger, 122 Iowa 703.

1006. 1. Authority to Sell Subject to Approval. — An agent who has authority only to receive proposals to purchase the property of his principal, and submit them to the latter for acceptance or rejection, cannot make an absolute contract of sale which will be binding upon the principal. Johnson v. American Freehold Land Mortg. Co., 111 Ga. 490.

Authority to Negotiate a Sale or exchange of land does not imply authority to enter into a binding contract of sale or exchange. Holmes v. Redhead, 104 Iowa 399.

Authority "to Demand and Receive of and from any person or persons all such real and personal estate," etc., does not give authority to sell land. Hotchkiss v. Middlekauf, 96 Va. 649.

2. Illustrations of Powers Authorizing Sale. — A power of attorney "to sell or dispose of any or the whole of my property" and "in my name to sign and execute any and all instruments of writing" authorizes a sale of real estate. Gardiner v. Griffith, (Tex. Civ. App. 1900) 56 S. W. Rep. 558.

A power of attorney "to buy and sell lands, etc., and to transact all business necessary in the transaction of my affairs," was held under the circumstances to authorize a sale of lands then owned, since no intention to authorize a business of buying and selling land appeared. Texas Loan Agency v. Miller, 94 Tex. 464. See Bean v. Bennett, (Tex. Civ. App. 1904) 80 S. W. Rep. 662.

Conveyance. — See note 9.

1011. Power Not under Seal. — See note 1.

1012. Warranties and Representations. — See notes 1, 2.

c. TO SELL PERSONALTY — (1) Must Act Within Authority. —

See note 3.

Authority to Collect Rents and Pay Taxes does not carry with it authority to sell. Samson v. Beale, 27 Wash. 557.

1007. 3. Illustrations of Descriptions of Property. — A description of land as the "forty-acres tract" is insufficient to allow it to be identified by extrinsic proof, or to satisfy the statute of frauds. Johnson v. Fecht, 94 Mo. App. 605.

A power of attorney authorizing the sale of "my headright, 640 acres of land," is sufficiently definite, as one can have but one headright of 640 acres. Pool v. Unknown Heirs, (Tex. Civ. App. 1899) 49 S. W. Rep. 923.

1008. 1. See Snell v. Weyerhaeuser, 71 Minn. 57.

Power to Buy and Sell Authorizes Sale Only of Property Bought under Power. — Compare Texas Loan Agency v. Miller, 94 Tex. 464.

To Sell and Assign Mortgages. — A power of attorney to sell and assign mortgages owned and possessed by the principal at the time of its execution confers no authority to sell mortgages acquired after its execution. Union Trust Co. v. Means, 201 Pa. St. 374.

2. Amyot v. Daulnais, 15 Quebec Super. Ct. 311.

3. Lucas v. Rader, 29 Ind. App. 287.

2. Morton v. Morris, 27 Tex. Civ. App. 262.

Where There is no Authority to Sell on Credit, and the original purchaser knows, or is charged with notice of this fact, a sale on credit may be treated as void at the option of the purchaser. Whitley v. James, (Ga. 1904) 49 S. E. Rep. 600.

3. The Presumption is that the sale is to be for cash. Morton v. Morris, 27 Tex. Civ. App. 262.

4. See Morton v. Morris, 27 Tex. Civ. App. 262, holding that an agent is not authorized to make a sale on such terms as would require his principal to discharge a lien by the payment of a disputed claim in order to make certain the time when the purchase money for his property would become due.

1010. 2. Illustrations. — Authority to sell land is not authority to sell timber alone, St. Louis Southwestern R. Co. v. Bramlette, (Tex. Civ. App. 1896) 35 S. W. Rep. 25; or to waive claim of title, Iowa Railroad Land Co. v. Fehring, (Iowa 1904) 101 N. W. Rep. 120; or to organize a corporation to purchase, Godfrey v. Schneek, 105 Wis. 568.

An Agent to Negotiate the Sale of Land, but without authority to make a binding contract of sale without the consent of his principal, cannot grant a license to use part of the land as an approach. Noftsgar v. Barkdoll, 148 Ind. 531.

4. Anderson v. Bigelow, 16 Wash. 198.

9. Paolillo v. Faber, 56 N. Y. App. Div. 241. Compare Armstrong v. Oakley, 23 Wash. 122; Samson v. Beale, 27 Wash. 557.

Power to Sell and Convey — Conveyance Without Sale. — A power to sell and convey does not authorize a conveyance without sale, or, in other words, without consideration. Alcorn v. Buschke, 133 Cal. 655.

Power to Sell Lands Does Not Imply Power of Exchange. — Chapman v. Hughes, 134 Cal. 641.

Authority to Sign a Contract of Sale is included in the powers of an agent who is authorized to sell real estate. Rosenbaum v. Belson, (1900) 2 Ch. 267, 82 L. T. N. S. 658.

Conveyance upon Consideration Inuring to Agent.

— The agent has no power to convey without consideration, or upon a consideration inuring to himself. Hunter v. Eastham, 95 Tex. 648; Hunter v. Eastham, (Tex. Civ. App. 1904) 81 S. W. Rep. 336.

1011. 1. Tyrrell v. O'Connor, 56 N. J. Eq. 448, citing 1 AM. AND ENG. ENCYC. OF LAW (2d ed.) 1011.

Authority of Real-estate Agent. — Lindley v. Keim, 54 N. J. Eq. 418; Brandrup v. Britten, 11 N. Dak. 376; Donnan v. Adams, 30 Tex. Civ. App. 615.

1012. 1. Farrell v. Edwards, 8 S. Dak. 425.

2. Representations as to Quantity or Quality. — Samson v. Beale, 27 Wash. 557.

Representations as to Boundaries have been held to bind the principal although such representations were not authorized. Green v. Worman, 83 Mo. App. 568.

Representations as to Value. — One who has merely a right to dispose of certain property provided he can obtain a certain price is not such an agent as can bind his principal by representations as to value. Mayo v. Wahlgreen, 9 Colo. App. 506.

3. See Forbis v. Reeves, 109 Ill. App. 98;

1013. See note 2.

A sales agent in the absence of evidence to the contrary is presumed to have authority to make absolute sales as distinguished from merely taking orders subject to the approval of his principal. Nebraska Bridge Tie Co. v. Owen Conway & Sons, (Iowa 1905) 103 N. W. Rep. 122.

Price. — One appointed to sell a particular article to a particular person has authority to fix the price. Bass Dry Goods Co. v. Granite City Mfg. Co., 119 Ga. 124.

An agent may bind his principal by a sale to a purchaser without notice at a price lower than he was authorized to make, where it is not so low as to indicate fraud. U. S. School Furniture Co. v. Board of Education, (Ky. 1897) 38 S. W. Rep. 864; Scudder-Gale Grocer Co. v. Russell, 65 Ill. App. 281.

Authority to Sell Does Not Imply Power to Execute Chattel Mortgage. — Kiefer v. Klinsick, 144 Ind. 46; Wycoff, Seaman & Benedict v. Davis, (Iowa 1905) 103 N. W. Rep. 349.

Authority to Sell and Transfer Securities does not authorize an agent to pledge them. Hawxhurst v. Rathgeb, 119 Cal. 531, 63 Am. St. Rep. 142.

1013. 2. An Agent Authorized Merely to Receive Proposals cannot bind the principal by a contract entered into without obtaining his approval. Brandenstein v. Douglas, 105 Ga. 845; Spooner v. Browning, (1898) 1 Q. B. 528, 67 L. J. Q. B. 339, 78 L. T. N. S. 98.

Illustrations. — An agent having power and authority to sell a machine under a contract which contains conditions for the benefit of the seller, has authority to bind his principal by a waiver of such conditions. Webster City First Nat. Bank v. Dutcher, (Iowa 1905) 104 N. W. Rep. 497.

The Power of a Mortgagor to Purchase as Agent of the Mortgagee Is Not Implied from a power to sell goods and apply the proceeds to the payment of the mortgage. Kelly v. Tracy, etc., Co., 71 Ohio St. 220.

Cannot Advertise Business. — Beck v. Donohue, (Supm. Ct. App. T.) 27 Misc. (N. Y.) 230; Brooklyn Daily Eagle v. Dellmar, (Supm. Ct. App. T.) 30 Misc. (N. Y.) 747.

Cannot Pay Commissions to Third Person. — Jones v. Keeler, (Supm. Ct. App. T.) 40 Misc. (N. Y.) 221; National Cash Register Co. v. Hagan, (Tex. Civ. App. 1904) 83 S. W. Rep. 727.

Cannot Bind Principal by Collateral Undertaking. — A general selling agent has no authority to bind his principal by a collateral undertaking to answer for the conduct of a competitor. Hess v. Heegaard, 54 Ill. App. 227; Kinser v. Calumet Fire-Clay Co., 165 Ill. 505. See also Braun v. Hess, 187 Ill. 283, 79 Am. St. Rep. 221, affirming 86 Ill. App. 544.

May Fix Time of Delivery. — An agent having power to make a contract of sale has power to fix the time of delivery. Smith v. Droubay, 20 Utah 443.

6. Jesse French Piano, etc., Co. v. Cardwell, 114 Ga. 340; Marion Mfg. Co. v. Harding, 155 Ind. 648; Eastern Mfg. Co. v. Brenk, 32 Tex. Civ. App. 97.

Sales on Approval. — But an agent cannot thus vary the express terms of a written contract. Flower City Plant Food Co. v. Roberts, 81 N. Y. App. Div. 249.

And Give Further Time for Trial. — To the same effect as Bannon v. Aultman, 80 Wis. 307, stated in the original note, see Reeves v. Cress, 80 Minn. 466. See also Warder, etc., Co. v. Fischer, 110 Wis. 363.

May Agree to Put in Good Condition. — An agent has authority to agree with a purchaser that a machine shall be put in good condition, McCormick Harvesting Mach. Co. v. Smith, 9 Kulp (Pa.) 448; and also to agree upon a time within which it shall be done, notwithstanding a clause in the contract providing "that no agent has any power to make additions to or to vary the terms and conditions hereof," Holt Mfg. Co. v. Dunnigan, 22 Wash. 134.

Time for Which Agent May Employ.—An agent has apparent authority to hire an employee for six months, when it is well known that the business will last that length of time. World's Columbian Exposition v. Richards, 57 Ill. App. 601.

Compensation.—Authority to employ laborers to work upon the roadbed of a railway company has been held not to imply power to agree to pay the rent of their dwelling houses. Savannah, etc., R. Co. v. Humphreys, 114 Ga. 681.

An agent to employ has no authority to make an agreement that if an employee will resign his position the balance of his salary for the season will be paid to him. Prior v. Flagler, (N. Y. City Ct. Gen. T.) 10 Misc. (N. Y.) 496.

Authority to Employ Implied.—One employed as manager of a department of a store, his duties in connection therewith to begin at a future date, has ostensible authority to hire help so as to have that department organized and ready for business on that date. Wanamaker v. Megraw, 92 N. Y. App. Div. 616.

1035. 1. Security Sav. Bank v. Smith, 38 Oregon 72, 84 Am. St. Rep. 756; Young v. Union Sav. Bank, etc., Co., 23 Wash. 360.

When Authority Implied.—Authority to borrow money must be created by express terms, or be necessarily implied from the very nature of the agency actually created. It will not be presumed even from the appointment of one as general agent, unless the character of the business or the duties of the agent are of such a nature that he is bound to borrow in order to carry out his instructions and the duties of the office. Exchange Bank v. Thrower, 118 Ga. 433. But it may be implied when indispensable to the conduct of the business in the agent's hands. Ladd v. Ætna Indemnity Co., 128 Fed. Rep. 298.

What Powers Implied.—One who places a mortgage and certificate of no defense in the hands of an agent for the purpose of obtaining a loan cannot deny such agent's authority to pledge the securities for a second loan to pay the first. Hayes's Appeal, 195 Pa. St. 177.

Bank*, 40 Fla. 349; Dazey v. Roleau, 111 Ill. App. 367; Continental Ins. Co. v. Clark, (Iowa 1904) 100 N. W. Rep. 524; Northern Assur. Co. v. Borgelt, (Neb. 1903) 93 N. W. Rep. 226, citing 1 AM. AND ENG. ENCYC. OF LAW (2d ed.) 1058; Talcott v. Cowdry, (Supm. St. App. T.) 17 Misc. (N. Y.) 333; Minneapolis Trust Co. v. Mather, 181 N. Y. 205.

3. Violating Instructions to Sell for Cash. — An agent instructed to sell for cash only does not violate such instructions by postponing payment of the price until actual delivery of the goods. Bristol v. Mente, 79 N. Y. App. Div. 67, affirmed (N. Y. 1904) 70 N. E. Rep. 1096.

1060. 1. Failure to Insure as Instructed. — Matteson v. Rice, 116 Wis. 328.

2. Dazey v. Roleau, 111 Ill. App. 367.

5. Marshall v. Ferguson, 94 Mo. App. 175.

6. Nashville, etc., R. Co. v. Smith, 132 Ala. 434; Battelle v. Cushing, 21 D. C. 59; Marshall v. Ferguson, 94 Mo. App. 175.

1062. 2. Central of Georgia R. Co. v. Felton, 110 Ga. 597, quoting 1 AM. AND ENG. ENCYC. OF LAW (2d ed.) 1062.

3. Instructions Uncertain and Obscure. — Oxford Lake Line v. Pensacola First Nat. Bank, 40 Fla. 349; Berry v. Haldeman, 111 Mich. 667; Falksen v. Falls City State Bank, (Neb. 1904) 98 N. W. Rep. 425.

No Authority to Substitute Own Judgment. — The fact that an agent's instructions will admit of different interpretations does not authorize him to disregard them entirely, and substitute his own judgment in the place thereof. If he acts at all in such cases, he must follow one of the interpretations reasonably derivable from the instructions. Oxford Lake Line v. Pensacola First Nat. Bank, 40 Fla. 349.

4. Central of Georgia R. Co. v. Felton, 110 Ga. 597, quoting 1 AM. AND ENG. ENCYC. OF LAW (2d ed.) 1062; State v. Chilton, 49 W. Va. 453, citing 1 AM. AND ENG. ENCYC. OF LAW (2d ed.) 1062.

1063. 1. Marshall v. Ferguson, 94 Mo. App. 175, citing 1 AM. AND ENG. ENCYC. OF LAW (2d ed.) 1062; 101 Mo. App. 653.

Measure of Damages. — In an action for breach of contract and negligence in investing in unsafe mortgages, the measure of damages is the difference in value between the mortgages acquired and safe mortgages, measured as of the time when the breach of contract and wrong occurred. Coffing v. Dodge, 167 Mass. 231.

Where land was sold by an agent with full power to sell and convey, but who, without fraud, exceeded his authority, and accepted bonds instead of money in payment, the measure of damages was held to be the market value of the land at the time, it appearing that the price named in the deed was fictitious, and was obtained only by reason of the agreement to accept in payment securities of doubtful value. Paul v. Grimm, 183 Pa. St. 330.

2. Chase v. Baskerville, (Minn. 1904) 101 N. W. Rep. 950; Marshall v. Ferguson, 94 Mo. App. 175.

There Must Be an Entire Departure by the agent from his authority before an action for a conversion can be maintained. Minneapolis Trust Co. v. Mather, 181 N. Y. 205.

May Waive Tort. — The principal may waive the tort and recover on the common counts in assumpsit. Brown v. Foster, (Mich. 1904) 100 N. W. Rep. 167. See also Paul v. Grimm, 165 Pa. St. 139, 44 Am. St. Rep. 648.

Agent to Purchase — Refusal to Deliver. — Where an agent, after purchasing goods for his principal, refuses to deliver them, and holds them as his own, he is guilty of conversion. Nading v. Howe, 23 Ind. App. 690.

3. Rule as to Skill and Negligence of Remunerated Agent. — Rice v. Longfellow Bros. Co., 82 Minn. 154; Ehmer v. Title Guarantee, etc., Co., 89 Hun (N. Y.) 120; American Cent. Ins. Co. v. Hagerty, (Supm. Ct. Tr. T.) 21 Misc. (N. Y.) 213.

Burden on Agent to Show Payment by Him to Principal. — Dodge v. Hatchett, 118 Ga. 883; San Pedro Lumber Co. v. Reynolds, 121 Cal. 74; Laporte v. Laporte, 109 La. 958; Farmers' Warehouse Assoc. v. Montgomery, 92 Minn. 194. But see Beattie v. Beattie, 83 Hun (N. Y.) 295, holding that in the absence of proof the presumption is that the agent has accounted for money collected by him; Breed v. Breed, 55 N. Y. App. Div. 121.

Effect of Accepting Account. — Where an agent misstates an account in a respect peculiarly within his own knowledge, which misstatements cannot be discovered by an inspection of the account, the fact that the principal accepts and retains such account without objection cannot be regarded as an acquiescence in its accuracy. Gale v. New York Hay Co., 54 N. Y. App. Div. 72.

A General Showing of the amount of property delivered to the agent and a failure to return or account for it on demand is prima facie sufficient, and shifts the burden upon the agent to make a specific accounting. Lahr v. Kraemer, 91 Minn. 26.

Where Relation Created by Fraud. — The fact that the relation of principal and agent was created by the fraud of the agent will not affect his duty to account for money collected. De Leonis v. Etchepare, 120 Cal. 407.

2. Schanz v. Martin, (Supm. Ct. App. T.) 37 Misc. (N. Y.) 492. And to the same effect as Walter v. Bennett, 16 N. Y. 251, stated in the original note, see Wright v. Duffie, (Supm. Ct. App. T.) 23 Misc. (N. Y.) 338.

For an Authorized Sale by an agent conversion will not lie. Twogood v. Allee, (Iowa 1904) 99 N. W. Rep. 288.

The Principal May Waive the Conversion and recover in assumpsit the value of the property at the time of such conversion. Boyle v. Staten Island, etc., Land Co., 17 N. Y. App. Div. 624; Anderson v. Grand Forks First Nat. Bank, 5 N. Dak. 80. See also Guernsey v. Davis, 67 Kan. 378.

When Trover Maintainable. — As a general rule, the mere failure of an agent to pay over or account for money collected for his principal will not sustain an action of conversion, because the agent is not bound to pay over the identical money received; but where the principal is entitled to receive, and the terms of the employment of the agent require him to pay over, the identical money received, an action of trover will lie for its conversion. *Salem Light, etc., Co. v. 3. Miller v. McCormick Harvesting Mach. Co., 84 Ill. App. 571.

Rate of Interest. — Refusal to pay after demand entitles the principal to legal interest from the time of such demand although the money had been invested by the agent at a lower rate. De Crano v. Moore, 50 N. Y. App. Div. 361.

5. Beugnot v. Tremoulet, 52 La. Ann. 454; Hovey's Estate, 198 Pa. St. 385.

6. See De Crano v. Moore, 50 N. Y. App. Div. 361, holding that where money was invested by an agent at a certain rate of interest, and it does not appear that the agent ever changed the investment, it may be presumed that the money continued to earn that rate.

Construction of Agreement — Cash or Credit Sales. — Where one agreed to pay an agent for his services in selling his goods, and there was no distinction made between sales for cash and sales on credit, the agent is entitled to compensation for all his sales, whether for cash or on credit. Sherman v. Consolidated Dental Mfg. Co., 202 Pa. St. 451.

Where a certain commission was to be allowed on cash sales, a sale by which a note was given, due more than six months after delivery of the goods, does not entitle the agent to such commission. Huber Mfg. Co. v. Seabold, 14 Ind. App. 109.

Agent to Sell on Commission. — For construction of a contract to sell on commission, see McCoy Engineering Co. v. Crocker-Wheeler Elec. Co., (Md. 1905) 60 Atl. Rep. 443.

Where a contract of employment to sell goods on commission provides that commissions shall be earned only on orders accepted and filled by shipment, the principal cannot defeat the agent's right to commissions by arbitrarily rejecting orders obtained in good faith. *In re Ladue Tate Mfg. Sale Defeated by Defective Title. — An agent may recover commissions of his principal who holds himself out as having a good title, when he has procured a purchaser, and a sale is not effected by reason of a defect in the title, the burden being upon the agent to show the defect. Brackenridge v. Claridge, 91 Tex. 527; Scottish-American Mortg. Co. v. Davis, (Tex. Civ. App. 1902) 72 S. W. Rep. 217.

Cannot Arbitrarily Refuse to Accept Orders. — The principal cannot defeat his agent's right to commissions by arbitrarily refusing to accept orders from bona fide purchasers. *Jacquin v. 1101. 2. Nosotti v. Auerbach, 79 L. T. N. S. 413.

Delivery Deferred. — An agent is entitled to commissions on goods sold during the life of the contract, but deliverable afterwards. Jacquin v. Boutard, 89 Hun (N. Y.) 437; Dibble v. Dimick, 143 N. Y. 549.

Binding Contract Essential. — The commission of an agent who undertakes to sell (as distinguished from a mere agreement to find a purchaser) is earned only when a contract is entered into which is mutually obligatory upon the vendor and the vendee. Ormsby v. Graham, 123 Iowa 202.

4. Payments on Contract Not Essential. — An agreement to pay commissions, based in amount upon an excess over a stipulated purchase price to be procured by the agent, imposes upon the principal a liability for such payment when the sale is made, although no payments upon the contract are made. Strong v. Prentice Brown Stone Co., (C. Pl. Gen. T.) 10 Misc. (N. Y.) 380. See Nosotti v. Auerbach, 79 L. T. N. S. 413.

5. Gross Negligence. — See Haskell v. Smith, (Supm. Ct. App. T.) 86 N. Y. Supp. 779 (failure to disclose material matters); Aikins v. Thackara Mfg. Co., 15 Pa. Super. Ct. 250 (selling to irresponsible persons); Cleveland School-Furniture Co. v. Hotchkiss, 89 Tex. 117 (void sales).

Effect of Agent's Violation of Law. — The mere fact that an agent, in the course of exercising a delegated authority, himself violates a prohibitive statute does not liberate or discharge the principal from the obligation of the contract, if it be one within the scope of his authority. Rickards v. Rickards, 98 Md. 136.

What Third Party Must Show. — A party seeking to charge a supposed principal upon the contract of an ostensible agent must show at the very outset that he gave credit to the alleged principal, and that he intended to bind the principal. Sperry v. Pittsburg Short Method Smelting, etc., Co., 9 Colo. App. 314.

App. Div. 505; McKeen v. Providence County Sav. Bank, 24 R. I. 542.

Credit Is Presumed to Be Given to Principal. — John Spry Lumber Co. v. McMillan, 77 Ill. App. 280; Wasserman v. Bacon, 80 N. Y. App. Div. 505. See also Mulligan v. Cannon, (Supm. Ct.) 25 Civ. Pro. (N. Y.) 348.

The Commencement of an Action Against the Agent which is never prosecuted is no bar to an action against the principal. Richmond Union Pass. R. Co. v. New York, etc., R. Co., 95 Va. 386. But see Greenberg v. Palmieri, (N. J. 1904) 58 Atl. Rep. 297.

But a suit prosecuted to judgment against either, though without satisfaction, has been held to discharge the remedy against the other. Lage v. Weinstein, (Supm. Ct. App. T.) 35 Misc. (N. Y.) 298.

Where the evidence tended to show that one sold goods directly to the principal, the fact that he brought suit against the agent to recover for such goods was held not to operate as such an election as to bar an action against the principal. Daggett v. Champlain Mfg. Co., 71 Vt. 370.

If Two or More Persons Are Severally Liable for the same debt, payment of the debt alone discharges the debtor, and the maintenance of an action and recovery of a judgment against one does not debar the creditor from suing, in a separate action, others liable for the same debt. Brooklyn First Nat. Bank v. Wallis, 84 Hun (N. Y.) 376; McLean v. Sexton, 44 N. Y. App. Div. 520; Tew v. Wolfsohn, 77 N. Y. App. Div. 454. Compare Booth v. Barron, 29 N. Y. App. Div. 66.

An Action Brought Against the Agent under a Misunderstanding of the facts of the case does not amount to an election. Bertoli v. Smith, 69 Vt. 425.

Effect of Suing Principal. — After the creditor has elected to sue the principal and has prosecuted his suit to final judgment he cannot sue the agent. E. J. Codd Co. v. Parker, 97 Md. 319.

Election Implies a Deliberate Intention, a definite purpose to accept one debtor, or a particular remedy, in lieu of another. Atlas Steamship Co. v. Colombian Land Co., 102 Fed. Rep. 358, 42 C. C. A. 398.

Quere whether an election by a third party to look to the agent involves an abandonment by the principal of his rights against the third party. Moline Malleable Iron Co. v. York Iron Co., 83 Fed. Rep. 66, 53 U. S. App. 580.

Washington. — Belt v. Washington Water-Power Co., 24 Wash. 387.

Principal Must Have Received Benefit. — An undisclosed principal is not liable unless he actually received and used or in some way got the benefit of the goods purchased by his agent upon his own credit. Mickleberry v. O'Neal, 98 Ga. 42.

Bringing an Action Against Both agent and undisclosed principal does not constitute an election to hold the principal and not the agent. The plaintiff need not elect which party he intends to hold until the end of the case. Tew v. Wolfsohn, 77 N. Y. App. Div. 454.

Cannot Hold Both. — While a party to a contract may elect to sue the ostensible principal, or the actual and undisclosed principal, when he is disclosed, yet there are not two different contracts for a breach of which he can obtain satisfaction from each of the respective parties.

An Agent Acting Within the Scope of His Authority may bind an undisclosed principal although the party with whom the contract was made may have known the principal under some other name. Phillips v. International Text Book Co., 26 Pa. Super. Ct. 230.

"The Evidence Required to Charge an Undisclosed Principal to a contract made by his agent is neither greater nor less when suit is brought by a third person directly against such alleged principal than it would be had a recovery been had against the agent by such third person and such agent was seeking to recover damages from the principal." *W. principal. Atlanta Sav. Bank v. Spencer, 107 Ga. 629.

Statements Made Prior to the Transaction are not admissible. Helfrich Lumber, etc., Co. v. Bland, (Ky. 1900) 54 S. W. Rep. 728.

Order of Proof. — It is essential that agency or authority to act for the principal in the transaction in question be first proven by either positive or circumstantial evidence. International Bldg., etc., Assoc. v. Watson, 158 Ind. 508; Pease v. Trench, 197 Ill. 101, affirming 98 Ill. App. 24.

1143. 4. Delivery of Goods to Agent. — Callahan v. Crow, 91 Hun (N. Y.) 346; Austin v. Elk Mercantile Co., (Wash. 1905) 80 Pac. Rep. 525 (holding the principal liable for the price of goods converted by the agent to his own use).

Inspection and Acceptance of merchandise at the place of delivery by an agent will bind the principal. Darby v. Hall, 3 Penn. (Del.) 25.

The Rule Ceases to Apply where the third person has notice of the termination of the agency and is forbidden to make delivery. Newlove v. Pond, 130 Cal. 342.

The Surrender of a Lease to an agent is not binding on the principal unless it is shown that such agent had authority to accept the surrender. Earle v. Gillies, (Supm. Ct. App. T.) 92 N. Y. Supp. 239.

5. Payment of Money to Agent. — Hamil v. American Freehold Land Mortg. Co., 127 Ala. 90; Meserve v. Hanford, 59 Kan. 777, 53 Pac. Rep. 835; *Wagner v. The Agent Must Have Actual or Apparent Authority to make a payment to him binding on the principal. Lakeside Press, etc., Co. v. Campbell, 39 Fla. 523.

Payment After Notice of Lack of Authority will not discharge the obligation of the debtor. Williams v. Anderson, 107 Ill. App. 32; Henderson v. McNally, 48 N. Y. App. Div. 134, affirmed 168 N. Y. 646.

An Authority Forged by the Agent will not operate to discharge the debtor. Girard v. Beauchemin, 18 Quebec Super. Ct. 111.

Payment for Unlawful Purpose. — Where money is paid to an agent for a lease for an unlawful purpose, there is no presumption that the agent is authorized to receive the money on behalf of his principal, and hence a payment made to him under such circumstances is not binding on his principal. Stover v. Flower, 120 Iowa 514.

Power or Duty to Act Must Exist.—For a corporation to be bound by notice to an officer or agent, such officer or agent must have the power to act upon the notice, or be under a duty to communicate the notice to the officers who have power. Nehawka Bank v. Ingersoll, (Neb. 1902) 89 N. W. Rep. 618.

Where a Person Is the Agent of Two Corporations, knowledge acquired by him as the agent of one is not imputed to the other, unless under the circumstances it is his duty to communicate it. In re Fenwick, (1902) 1 Ch. 507.

When the Agent Is a Nominal Agent Merely, or is acting merely as to ministerial matters, knowledge by him will not be imputed to his principal. Ætna Indemnity Co. v. Schroeder, 12 N. Dak. 110.

Notice to Agent Not Notice to Principal for Purpose of Imputing Conspiracy to Defraud.—Benton v. Minneapolis Tailoring, etc., Co., 73 Minn. 498.

Constructive Notice to the Agent cannot be imputed to the principal; the agent must have actual notice. Central Trust Co. v. West India Imp. Co., 48 N. Y. App. Div. 147.

Where an Agent Acts for Both Parties, with their knowledge, notice to him in the course of his employment is to be imputed to each. Smith v. Farrell, 66 Mo. App. 8.

When Agent Requested Not to Inform Principal.—Notice to an agent, coupled with a request not to transmit it to his principal, is not notice to the latter, when such request is complied with. Lenhart v. St. Louis, etc., R. Co., 62 Mo. App. 90.

Notice Must Be in regard to Matter Within Scope of Agent's Business — Illustrations. — Where an agent's duties were limited to finding borrowers for his principal's money, and the approval of the security was not intrusted to him, it was held that his knowledge of the trust character of the land offered as security could not be attributed to his principal. Donham v. Hahn, 127 Mo. 439.

Agents to inspect land offered as security for a loan, the inspection being for the sole purpose of ascertaining its character and value, are not agents of the lender to receive notice of an adverse title or an outstanding equity. Lewis v. Equitable Mortg. Co., 94 Ga. 572.

Where the examination of corporate books in making trial balances was not made in the performance of a duty owed by the corporation to any other party, the knowledge acquired by the agent making the examinations is not to be imputed to the corporation. Shepard, etc., Lumber Co. v. Eldridge, 171 Mass. 516, 68 Am. St. Rep. 446.

Criminal Transactions Beyond Scope of Agency. — Where the agent, participating in criminal transactions beyond the scope of the agency, acquires knowledge of matters affecting the business of his principal, the presumption of notice fails. Hart v. Bier, 74 Fed. Rep. 592.

Where Agency Is Concerned with Long Series of Transactions. — Foote v. Utah Commercial, etc., Bank, 17 Utah 283.

An Exception to the Rule, under the Illinois doctrine, arises where the information obtained by the agent in a former transaction is so precise and definite that it is or must be present to his mind and memory while engaged in the second transaction. Roderick v. McMeekin, 204 Ill. 625.

Conversely, the principal is entitled to the benefits and advantages of knowledge previously possessed by his agent. Haines v. Starkey, 82 Minn. 230.

1151. 1. Independent Contractor. — A principal is not liable for the wrong doings of an independent contractor if the act contracted to be done be legal. Slingerland v. East Jersey Water Co., 58 N. J. L. 411.

Usury. — If an agent to lend money exacts, with the knowledge of the principal, either directly or indirectly, interest in excess of the legal rate, the transaction is usurious. Richards v. Bippus, 18 App. Cas. (D. C.) 293.

Where an agent with authority to lend money at a lawful rate lends it at usurious rates for his own benefit, or exacts a bonus in addition to the lawful interest, without the knowledge of his principal, the transaction is not usurious. *Short v. Dak. 141.

In the Case of a Special Agent no notice need be given to third persons. Donnan v. Adams, 30 Tex. Civ. App. 615.

Exception to Rule. — The doctrine that one who has dealt with an agent in a matter within his authority has a right to assume in subsequent dealings with him, unless otherwise informed, that the agency continues, cannot be held to apply to a case where the agent of an undisclosed principal afterwards embarks in a new enterprise in his own name, the fact that he ever was an agent being unknown to the party with whom he deals. 4. Hitchcock v. Kelley, 4 Ohio Cir. Dec. 180, 18 Ohio Cir. Ct. 808.

Agent Repudiating Agency and Acting for Self. — "Where an agent abandons the object of his agency, and acts for himself by committing a fraud for his own exclusive benefit, he ceases to act within the scope of his employment, and to that extent ceases to act as agent." Sternback v. Friedman, (Supm. Ct. Spec. T.) 23 Misc. (N. Y.) 173.

Where an agent puts himself into a position antagonistic to his principal, such a breach of duty, unless condoned by the principal with a full knowledge of the facts, puts an end ipso facto to the agency. Cotton v. Rand, 93 Tex. 7.

6. When Renunciation Not Implied. — Where an agent remonstrated with his principal for acting with other agents, and said that he would not continue to act as agent, but did continue to do so, the agency was held not to be terminated. Stringfellow v. Elsea, (Tex. Civ. App. 1898) 45 S. W. Rep. 418.

1224. 3. Acts Effective in Agent's Name Held Binding Though Done After Principal's Death. — Deweese v. Muff, 57 Neb. 17, 73 Am. St. Rep. 488, citing 1 AM. AND ENG. ENCYC. OF LAW (2d ed.) 1224, and holding that where a negotiable note, indorsed by the payee in blank, is delivered to an agent for collection, the payment thereof by the maker in good faith to the agent while the note is in the agent's possession, after the death of the principal but without notice of his death, will discharge the debt. And see Meinhardt v. Newman, (Neb. 1904) 99 N. W. Rep. 261, holding that it is not a hard and fast rule that an agency shall be deemed to have been revoked for all purposes by the death of the principal, as against those dealing in good faith with such agent without knowledge of revocation and within the scope of his apparent authority.

Rights of Agent. — The failure of the principal will not justify the agent in terminating the agency, putting an end to the service partly performed, and becoming the employee of a third person to the contract between him and his principal. Means v. Ross, 106 La. 175.

5. The Insolvency. — In Cushman v. Snow, 186 Mass. 169, it was held that where factors became insolvent and made an assignment for the benefit of their creditors, their agency was thereby terminated.

The mere fact, however, that a factor is insolvent in the sense that he is unable to meet his obligations as they mature was held not to effect a revocation of his authority, where he had made no assignment and no bankruptcy or insolvency proceedings had been instituted by or against him. Interstate Nat. Bank v. Claxton, 97 Tex. 569, citing 1 AM. AND ENG. ENCYC. OF LAW (2d ed.) 1227, and distinguishing the case at bar.

7. 2. Agistor Must Maintain Good Fences.—Arrington v. Fleming, 117 Ga. 449, 97 Am. St. Rep. 169.

Duty to Maintain a Legal Fence.—Lucia v. Meech, 68 Vt. 175.

Knowledge on Part of Agistor.—It is necessary where the plaintiff claims that an agistor's fence was defective to show that the defendant had knowledge of such defect. Lucia v. Meech, 68 Vt. 175.

Must Prevent Cattle from Going into Dangerous Places.—Arrington v. Fleming, 117 Ga. 449, 97 Am. St. Rep. 169.

8. 4. General Rule—Burden of Proof.—See Ware Cattle Co. v. Anderson, 107 Iowa 231; Rayl v. Kreilich, 74 Mo. App. 246; Casey v. Donovan, 65 Mo. App. 521, in which cases it is held that failure to return cattle is prima facie evidence of negligence; Hudson v. Bradford, 91 Ill. App. 219, holding that where an agistor receives cattle in good condition and returns them in bad condition the law presumes negligence and the burden of proof rests on him to show that he exercised care and diligence.

Burden of Proof Not Shifted.—When the liability of an agistor is founded on his negligence the burden of proof never shifts. Casey v. Donovan, 65 Mo. App. 521; Crawford v. Cashman, 82 Mo. App. 554. And see generally the title BURDEN OF PROOF.

Relation of Aider and Abettor to Principal in the First Degree. — See note 6.

31. See notes 1, 2.

29. 1. Definition. — People v. Compton, 123 Cal. 403; People v. Moran, 144 Cal. 48; Pearce v. Territory, 11 Okla. 438; Leslie v. State, 42 Tex. Crim. 65.

"Aid" means help. "Abet" means encourage, counsel. State v. Snell, 5 Ohio Dec. 670.

A Principal in the Second Degree. — Thornton v. State, 119 Ga. 437; Williams v. U. S., 1 Indian Ter. 560.

Aid and Abet. — State v. Snell, 5 Ohio Dec. 670.

30. 1. Williams v. U. S., 1 Indian Ter. 560. See also U. S. v. Van Schaick, 134 Fed. Rep. 592.

3. Aiders and Abettors in Statutory Felonies. — Bishop v. State, 118 Ga. 799.

In Minnesota, where all common-law crimes are abolished and only statutory crimes exist, one who gives a bribe is not guilty as an aider and abettor under a statute making the taking and receiving of a bribe a felony. State v. Sargent, 71 Minn. 28.

Manslaughter. — Mathis v. State, (Fla. 1903) 34 So. Rep. 287.

Arson. — Bliss v. U. S., (C. C. A.) 105 Fed. Rep. 508; Howard v. State, 109 Ga. 137.

4. State v. Stark, 63 Kan. 529, 88 Am. St. Rep. 251; Atkins v. State, 95 Tenn. 474; Caudle v. State, (Tex. Crim. 1903) 74 S. W. Rep. 545.

Aiders and Abettors in Misdemeanors. — Casey State, 49 Neb. 403.

Purchaser of Intoxicants. — One who purchases whiskey is not an aider and abettor in the violation of the local-option laws. Terry v. State, 44 Tex. Crim. 411; Walker v. State, (Tex. Crim. 1903) 72 S. W. Rep. 401; Smith v. State, (Tex. Crim. 1903) 77 S. W. Rep. 801; Terry v. State, (Tex. Crim. 1904) 79 S. W. Rep. 320.

6. Pearce v. Territory, 118 Fed. Rep. 425, 55 C. C. A. 550; People v. Compton, 123 Cal. 403; State v. Bland, (Idaho 1904) 76 Pac. Rep. 780; State v. Smith, 106 Iowa 701; State v. Branton, 33 Oregon 533.

31. 1. Aider and Abettor Convicted — Principal Acquitted. — Williams v. U. S., 1 Indian Ter. 560.

Effect of Principal's Guilt or Innocence. — Where a husband was charged with the rape of his own wife by aiding and abetting another man to commit the crime, and the other man was previously acquitted, the husband cannot be convicted on the grounds of his legal inability to rape his own wife. State v. Haines, 51 La. Ann. 731.

The guilt of one who aids or abets the commission of a crime must be determined upon the facts which show the part he had in it, and does not depend upon the degree of another's guilt. Davis v. State, 152 Ind. 145; State v. Smith, 100 Iowa 1; State v. Wolf, 112 Iowa 458; Red v. State, 39 Tex. Crim. 667, 73 Am. St. Rep. 965.

Aiding and abetting a felony is an independent substantive crime, and in no wise dependent for its punishment upon the conviction of the principal. Casey v. State, 49 Neb. 403.

The Death of the Principal does not prevent indictment and conviction of one charged with aiding and abetting an embezzlement. Gallot v. U. S., (C. C. A.) 87 Fed. Rep. 446.

There Must Be a Crime by the Principal. — Where the larceny that the defendant counseled and advised was never committed by the party so advised and counseled, but by a third person, the defendant is not guilty as an aider and abettor. People v. Mills, (Supm. Ct. Spec. T.) 41 Misc. (N. Y.) 195.

2. Williams v. U. S., 1 Indian Ter. 560; State v. Cannon, 49 S. Car. 550.

Order of Trial. — Indictment for aiding and abetting may be either before or after the indictment or trial of the principal. Daughtrey v. State, (Fla. 1903) 35 So. Rep. 397; Com. v. Bradley, 16 Pa. Super. Ct. 561.

Act in Furtherance of Common Criminal Purpose. — State v. Cannon, 49 S. Car. 550.

3a. Aisle of a Theatre. — Under a New York statute prohibiting the obstruction of the aisles of a theatre, the court, per Gildersleeve, J., said: "An aisle is popularly understood to mean the space between the regularly constructed seats set apart as a passageway for ingress and egress, and an audience is entitled to so consider that space, and act accordingly. To hold that an aisle is only that amount of space prescribed by the building law would defeat the plain intention of the law, and permit the use of chairs in all passageways, to the extent of not encroaching upon the prescribed limit of space, and render such passageways exceedingly dangerous in case of fire or panic. The aisle of a theatre must be said to be the aisle laid down in the plans filed, the aisle accordingly constructed, in use, and observable to all persons entering and occupying a theatre. The manager of a theatre has the right to utilize, to the fullest extent, the seating capacity of his house, so long as he complies with the law; but the law does not permit him to occupy the portion of the auditorium he has voluntarily set apart for aisles with camp stools or chairs." Sturgis v. Coleman, (Supm. Ct. App. T.) 38 Misc. (N. Y.) 302.

Narcotics.—A false statement that the applicant was not a user of and never did use narcotics will avoid the policy, although such statement is made in good faith. National Fraternity v. Karnes, 24 Tex. Civ. App. 607.

An Answer that the Applicant Does Not Use Intoxicating Liquors is false if he is in the habit of taking intoxicants, although such use is neither excessive nor intemperate. Union Cent. L. Ins. Co. v. Lee, (Ky. 1898) 47 S. W. Rep. 614.

A Statement that the Applicant Drank Two or Three Glasses of Beer Daily, made in answer to the question "Do you drink beer, ale, wine, or spirits, and if so, state what, how often, and how much?" constitutes a false representation where the applicant is an habitual user of spirituous liquors. General Reputation for Temperance. — See note 8.

51. V. WAIVER — Acceptance of Premiums with Knowledge of Matters Constituting Breach of the Contract. — See notes 2, 3.

Under the by-laws of a beneficial association it was provided that the widow of any member entitled to sick benefits should be entitled to a death benefit. It was further provided that a member should forfeit his right to sick benefits where his illness was due to intemperance, and in a case where a member was fatally injured as a result of intoxication it was held that the widow was not entitled to the death benefit. Marcoux v. Society of Beneficence, etc., 91 Me. 250.

An Accident Policy exempting the insurer from liability in case of an injury resulting from intoxication or narcotics is avoided where the insured died from an overdose of a narcotic administered to quiet him while suffering from the effects of a spree. Flint v. Travelers' Ins. Co., (Tex. Civ. App. 1898) 43 S. W. Rep. 1079.

47. 7. Intemperance Impairing Health or Inducing Delirium Tremens. — Under a policy giving the insurer the right to terminate the contract when the insured has "become so intemperate as to impair his health or induce delirium tremens," the right does not arise unless the insured, becomes, as a matter of fact, so intemperate as to impair his health or to induce delirium tremens. Janneck v. Metropolitan L. Ins. Co., 13 N. Y. App. Div. 514, affirmed 162 N. Y. 574.

Permanent Impairment of Health by intemperance may be a cause for expulsion from a beneficiary association, and the fact that the insured is insane at the time of such expulsion is immaterial. Kempe v. Woodmen of World, (Tex. Civ. App. 1898) 44 S. W. Rep. 688.

9. Janneck v. Metropolitan L. Ins. Co., 13 N. Y. App. Div. 514, affirmed 162 N. Y. 574.

48. 1. No Causal Relation Necessary. — Pyne v. Mutual Acc. Co., 2 Dauphin Co. Rep. (Pa.) 110.

Actual Drunkenness at the time of the injury is essential to prevent recovery on the policy. Campbell v. Fidelity, etc., Co., 109 Ky. 661.

Where the insured died of an illness not caused by the use of intoxicating liquors, and was not intemperate at any time during his last illness, though he had been intemperate prior to such last illness, there was no violation of the provision in the policy relating to death during or by reason of the violation of a condition against intemperance in the use of intoxicating liquors. Union Cent. L. Ins. Co. v. Hughes, 110 Ky. 26.

What Constitutes Intemperate Habits is a question of law, but it is for the jury to determine whether the use or excess is occasional or habitual in a particular case. Drakeford v. Supreme Conclave, etc., 61 S. Car. 338.

7. Pains in the Head and Chest complained of by the insured may be testified to on cross-examination by a witness who has stated on direct examination that he has seen the insured in a state of intoxication. Union L. Ins. Co. v. Jameson, 31 Ind. App. 28.

8. Evidence of Physicians that, prior to the date of the policy, they had treated the insured for the alcohol habit is not affected by evidence tending to show that the insured was a temperate man, where the issue is as to whether he had ever been treated for the alcohol habit. Home L. Ins. Co. v. Sibert, 96 Va. 403.

51. 6. Deferring Action after a trial wherein it is shown that the insured has used intoxicants and become drunk is a waiver of a forfeiture for such use and intoxication of the insured before his application for insurance where the insurer has no knowledge thereof. Callies v. Modern Woodmen of America, 98 Mo. App. 521.

9. Aleatory Contracts. — A contract "is alea-tory or hazardous when the performance of that which is one of its objects depends on an uncertain event." Civ. Code La., art. 1776. Losecco v. Gregory, 108 La. 648.

An Alibi. — Peyton v. State, 54 Neb. 191, citing 2 AM. AND ENG. ENCYC. OF LAW (2d ed.) 53.

The Theory of an Alibi. — State v. Davis, 6 Idaho 159.

2. Alibi Considered as an Affirmative Defense. — State v. Thornton, 10 S. Dak. 358, citing 2 AM. AND ENG. ENCYC. OF LAW (2d ed.) 53; Saenz v. State, (Tex. Crim. 1901) 63 S. W. Rep. 316; Young v. State, (Tex. Crim. 1904) 79 S. W. Rep. 34.

3. Alibi Not Technically a Defense. — People v. Roberts, 122 Cal. 377; McNamara v. People, 24 Colo. 61; State v. Ardoin, 49 La. Ann. 1145, 62 Am. St. Rep. 678; Com. v. Gutshall, 22 Pa. Super. Ct. 269.

54. 1. Evidence of Alibi to Be Treated Like Other Evidence. — Kimbrough v. State, 101 Ga. 583; Waters v. People, 172 Ill. 367; State v. Crowell, 149 Mo. 391; State v. Taylor, 134 Mo. 109; Casey v. State, 49 Neb. 403; Com. v. Gutshall, 22 Pa. Super. Ct. 269; Legere v. State, 111 Tenn. 370, 102 Am. St. Rep. 781.

Instructions to Jury on Question of Alibi. — See State v. Worthen, 124 Iowa 408; People v. Tice, 115 Mich. 219, 60 Am. St. Rep. 560; People v. Portenga, 134 Mich. 247, which cases are similar to State v. Blunt, 59 Iowa 468, set out in the original note; State v. Powers, 72 Vt. 168.

The court should not disparage the defense of alibi in its instruction to the jury. Henry v. State, 51 Neb. 149, 66 Am. St. Rep. 450.

In Texas, an instruction which suggests that an alibi is a special plea, independent of a plea of not guilty, is upheld. Young v. State, (Tex. Crim. 1904) 79 S. W. Rep. 34.

It is the Exclusive Province of the Jury to judge of the testimony and if they see fit they may disregard all the evidence of alibi. Droak v. State, (Tex. Crim. 1898) 43 S. W. Rep. 988.

Conflicting Evidence. — It is for the jury to determine the truth of the evidence where the evidence introduced on behalf of the state and of the defendant is conflicting. State v. Watson, 102 Iowa 651; State v. White, 99 Iowa 46.

2. Duty of Court to Instruct. — Garcia v. State, 34 Fla. 311; State v. Harvey, 131 Mo. 339; State v. Fox, 148 Mo. 517; Legere v. State, 111 Tenn. 370, 102 Am. St. Rep. 781; Wilson v. State, 41 Tex. Crim. 115. See also as to the sufficiency of instructions, Stevens v. State, 42 Tex. Crim. 154; Benavides v. State, (Tex. Crim. 1901) 61 S. W. Rep. 125; Winfield v. State, 44 Tex. Crim. 475.

Where the evidence shows a conspiracy to kill, an instruction on alibi is properly refused. State v. Gatlin, 170 Mo. 354.

Texas Law as to Instructions. — Donaho v. State, (Tex. Crim. 1898) 47 S. W. Rep. 469; Hines v. State, 40 Tex. Crim. 23; Parker v. State, 40 Tex. Crim. 119; Smith v. State, (Tex. Crim. 1899) 49 S. W. Rep. 583; Ford v. State, (Tex. Crim. 1899) 50 S. W. Rep. 951; Byas v. State, 41 Tex. Crim. 51. See also, as to the rule in Arkansas, Goldsby v. U. S., 160 U. S. 70.

It is otherwise, if the omission is excepted to, or instructions were asked for. Smith v. State, (Tex. Crim. 1899) 50 S. W. Rep. 362; Rountree v. State, (Tex. Crim. 1900) 55 S. W. Rep. 827; Padron v. State, 41 Tex. Crim. 548.

Same Rule Applied in Other States. — State v. Lightfoot, 107 Iowa 344; Com. v. Boschino, 176 Pa. St. 103.

Where Alibi Is the Sole Defense. — Arismendis v. State, (Tex. Crim. 1900) 60 S. W. Rep. 47.

55. See note 1.

Harmless Error in Instructions. — See note 2.

II. EVIDENCE AND ITS EFFECT — 1. Burden of Proof — Decisions Not Harmonious. — See notes 3, 4.56. The Correct Doctrine Stated. — See note 1.2. Sufficiency of Evidence — Jury Must Acquit on Reasonable Doubt. — See note 2.Issue Not Raised by Evidence — No Issue Raised.

— Where the testimony does not raise the defense, it is not necessary to charge an alibi even upon request. Walker v. State, 118 Ga. 757; Murphy v. State, 118 Ga. 780; Benavides v. State, (Tex. Crim. 1901) 61 S. W. Rep. 125; Smith v. State, (Tex. Crim. 1904) 78 S. W. Rep. 516; Johnson v. State, (Tex. Crim. 1900) 58 S. W. Rep. 105; Jackson v. State, (Tex. Crim. 1902) 67 S. W. Rep. 497. See also State v. Gatlin, 170 Mo. 354.

55. 1. Refusal to Instruct, Reversible Error. — Long v. State, 42 Fla. 509; State v. Fox, 148 Mo. 517; State v. Harvey, 131 Mo. 339; State v. Koplan, 167 Mo. 298; Joy v. State, (Tex. Crim. 1899) 51 S. W. Rep. 935; Tijerina v. State, (Tex. Crim. 1903) 74 S. W. Rep. 913.

2. Harmless Error in Instructions. — McVey v. State, 57 Neb. 471.

If Once Erroneously Stated, a subsequent statement of the law will not cure the error. McNamara v. People, 24 Colo. 61; State v. Ardoin, 49 La. Ann. 1145, 62 Am. St. Rep. 678; State v. Tatlow, 136 Mo. 678; State v. McClellan, 23 Mont. 532; Beck v. State, 51 Neb. 106; Henry v. State, 51 Neb. 149, 66 Am. St. Rep. 450.

The fact that the court's charge "that the burden of proof is on the defendant to establish his alibi, and this must be done to your satisfaction," may have had a tendency to confuse the jury and to mislead it did not render said charge reversible error; and the proper way of correcting such instructions is by a request for explanatory instructions. Towns v. State, 111 Ala. 1.

3. The Rule that the Burden of Proof Remains upon Prosecution. — Peyton v. State, 54 Neb. 192, citing 2 AM. AND ENG. ENCYC. OF LAW (2d ed.) 55; State v. Ardoin, 49 La. Ann. 1145, 62 Am. But it was held, in Georgia, not error to charge that in order for the accused to be successful in overcoming the evidence of his guilt by setting up an alibi, his proof must satisfy the jury that he "was at a place where it was impossible for him to have committed the crime." Harris v. State, 120 Ga. 167.

Any evidence which tends to show that the accused was not at the place at the time of the commission of the crime is competent. Ratliff v. State, 122 Ala. 104.

Where the exact time of the commission of the offense is shown and an alibi is proved covering such time, it is error to charge that the state's witnesses may have been mistaken as to the exact time and that the jury should convict if they believe that the defendant committed the offense within two years before the finding of the indictment. *State v. Car. 333, an allowance of $4,000 alimony pendente lite was held not to be excessive where the defendant was worth from $80,000 to $100,000.

Where the husband has no property and the evidence shows him unable to procure employment an allowance of $350 as alimony and $25 a month, with $300 as counsel fees, was held to be excessive. Culpepper v. Culpepper, 98 Ga. 304.

An allowance of $40 as temporary alimony has been held to be insufficient where the evidence shows the wife was put to the expense of $60 in taking depositions. Cairnes v. Cairnes, 29 Colo. 260, 93 Am. St. Rep. 55.

Where the husband conceded that he earned $20 per week, and there was not sufficient evidence that he earned $50 per week as alleged by the wife, an allowance of $12 per week was held proper. Weigand v. Weigand, 103 N. Y. App. Div. 293.

In Prine v. Prine, 36 Fla. 676, it was held that the chancery court has inherent power to grant alimony to the wife in a suit by the husband to declare the marriage void ab initio.

2. Statutes. — In Connecticut, alimony may be awarded to the wife in suits to annul, and this right is not limited to where the woman is blameless or not equally in fault with the husband. Stapleberg v. Stapleberg, (Conn. 1904) 58 Atl. Rep. 233.

In Kentucky it has been held that the wife is entitled to alimony in all cases of separation where she was not in fault, though the husband procured the divorce. Irwin v. Irwin, 105 Ky. 632.

In Texas there can be no allowance for permanent alimony. The wife is entitled to alimony pendente lite and the final decree may order a division of community property, but cannot provide, by way of alimony, support or maintenance of the divorced wife. Boyd v. Boyd, 22 Tex. Civ. App. 200.

An allowance of $75 per month as alimony has been held excessive where the husband's estate merely consisted of land worth about $19,000 and he had others dependent upon him. Gooding v. Gooding, 104 Ky. 755.

Where a wife has, in her own right, property worth about $6,500 an award of $5,500 as alimony is excessive if the husband, sixty-five years of age, is left with encumbered property to the value of $22,700, from which he must pay an indebtedness of $6,000 and the alimony. Kimbrow v. Kimbro, (Neb. 1905) 102 N. W. Rep. 271.

An allowance of an unencumbered farm valued at $6,000, and $400 in cash and $100 a year for two years and $50 a year for three years, was held to be excessive where the husband was worth only about $17,000 and owed $4,900. Roelke v. Roelke, 103 Wis. 204.

Along in the Sense of "In the Vicinity of"—Highway Along Stream.—Stahr v. Carter, 116 Iowa 380, citing 2 AM. AND ENG. ENCYC. OF LAW (2d ed.) 175.

"Upon and Along"—Sidepath.—A New York statute provides that "no sidepath shall be constructed upon or along any regularly constructed or maintained sidewalk, except with the consent of the persons owning the abutting lands." The court in construing this statute said: "The use of the word along in the phrase 'upon or along' is to complete the idea of superimposition; for 'upon' means 'on,' and a sidewalk presents the feature of length or extension, and I think that along is used in complement to that idea, as it means literally, 'in line with, in connection with.' * * * To give along, as used in this statute, the full force of 'alongside of,' is not to make it a synonym of another word, but is to disregard the force of a compound with the very same word, although such compound itself expresses the idea of locality, namely, beside, by the side of." O'Donnell v. Preston, 74 N. Y. App. Div. 86.

"Along the Waters of Any Bay" does not necessarily mean over, in, or through the waters, and may well mean along the borders of any bay; and in the statutes under consideration it seems to mean that or nothing. Davis v. Port Arthur Channel, etc., Co., (C. C. A.) 87 Fed. Rep. 515.

In Idaho such evidence is especially set out by statute. Mulkey v. Long, 5 Idaho 213.

286. 1. "Amalgamation" in England Equivalent to "Consolidation" in United States. — Shadford v. Detroit, etc., R. Co., 130 Mich. 300.

Amalgamation and Reconstruction. — In re South Africa Supply, etc., Co., (1904) 2 Ch. 287, the court said: "The only question I have to determine is whether, in the case of each of these two companies, there has or has not been a winding-up 'for the purpose of reconstruction or amalgamation.' Neither of these words, 'reconstruction' and amalgamation, has any definite legal meaning. Each is a commercial and not a legal term, and, even as a commercial term, bears no exact definite meaning. In each case one has to decide whether the transaction is such as that, in the meaning of commercial men, it is one which is comprehended in the term 'reconstruction' or amalgamation. * * * An amalgamation involves, I think, a different idea. There you must have the rolling, somehow or other, of two concerns into one. You must weld two things together and arrive at an amalgam — a blending of two undertakings."

AMBIGUITY.

BY W. H. BUCHANAN.

289. II. KINDS OF AMBIGUITY — 2. Latent Ambiguity. — See note 1.

A Question of Fact. — See note 2.

3. Ambiguity of Intermediate Class. — See note 3.

III. PAROL EVIDENCE TO EXPLAIN — 1. Patent Ambiguity — General Rule. — See note 4.

289. 1. Latent Ambiguity Defined.—Flynn v. Holman, 119 Iowa 731; Ladnier v. Ladnier, 75 Miss. 777; Petrie v. Hamilton College, 158 N. Y. 458.

Latent Ambiguity Distinguished from Mistake or Error in Description.—A latent ambiguity may be explained and the description aided by parol evidence in a court of law, while a mistake or error in description requires the jurisdiction of a court of equity for its correction. Donehoo v. Johnson, 120 Ala. 438.

The Term "The Southeast Forty of the Northeast Quarter" does not create a latent ambiguity where the common acceptance and meaning of such term is "the southeast forty acres of the northeast quarter." Evans v. Gerry, 174 Ill. 595.

2. Latent Ambiguity—Question of Fact.—Davenport First Nat. Bank v. Rothschild, 107 Ill. App. 133.

When Question of Law.—In Thorn, etc., Lime, etc., Co. v. St. Louis Expanded Metal Fire Proofing Co., 77 Mo. App. 21, the court said: "Where an ambiguity exists and it is solved by extraneous matter about which there is no dispute, the construction is * * * for the court. But where the extrinsic facts are unconceded and rest upon conflicting testimony from which different inferences might be drawn, it is for the triers of the facts to draw the inferences and say what the parties meant by the contract."

3. Ambiguity of Intermediate Class.—Moody v. Alabama G. S. R. Co., 124 Ala. 195; Miles v. Miles, 78 Miss. 904, citing 2 AM. AND ENG. ENCYC. OF LAW (2d ed.) 289; Sullivan v. Visconti, 68 N. J. L. 543, citing 2 AM. AND ENG. ENCYC. OF LAW (2d ed.) 287, 304; Dorris v. King, (Tenn. Ch. 1899) 54 S. W. Rep. 683. See also Schlottman v. Hoffman, 73 Miss. 188, 55 Am. St. Rep. 527; Hattiesburg Plumbing Co. v. Carmichael, 80 Miss. 66.

The Omission of the Number of a Lot intended to be described in a lease does not effect a patent ambiguity, within the accurate and proper definition of that term, but is such as may be corrected by parol proof. Marske v. Willard, 169 Ill. 276.

Omission from a Deed of the Names of the State and County, when the land is described by section, township, and range, may be corrected by proof of extrinsic facts applying the deed to the property sought to be conveyed. Ladnier v. Ladnier, 75 Miss. 777.

"Cost in Market" has no fixed meaning and may be explained by parol evidence of the meaning given to it by the parties at the time of the execution of the contract. McGrath v. Crouse, 6 Kan. App. 507.

The Term "Strand" is of universal use, and therefore does not come within the rule of admissibility of parol evidence to prove how it was understood or accepted in any particular locality. Stillman v. Burfeind, 21 N. Y. App. Div. 13.

The Term "Westerly Half" of a store when used in a lease may be explained by parol evidence in a case where the application of the middle line of the store fails definitely to create the part intended to be leased. Freund v. Kearney, (Supm. Ct. App. T.) 23 Misc. (N. Y.) 685.

An Imperfect Description of Notes secured by a trust deed, which is simply inaccurate in failing to add some additional matter, which would have made the description perfect, may be aided by extrinsic evidence. McDonald v. Dorbrandt, 17 Tex. Civ. App. 277.

parol evidence is for the purpose of adding a material term to an instrument, or when the court, having looked to the circumstances of the parties, the subject-matter of the instrument, and all proper collateral facts, remains uncertain as to what the meaning of the written words is, a patent ambiguity appears, which parol evidence cannot aid."

Omission of the Name of the Town in which is situated property intended to be described in a deed, produces a patent ambiguity, and parol evidence is not admissible to remedy the uncertainty in the description. Taffinder v. Merrell, 18 Tex. Civ. App. 661.

The Word "Well" may not of itself convey a distinct idea of the precise thing the parties intended should be produced, but as the doubt is suggested at once by the phrase itself, it has been held that it is an ambiguity which the law terms a "patent ambiguity," and as a general rule such a one may not be cured by proof of what the parties intended by the use of the doubtful phrase. *Strong v. In Marske v. Willard, 169 Ill. 276, the court said: "Some confusion exists in the authorities, arising, it is believed, out of incorrect meanings attached to the terms 'latent' and 'patent' ambiguities, for it is certainly not true that, as the term 'patent ambiguity' is often understood, it is an inflexible rule that extrinsic evidence is inadmissible to explain the ambiguity."

In Citizens' Bank v. Brigham, 61 Kan. 727, the court said: "Where the phraseology of an instrument is doubtful or ambiguous, meaning can be given to it by showing the inducing causes to the making of it and the facts and circumstances surrounding its execution and involving the parties to it; and generally, evidence not contradictory of the language of an instrument, but explanatory of the purpose and object of the parties in executing it, will be received."

In Schlottman v. Hoffman, 73 Miss. 188, 55 Am. St. Rep. 527, the court said: "The rule against the introduction of parol testimony in cases of patent ambiguity is very generally stated too broadly — frequently for the reason that, with reference to the case before the court, the rule, however broadly stated, is correct in its application."

In Wolff v. Wells, (C. C. A.) 115 Fed. Rep. 32, the court said: "If there is any uncertainty or ambiguity as to the meaning of the words used in the written contract, where it is based upon or refers to a conversation, parol evidence may be admitted, not to vary the terms of the contract, but to explain the sense in which the language in the writing was used. Such attendant and surrounding circumstances are competent evidence for the purpose of placing the court in the same situation and giving it the same advantage for construing the instrument as were possessed by the parties who executed it."

In Hinote v. Brigman, 44 Fla. 589, the court said: "The rule * * * is that where words or phrases used in a contract have acquired a definite meaning generally or by local usage, or, when used in reference to certain things or commodities, have acquired a definite meaning among those dealing with such things or commodities, and the language used in the writing is such that the court does not understand it, oral testimony is admissible to explain the meaning of such words or phrases."

In Kohl v. Frederick, 115 Iowa 517, the court said: "Where, by giving a word its strict technical legal meaning, a contract will be rendered entirely meaningless, it is competent to show by parol the sense in which it was used, if it is used by laymen in a different sense, or has a popular or common meaning, if by doing so the contract may be given force and effect."

Effect of Parol Evidence. — Parol evidence of the meaning of technical terms, as established by usage or custom in the trade, neither varies nor adds to the written instrument, but merely translates it from the language of the trade into the ordinary language of people generally. Maurin v. Lyon, 69 Minn. 257, 65 Am. St. Rep. 568.

Warranted Sound and Safe Property. — Where it was contended that this phrase, when used in reference to a horse, had from long custom come to be understood in a certain locality as referring to the title to the animal exclusively, and not to his qualities, it was held that the word "sound" is a common word the meaning of which could not be varied, but that the term "safe property" could be shown by parol evidence to have been used in a technical sense. Thompson v. Pruden, 9 Ohio Cir. Dec. 857.

The Term "Persistent Policy Holder" cannot be explained by extrinsic evidence when the ordinary meaning of the term in the connection in which it occurs is the true one and is sufficiently obvious. Fry v. Provident Sav. L. Assur. Soc., (Tenn. Ch. 1896) 38 S. W. Rep. 116.

In Harmon v. Thompson, (Ky. 1905) 84 S. W. Rep. 569, the court said: "Where, after applying the rules of interpretation applicable to the writing alone, the judicial mind is still in doubt as to the meaning of the parties, and there exists a latent ambiguity, the law admits parol or other outside evidence to explain what was meant by the writing."

sumed to Be Valid. — Pendleton v. Shaw, 18 Tex. Civ. App. 439.

325. 1. Burden of Proof. — But in Georgia, where a certified copy is offered in evidence, the burden of proof is upon the person offering the deed. Bentley v. McCall, 119 Ga. 530.

But Where There Is a Conflict of Evidence. — Gann v. Roberts, 32 Tex. Civ. App. 561.

Forgery. — An ancient deed, after being admitted in evidence, may be shown to be a forgery. Albright v. Jones, 106 Ga. 302.

Where an affidavit of forgery is filed, the age of the record, a copy of which is offered in evidence, is not conclusive evidence of the execution of the deed. Gann v. Roberts, 32 Tex. Civ. App. 561.

Where Name of Grantee Left Blank When Executed. — A transfer of a land certificate with the name of the grantee left blank when executed, and the grantee's name afterwards inserted, all of which appears on the face of the instrument, does not affect its status as an ancient document. Ward v. Cameron, (Tex. Civ. App. 1903) 76 S. W. Rep. 240.

326. 1. Where Proper Custody Is Not Shown the instrument does not come within the rule admitting its genuineness as an ancient document. Swafford v. Herd, 65 S. W. Rep. 803, 23 Ky. L. Rep. 1556.

Any Proper Custody Sufficient — Illustrations. — Where the deed was produced from the general land office, having been deposited there by one of the defendant's predecessors in title, there was a proper custody. Templeton v. Luckett, 75 Fed. Rep. 254, 41 U. S. App. 392; Timmony v. Burns, (Tex. Civ. App. 1897) 42 S. W. Rep. 133.

Where a transfer of a land certificate sent to the county surveyor to be recorded was found among the papers of the surveyor after his death by the surveyor's son, it was held that the transfer came from a proper custody. Ward v. Cameron, (Tex. Civ. App. 1903) 76 S. W. Rep. 240.

Parties. — Where an ancient deed has been in the possession of the grantor and his heirs since its execution, there is not a proper custody. Heintz v. O'Donnell, 17 Tex. Civ. App. 21.

328. 3. See Cunningham v. Davis, 175 Mass. 213, citing 2 AM. AND ENG. ENCYC. OF LAW (2d ed.) 328.

330. 2. Reuter v. Stuckart, 181 Ill. 529.

4. Other Circumstances than Possession. — In determining the age of a deed, all indorsements made thereon and certificates attached thereto, which in any manner indicate its age, are matters to be considered by the jury. Bell v. Hutchings, (Tex. Civ. App. 1897) 41 S. W. Rep. 200.

331. 1. Wilson v. Braden, 56 W. Va. 372, citing 2 AM. AND ENG. ENCYC. OF LAW (2d ed.) 331.

Illustrations — For What Purposes Introduced — To establish Boundaries. — A map showing the boundaries of the land taken by the state for public improvements is admissible for that purpose. Smucker v. Pennsylvania R. Co., 188 Pa. St. 40. See also Pierce v. Schram, (Tex. Civ. App. 1899) 53 S. W. Rep. 716.

Extent of Doctrine of Ancient Documents. — The doctrine of admitting ancient documents in evidence, without proof of their genuineness, is based on the ground that they prove themselves, the witness being presumed to be dead. The doctrine goes no further than this. The questions of its relevancy and admissibility as evidence cannot be affected by the fact that it is an ancient document. King v. Watkins, 98 Fed. Rep. 913.

351. 1. Liability of Owner for Damages by Wild Animals — General Rule. — Barclay v. Hartman, 2 Marv. (Del.) 351.

Trespasses by Rabbits and Deer. — Where the defendant's predecessor had kept foreign rabbits, which had bred in considerable numbers, but the defendant had done nothing to increase their numbers, and the defendant also kept deer on his premises, it was held that he was liable for the damages occasioned by the trespasses of the deer on the plaintiff's land, but not for the trespasses of the rabbits. Brady v. Warren, (1900) 2 Ir. R. 632.

Bees Attacking Horses. — See Parsons v. Manser, 119 Iowa 88, 97 Am. St. Rep. 283.

Where the defendant was negligent in the care of his bees and knew that they were accustomed to sting mankind and domestic animals, it was held that he was liable to the plaintiff for injuries sustained by reason of being thrown from his horse in consequence of stings inflicted on the horse by the defendant's bees. The damage was not too remote. O'Gorman v. O'Gorman, (1903) 2 Ir. R. 573.

Evidence of Viciousness. — Talmage v. Mills, 80 N. Y. App. Div. 382.

The fact that horses had run away before, but on that occasion were frightened by boys snow-balling, is not sufficient evidence of viciousness to render the owner liable. Benoit v. Troy, etc., R. Co., 154 N. Y. 223.

Evidence of Viciousness Held Insufficient. — Eastman v. Scott, 182 Mass. 192; Lawlor v. French, 2 N. Y. App. Div. 140; McHugh v. New York, 31 N. Y. App. Div. 299.

The Requisite Scienter may be proved by notice of those circumstances which should have placed a reasonably prudent man on guard and which, on reasonable inquiry, would have afforded information of the true character of the animal. Actual personal knowledge or proof of the vicious propensities of the animal is not necessary. McCready v. Stepp, 104 Mo. App. 340.

Docile Conduct After Injury. — Subsequent conduct of the animal cannot be considered in determining the scienter. Woodward v. Loomis, 64 N. Y. App. Div. 27.

Knowledge of Servant. — The knowledge of a servant to whom the animal is intrusted is imputed to the master. Clowdis v. Fresno Flume, etc., Co., 118 Cal. 315, 62 Am. St. Rep. 238; Brown v. Green, 1 Penn. (Del.) 535; O'Neill v. Blase, 94 Mo. App. 648.

Under the English Dogs Act of 1865, proof of scienter is unnecessary in the case of the killing of a trespassing sheep by the defendant's dog. Grange v. Silcock, 18 Cox C. C. 644, 77 L. T. N. S. 340.

In Bauer v. Lyons, 23 N. Y. App. Div. 204, the plaintiff, who had been bitten by defendant's dogs, gave evidence tending to prove that the dogs had about two weeks prior to the time of this occurrence attacked and bitten another person, and that the defendant had been advised of it. This was held sufficient to require the submission of the question to the jury whether the defendant was chargeable with such notice of the vicious disposition of the dogs as to render him liable to the plaintiff for suffering them to run at large.

Permanent Disfigurement — Speculative Damages. — In an action for the biting of a girl five years old, it was held erroneous to instruct the jury that if they thought the scar on her face, caused by the bite, was likely to be permanent, and that the disfigurement might affect her prospects of making a good marriage, they might consider such fact in assessing the damages, as such damages were too speculative and remote. *Price v. Contingent Annuity. — Stover's Appeal, 77 Pa. St. 282.

3. Krigbaum v. Irvine, 10 Ohio Dec. 226.

Annuity Is in Nature of Contingent Debt. — Where an insolvent made an assignment for the benefit of creditors and previous to the assignment he had covenanted with trustees to pay an annuity to his wife, it was held that the growing payments were in the nature of contingent debts and that the trustees were not entitled, under Rev. Stat. Ont., c. 147, to rank on the estate of the insolvent for the present value of such payments. Carswell v. Langley, 3 Ont. L. Rep. 261.

388. 1. Contract. — Cahill v. Maryland L. Ins. Co., 90 Md. 333, citing 2 AM. AND ENG. ENCYC. OF LAW (2d ed.) 388.

Ademption of Annuity. — A testator by his will gave to each of his two daughters an annuity for life of six thousand dollars. After making the will he gave to one daughter, absolutely, bonds sufficient to produce an income of a little more than one thousand two hundred dollars a year, and by a codicil reduced her annuity by that amount. He subsequently gave to the other daughter, absolutely, bonds sufficient to produce an income of a little more than one thousand two hundred dollars a year, and instructed his solicitor to alter his will so as to reduce her annuity by that amount, but died suddenly before his will was altered. The court held that the doctrine of ademption applied, and that notwithstanding the different nature of the two gifts, and even without evidence of intention, the second daughter's annuity must be treated as adeemed pro tanto. Tuckett-Lawry v. Lamoureux, 3 Ont. L. Rep. 577, affirming 1 Ont. L. Rep. 364.

A Widow May Have Both Dower and an Annuity where there is nothing in the gift of the annuity inconsistent with the right to dower and she is not required to elect as to which she will take. Cowan v. Allen, 26 Can. Sup. Ct. 292.

2. Release of a Debt of four thousand dollars for a grant of an annuity of sixty-two dollars and fifty cents every three months, is a good consideration for the annuity. Price v. Price, 66 S. W. Rep. 529, 23 Ky. L. Rep. 1911, 1947.

396. V. ON WHAT PROPERTY CHARGEABLE — 1. In General — A Question of Intention. — See note 3.

391. 5. Mortgagee of Property Charged. — A mortgagee is not an innocent purchaser for value where a deed granting annuities is on record when he receives his mortgage, and he takes subject to the annuities. Bentley v. Gardner, 45 N. Y. App. Div. 216.

Extent of Charge Is Dependent on Terms of Will.

— Where a testator charges land with the payment of an annuity, an agreement between the devisees and the annuitant charging the land to a greater extent for the payment of the annuity is ineffectual as to a subsequent purchaser of the land who has no actual notice of such agreement, and such purchaser will take the land subject only to the charge imposed by the will. Thus, where the will provided that the annuity should be paid out of the funds of the estate and directed that if there were not sufficient funds therefor, it was to be a charge on separate parcels of land devised to other persons, and there were sufficient funds in the executors' hands for the payment of the annuity, but by an agreement for a valuable consideration made between the annuitant and the devisees, it was agreed that the annuity should not be paid out of the funds, but should be a charge on the lands, it was held that a subsequent purchaser without actual notice of the agreement was not affected thereby, and that the lands purchased by him were not liable for the payment of the annuity so long as there were sufficient funds in the executors' hands to pay it. Coolidge v. Nelson, 31 Ont. 646.

Respective Liability of Life Tenant and Remainderman. — A testator seized in fee of land subject to a mortgage to secure an annuity for his wife, devised the land for life, remainder over in fee. After the death of the testator the life tenant continued to pay the annuity to the widow. She also sold the timber on the land, claiming the right to do so on account of her payments on the annuity. In a suit by the remainderman to restrain waste, it was held that periodical payments of the annuity must be treated partly as interest which the tenant for life had to pay, and partly as principal for which she would have a charge on the inheritance in the proportion which the value of the life estate bore to the value of the remainder, and an injunction was granted restraining the cutting of the timber. Whitesell v. Reece, 5 Ont. L. Rep. 352.

Annuity Payable for Five Years. — In Hough- tling v. Stockbridge, (Mich. 1904) 99 N. W. Rep. 759, the court held that the construction of the will showed that the annuities should cease to be paid after five years, though the estate was not settled until ten years after the death of the testator.

Terminating with Distribution of Estate. — Where a testator gave an annuity to his wife and to another with a provision that the estate should be divided after the death of his wife, the wife's decease was held to put an end to the other annuity. Matter of Charlier, 22 N. Y. App. Div. 71.

Annuity During Widowhood. — It has been held that the gift of an annuity, limited to the widowhood of the annuitant, is not invalid as being in undue restraint of marriage. Cowan v. Allen, 26 Can. Sup. Ct. 292.

2. Mere Gift of Annuity, Without More — Continues for Life Only. — Goodyear Shoe Machinery Co. v. Dancel, (C. C. A.) 119 Fed. Rep. 692, citing 2 AM. AND ENG. ENCYC. OF LAW (2d ed.) 393; In re Follett, 23 R. I. 410, citing 2 AM. AND ENG. ENCYC. OF LAW (2d ed.) 393.

Y. App. Div. 211, citing 2 AM. AND ENG. ENCYC. OF LAW (2d ed.) 393.

Annuity Held to Be for Life. — Where a will provided that an annuity should be paid to the testator's wife during her life, and provided for the payment of annuities to other relatives, without specifying their duration, and the will further directed that on the deaths of the respective annuitants the annuities should be divided between persons named, it was held that all of the annuities were for the lives of the annuitants only. *Ward v. 397. 2. Personal Estate Primarily Liable. — In case the estate of the covenantor who has granted a life annuity is not sufficient to pay the full amount of the annuity, the whole of the fund must be paid to the annuitant. Ashwin v. Bullock, 81 L. T. N. S. 48.

Charge on Real Estate — Exoneration of Personal Estate. — Where a testator died possessed of freehold and leasehold property as well as ordinary personalty, and by his will he devised and bequeathed all his property, real and personal, to his son, and charged all the real and freehold property with the payment of an annuity to each of his daughters, it was held that the annuities were charged only on the freeholds and not on the leaseholds or other personalty. Greer v. Waring, (1896) 1 Ir. R. 427.

3. Annuity Charged on Specific Real Estate. — An annuity in lieu of dower granted in an antenuptial contract will be chargeable, after the death of the husband, dying intestate, upon the whole estate and not solely upon the half vesting in the heirs at law of the deceased. Christy v. Marmon, 163 Ill. 225. See also Baylies v. Hamilton, 36 N. Y. App. Div. 133.

399. 1. Liability of Residuary Legatees Inter Se. — Where a testator by his will, after giving certain legacies, devised and bequeathed his residuary estate to trustees on trust to pay out of the income thereof an annuity to his widow during her life, and subject thereto to divide the residuary estate into as many shares as there should be children living at his death, and to pay the annual income of such shares to his children, and he was survived by six children, it was held that each child's share must bear one-sixth of the annuity; that if the income of his share exceeded his proportion of the annuity he would be entitled to the surplus; that if his share of the income was not equal to his proportion of the full annuity, he must make good the deficiency; and that when his income was enlarged by the death of the annuitant he would have to account to the other children for the difference between the portion of his income that had been applied to the payment of the annuity and the sum that he ought to have provided for that purpose. Re Hargreaves, 88 L. T. N. S. 100, modifying 86 L. T. N. S. 43.

2. Life Annuity Liable to Forfeiture. — Where a life annuity had been given by a covenantor in terms which rendered it liable to forfeiture, in the event the annuitant should do or suffer some act, whereby the annuity or any part thereof, if belonging to him absolutely, would become vested in some other person, and such annuity had been valued in an action to administer the estate of the covenantor, which was not sufficient to pay the annuity in full, it was held that the annuitant was entitled to have the whole of the fund representing the value of the annuity paid to him. In re Sinclair, (1897) 1 Ch. 921, following *Wroughton v. of any provision in the will as to the time of payment of an annuity, it will not be payable in advance, but may, in the discretion of the executor, having due regard to the condition of the estate and the collection of its income, be paid in instalments, providing that by the end of the year the legatee must receive the full amount of the annuity for that year. Rucker v. Maddox, 114 Ga. 899.

Gift of Money to Be Used in Purchase of Annuity. — A sum of money bequeathed to executors to be used by them in the purchase of an annuity carries interest only from a date twelve months after the death of the testator. This rule was applied where the testator bequeathed to his executors a sum of money free of duty, to be laid out by them in the purchase of an annuity for his daughter, and the will contained no clause for maintenance nor was there any further provision made for the daughter. Re Friend, 78 L. T. N. S. 222.

Widow. — A widow who has failed for several years to urge her claim to priority over other legatees taking annuities, must be held to have acquiesced in the course of the executor in making pro rata payments; she cannot complain after such a continued acquiescence. Houghteling v. Stockbridge, (Mich. 1904) 99 N. W. Rep. 759.

5. Right of Distress. — In November, 1831, a testator devised certain lands to his daughters A and B, as tenants in common in tail. A married C, and B married D. In 1858, by a deed of settlement on her marriage, B disentailed her moieties and settled them on a trust to pay the income to her husband D for his life or until he became bankrupt, and then for the issue of the marriage, and in default of issue (which was the case) or in default of appointment, for her next of kin. B died in 1862, and her husband D became bankrupt in 1878, whereupon A became entitled to the entire property. In 1881 a deed was executed between A, her husband C, and D, whereby A, with the assent of her husband, in contemplation of D's second marriage, agreed to grant to D an annuity charged on the moieties, shares, and premises comprised in the marriage settlement of 1858, payable out of the rents, profits, and income thereof respectively. By that deed it was provided that if the annuity should become in arrears, the annuitant could enter into and distrain upon all or any of the moieties, shares, or premises, and hold them and receive and take the rents and profits thereof until the arrears were satisfied. The rental value of the undivided moiety eventually became quite insufficient to satisfy the annuity, the profits of the whole hardly amounting to that sum. In a suit to enjoin the annuitant from distraining, it was held that though he had power to distrain on the entirety of the lands, the deed gave him no power to distrain for more than one-half of the rents and profits of the whole. Ashwin v. Bullock, 81 L. T. N. S. 48.

405. 1. Arrears Payable Out of Annuitant's Share of Estate. — A testator set apart a fund as a provision for his wife and also for his children until their majority or marriage. He gave the residue of his estate to his children living at his death and directed that it should be divided on the death of all of them. He further directed that from majority or marriage each child was to receive the revenue derivable from his share, limited to six thousand dollars a year, each child being charged with a substitution in favor of his or her children. In a suit brought by the eldest son to recover arrears of his annuity of six thousand dollars a year, it was held that according to the true intention of the testator as disclosed by the words of the will, the annuity of each child was a charge on the revenue of his own share and its arrears and not on the total revenue of the estate. Beaudry v. Barbeau, (1900) A. C. 569.

408. 2. Comparative Valuations of Immediate and Reversionary Annuities. — When a life annuity is given to persons in succession, and the estate being ascertained to be insufficient at some period after the testator's death, it becomes necessary to value the annuity for the purposes of administration, in order to fix the respective amounts to be received by immediate and reversionary annuitants, only the interest in the future of the annuities is valued and a prior annuitant is not required to bring into hotchpot sums paid to him before the date fixed for the making of the valuation. When the annuity of a prior annuitant who dies before a valuation is made is in arrears at his death, the arrears must be paid up out of the fund applicable to that purpose, before a reversionary annuitant is entitled to claim anything, though the fund is thereby entirely exhausted, where it appears that under the terms of the will the trustees might have exhausted the whole of the

What Sum Should Be Set Aside. — The annuitants are not entitled to have the estate of the testator converted into money further than may be necessary for the payment of his debts and funeral and testamentary expenses. Their right is limited after this has been done, to having the annuities sufficiently secured by the setting aside of such part of the estate as may be adequate for that purpose; and it is sufficient to set aside securities for such an amount as at the rate of four per cent. per annum will produce a yearly sum equal to the amount of the annuities to be provided for. Re McIntyre, 3 Ont. The article is signed 'Smith.' The defendant's name is Isaac H. Smith. He refers to the plaintiff as 'one Williams,' and speaks of him as having been party to the suit for the recovery of usury. "It is a general rule of equity that in the application of payments on an indebtedness, where the courts are called upon to make the application, the debtor will be favored, and the payment applied to the debt most onerous to him." Paschall v. Pioneer Sav., etc., Co., 19 Tex. Civ. App. 102.

"The rule is that when neither the debtor nor the creditor directs the application to the payment of any particular debt, the court may appropriate it; and in so doing, the court will usually apply it to the payment of that debt which has the least security, upon the assumption that the debtor would desire to pay all his debts; and this disposition of the credit most nearly accomplishes that result." *Turner v. Where a debtor, owing the creditor two debts, one secured and the other unsecured, makes a payment, and neither party directs an application, the court will apply the payment to the unsecured debt. Andrews v. Kentucky Citizens' Bldg., etc., Assoc., 70 S. W. Rep. 409, 24 Ky. L. Rep. 966.

Oldest Debt. — Goldsmith v. Lewine, 70 Ark. 516; Andrews v. Exchange Bank, 108 Ga. 802; Sleet v. Sleet, 109 La. 302; Littleton v. Harris, 69 Mo. App. 596; Hurd v. Wing, 93 N. Y. App. Div. 62; Rowan v. Chenoweth, 55 W. Va. 325.

But this rule does not apply as against a surety for a particular period. It has been held in such a case that all payments made during the currency of the surety would be applied by the court to the debit items made during the same time. Nashville First Nat. Bank v. National Surety Co., (C. C. A.) 130 Fed. Rep. 401.

Rebutting Presumption. — The presumption that the oldest items of debit in a general account are extinguished by the earliest items of credit is rebuttable by proof. Agricultural Ins. Co. v. Sargeant, 26 Can. Sup. Ct. 29.

It has been held that where the debt draws usurious interest the debtor may at his election direct the application of payments first to the legal interest and second to the principal debt. Russellville Bank v. Coke, (Ky. 1898) 45 S. W. Rep. 867.

If a note drawing lawful interest is extended in consideration of the payment of interest above the lawful rate, it has been held that the payment over the legal rate should be applied to the principal. Quinlan v. Smye, 21 Tex. Civ. App. 156.

Payments made on a debt carrying usurious interest will be applied first to the discharge of the legal interest and then the principal, and no payment will be applied to the usurious interest as long as any of the principal remains. Crenshaw v. Duff, 113 Ky. 912.

Where the purchaser of land gives three notes for the purchase money, all of which are tainted with usury, and two of them have been paid in full more than a year before suit is filed, the usurious interest paid on the first two notes cannot be applied as payments on the third. Carter v. Farthing, 115 Ky. 123.

Where a general payment is made on a note which charges legal interest, but which is a renewal of an old note with usurious interest on said old note included, the payment must be applied to the principal debt and cannot be applied on the usurious interest. *Citizens' Nat. 3. Illinois Constitution. — In People v. Carlock, 198 Ill. 155, the court said: "The power conferred by the constitution upon the general assembly to apportion the state into senatorial districts is not lost by the failure to exercise it at the first session after the completion of any federal census. It is continuous, and may be lawfully exercised at any time after it has constitutionally devolved upon the legislature, until it is performed. * * * Hence it is very clear two valid apportionment acts may be adopted within less than ten years. The legislature, after a federal enumeration, may not exercise the power with which it is clothed until near the time for the next enumeration. After such succeeding enumeration the constitutional power to again make a reapportionment is conferred, and a valid enactment for that purpose may be adopted without any reference to the period of time which has elapsed after the passage of the former act." And see People v. Hutchinson, 172 Ill. 486.

480. 3. Apportionment Must Be According to Population. — People v. Carlock, 198 Ill. 150; Brooks v. State, 162 Ind. 568, citing 2 AM. AND ENG. ENCYC. OF LAW (2d ed.) 480.

481. 2. Compact Territory. — In People v. Rose, 203 Ill. 46, the court said: "The words 'be composed of contiguous counties in as nearly compact form as circumstances will permit,' as used in the constitution, when applied to the subject now under consideration, mean that the counties composing a Supreme Court district must touch each other and be as closely united as circumstances will permit. By reason of the fact that in forming a Supreme Court district the legislature cannot divide a county and are required to take into consideration equality of population as applied to all the districts in the state, it is evident to all that a Supreme Court district cannot easily be created which will be in the form of a square or that of a parallelogram, but that its boundaries must conform to county lines, with all their irregularities. And the fact that the old district is more nearly square or more symmetrical in form than the new district will not justify the court, upon that fact alone, in holding the statute unconstitutional."

487. 1a. "Appreciable Extent." — The court charged the jury that the plaintiffs would be entitled to recover nominal damages if the water had been ponded on their lands "to any appreciable extent;" saying, "Appreciable is defined as capable of being estimated, or large enough to be estimated; perceptible, as an appreciable quantity. We do not think that, in order to recover nominal damages, it is necessary to show an injury that is capable of being estimated, or one that is perceptible in the sense that it is attended with some actual damage." Chaffin v. Fries Mfg., etc., Co., 135 N. Car. 95, affirmed 136 N. Car. 364.

2. Appreciate Danger. — As to the meaning of the word in an instruction in an action by a servant for personal injuries, see Illinois Steel Co. v. Ryska, 200 Ill. 288.

4. Equivalent to Arrest — Rewards. — In Cummings v. Clinton County, 181 Mo. 171, the court said: "It is true that the words used in the statute are 'apprehension and arrest,' while in the reward paper the word apprehension alone is used, but their meaning is substantially the same, and it is generally so understood. One of the definitions of apprehension given in Webster's International Dictionary is: 'To take or seize (a person) by legal process; to arrest; as, to apprehend a criminal.' Arrest is defined in the same work as, 'The taking or apprehending of a person by authority of law; legal restraint; custody.' It will thus be seen that the one is comprehensive of the other."

490. 2. Undertaking of Infant Alone.—See Green v. Thompson, (1899) 2 Q. B. 1.

491. 2. In Georgia it has been held that an indenture binding one of her children, executed by a mother without the father's consent, is a nullity as to the father if he has not lost his parental right, and he may recover custody of the child in a proper proceeding. Wigley v. Mobley, 101 Ga. 124.

3. How Minor's Consent Evidenced.—It has been held in South Carolina that by necessary implication, under the statutes of that state, the signature of the minor is necessary to bind him on an indenture of apprenticeship. Anderson v. Young, 54 S. Car. 388.

495. 1. A Manager of the Business of a Third Person may make a valid indenture by which an apprentice is to be taught and employed in such business. The master need not be the owner of the business in which the apprentice is employed. O'Connor v. Simonson, 24 Pa. Co. Ct. 576.

496. 3. Money Payments May Be Stipulated for in Lieu of Maintenance.—O'Connor v. Simonson, 24 Pa. Co. Ct. 576. See also McDonald v. Sargent, 171 Mass. 492; Pardey v. American Ship Windlass Co., 20 R. I. 147, 78 Am. St. Rep. 844.

But such payments must be adequate for the maintenance of the apprentice, and therefore an indenture providing that the apprentice shall devote ten hours during each working day, or such other number of hours, according to the regulations of the workshop for the time being, for a term of four years, each of said years to consist of three hundred and ten working days of ten hours each, is unreasonable, because the number of working hours might be so reduced that the apprentice would not receive enough for each ordinary day to pay his board and lodging for that day. Mac Gregor

v. Sully, 31 Ont. 535. Compare Green v. Thompson, (1899) 2 Q. B. 1.

4. Absence of Stipulation as to Education.—The absence of a stipulation as to education does not vitiate the indenture where the apprentice is such an age as to warrant the presumption that he has had a sufficient common-school education. O'Connor v. Simonson, 24 Pa. Co. Ct. 576.

497. 5. The Infant May Ratify, when he becomes of age, a contract of indenture not conformable to statute. McDonald v. Sargent, 171 Mass. 492.

Indenture Void as to Apprentice May Be Binding on Parent.—Anderson v. Young, 54 S. Car. 388.

498. 4. An action by a father to recover possession of his son, who had been bound as apprentice under the laws of another state, will not be entertained where conflicting contract rights would arise determinable only by the laws of such other state. Reiss v. Plicque, (Supm. Ct. Spec. T.) 42 Misc. (N. Y.) 350.

500. 3. Term Extending Beyond Majority of Apprentice.—It has been held in Rhode Island that where an infant binds himself to serve for a term extending beyond full age he cannot avoid that contract on coming of age. Pardey v. American Ship Windlass Co., 20 R. I. 147, 78 Am. St. Rep. 844.

In Pennsylvania, under the Act of Sept. 29, 1770, providing that the term of an apprentice shall end at the age of twenty-one as fully as if he were of age at the time of making the indenture, an apprentice is not free at the age of twenty-one, but is merely relieved from the summary proceedings provided by that act for difficulties between master and apprentice. *Flaccus v. 518. See note 1.

520. APPROVE — APPROVER — APPROVEMENT. — See note 1.

— Though an indenture of apprenticeship may be void as such, it does not necessarily follow that the father will be entitled to custody of the child. The welfare of the child is the primary consideration as regards the matter of custody. Anderson v. Young, 54 S. Car. 388.

506. 1. Illness as Excuse for Nonperformance of Services. — Mac Gregor v. Sully, 31 Ont. 535.

507. 1. Consent of Master to Substituted Service. — An apprentice "duly and truly" serves his master if, with the master's consent, he is employed by another person during a portion of the term of apprenticeship. Richardson v. Colne Fishery Co., 77 L. T. N. S. 501.

2. Interference with Relationship. — An injunction will lie to prevent the officers of a labor union interfering with apprentices and enticing them to join the union, where it appears that the apprentices had agreed in their indentures that they would not join a labor union. Flaccus v. Smith, 30 Pittsb. Leg. J. N. S. (Pa.) 129.

Indictment. — In Georgia a statute making it a misdemeanor to induce an articulated seaman or apprentice to leave his vessel while in the waters of that state has been declared constitutional when there was no legislation on the subject by Congress. Handel v. Chaplin, 111 Ga. 800.

510. 4. Abandonment of Service — Right of Master to Compel Apprentice's Return. — Green v. Thompson, (1899) 2 Q. B. 1.

7. Voidable Indenture — Rights of Apprentice. — It is held in Rhode Island that an infant may make a contract to learn a useful trade, and will be bound by it and may not avoid it. Pardey v. American Ship Windlass Co., 20 R. I. 147, 78 Am. St. Rep. 844.

511. 3. Indentures Not Signed by Apprentice. — Anderson v. Young, 54 S. Car. 388.

Appropriation of Water. — Beers v. Sharpe, 44 Oregon 386; Nevada Ditch Co. v. Bennett, 30 Oregon 91. See also the titles IRRIGATION; WATERS AND WATERCOURSES.

"An appropriator (using this term in its full and absolute sense, and to include both a diversion and an application, both of which are essential to the completion of a title to water) acquires a right of property in that which he has appropriated. It is a right in one sense absolute, and in another qualified; at least, qualified as to its rights with respect to third persons." Suffolk Gold Min., etc., Co. v. San Miguel Consol. Min., etc., Co., 9 Colo. App. 407.

518. 1. Kratzer v. Allen, 10 Colo. App. 492.

520. 1. Approval of Executive Officer — Discretion Implied. — Hover v. People, 17 Colo. App. 375; State v. Smith, 23 Mont. 51.

Approval of Tax Roll. — See Board of Education v. Kingfisher, 5 Okla. 82.

Accounts. — State v. Gee, 28 Oregon 100.

An "Approved" Plan is a plan which has been lawfully approved by a local authority, and not one which has merely received their approval in fact, under a statute authorizing a local authority to make by-laws for the regulation of buildings within its jurisdiction. Yabicom v. King, (1899) 1 Q. B. 444.

Approved Service. — Under the Police Act of 1890 providing a pension on retirement for a constable in a police force who has completed twenty-five years approved service, the service must be a continuous service. Garbutt v. Durham Joint Committee, (1904) 2 K. B. 514.

ARBITRATION AND AWARD.

By J. L. McREE.

539. 1. THE SUBMISSION — 1. Defined. — See note 1.

2. Form of Submission at Common Law — a. GENERAL RULE — No Particular Form Necessary. — See notes 2, 3.

540. Effect of Statutes. — See note 1.

541. b. ORAL SUBMISSION — Rule Stated. — See note 2.

543. But a Parol Submission Is Objectionable. — See note 2.

c. BY WRITING NOT UNDER SEAL. — See note 4.

539. 1. A Submission to Arbitration Is a Contract. — District of Columbia v. Bailey, 171 U. S. 161; Brown v. Mize, 119 Ala. 10; Searles v. Lum, 81 Mo. App. 607.

An agreement between the parties to an action pending before a justice of the peace, that a designated person should act as justice of the peace, does not constitute a submission to arbitration. Triplett v. Sims, 89 Mo. App. 326.

An Agreement of Appraisal in a fire insurance policy is a contract. Barnard v. Lancashire Ins. Co., (C. C. A.) 101 Fed. Rep. 36.

Trial by a Voluntary Association an Arbitration. — Bartlett v. L. Bartlett, etc., Co., 116 Wis. 450.

An Agreement to Purchase Land, the price to be determined by the amount of timber thereon, which is to be ascertained by a third person, is not a submission to arbitration. Noble v. Grandin, 125 Mich. 383.

An Arbitration Is a Judicial Proceeding directly affecting the interests of both parties to the submission. Grosvenor v. Flint, 20 R. I. 21.

2. Surplusage. — A stipulation in a common-law submission that judgment shall be rendered on the award is mere surplusage and does not invalidate the submission. Unterrainer v. Seelig, 13 S. Dak. 152.

3. Form Sufficient if Intention to Submit and Abide by Award Appeared. — Fooks v. Lawson, 1 Marv. (Del.) 115; Somerset v. Ott, 207 Pa. St. 539; Unterrainer v. Seelig, 13 S. Dak. 152.

Arbitration Distinguished from Reference. — The Municipal Court of New York has no power to appoint a referee to hear and determine, and therefore where such appointment is made pursuant to an agreement between the parties, the appointment of a referee and all proceedings before him are void; and it is held that the report of such referee cannot be sustained as an award, because to give it such effect would be to enforce an entirely different agreement from that made by the parties, and would give the report of the referee an entirely different force and effect from that contemplated by the agreement which was made. Barber v. Lane, 60 N. Y. App. Div. 87, reversing (Supm. Ct. Tr. T.) 33 Misc. (N. Y.) 60.

540. 1. Effect of Statutes. — District of Columbia v. Bailey, 171 U. S. 161; Shaw v. State, 125 Ala. 80; McClelland v. Hammond, 12 Colo. App. 82; Osborn, etc., Mfg. Co. v. Blanton, 109 Ga. 196; Poggenburg v. Conniff, 67 S.

W. Rep. 845, 23 Ky. L. Rep. 2463; Triplett v. Sims, 89 Mo. App. 326; Burhans v. Union Free School Dist. No. 1, 24 N. Y. App. Div. 432, citing 2 AM. AND ENG. ENCYC. OF LAW (2d ed.) 530 [540], affirmed 165 N. Y. 661; Britton v. Hooper, (Supm. Ct. Spec. T.) 25 Misc. (N. Y.) 388; Hassenpflug v. Rice, 9 Ohio Dec. (Reprint) 206, 11 Cinc. L. Bul. 200, affirmed 45 Ohio St. 377; Graham v. Bates, (Tenn. Ch. 1898) 45 S. W. Rep. 465; Montgomery v. American Cent. Ins. Co., 108 Wis. 146.

541. 2. Oral Submissions. — Shaw v. State, 125 Ala. 80; Gardner v. Newman, 135 Ala. 522; Fooks v. Lawson, 1 Marv. (Del.) 115; Bailey v. District of Columbia, 9 App. Cas. (D. C.) 360, reversed on other points in 171 U. S. 161; Sisson v. Pittman, 113 Ga. 166; Southern Live Stock Ins. Co. v. Benjamin, 113 Ga. 1088; Wilmington Water Power Co. v. Evans, 166 Ill. 548; Georges v. Niess, 70 Minn. 250, citing 2 AM. AND ENG. ENCYC. OF LAW (2d ed.) 541; Searles v. Lum, 81 Mo. App. 607; Heist v. Kohler, 10 Lanc. L. Rev. 140; Barnum v. Backman, 5 Luz. Leg. Reg. (Pa.) 145; Miller v. Miller, 99 Va. 125, 3 Va. Sup. Ct. 34; Graham v. Bates, (Tenn. Ch. 1898) 45 S. W. Rep. 465; Montgomery v. American Cent. Ins. Co., 108 Wis. 146.

Submission of Question of Boundary. — An award on a submission involving a question as to the boundary of land is binding on the parties not as transferring title not previously held, but by way of estoppel on them to dispute the boundary so established. Shaw v. State, 125 Ala. 80.

Price of Land and Not the Title in Dispute. — Hewitt v. Lehigh, etc., R. Co., 57 N. J. Eq. 511.

But if the Title to Land Is in Dispute, the submission must be in writing. See the title VERBAL AGREEMENTS (STATUTE OF FRAUDS).

Submission of Question of Water Rights. — Horne v. Hutchins, 71 N. H. 128.

Oral Submission Notwithstanding Statute. — Graham v. Bates, (Tenn. Ch. 1898) 45 S. W. Rep. 465.

715. c. POWERS AND DUTIES OF THE UMPIRE — (1) General Rule — Must Use His Own Judgment. — See note 2.

687. 3. Taking Opinion on Question of Fact. — Though an arbitrator may lawfully take the opinion of a third person and adopt it as his own, yet if the conclusion which he adopts is not the result of any judgment or mental operation of his own, but a mere yielding to a judgment of the others, his decision is not binding as an award, because the parties are entitled to receive his opinion and not the opinion of some one selected by him. David Harley Co. v. Barnefield, 22 R. I. 267.

693. 3. McLaughlin v. Old Colony R. Co., 166 Mass. 260.

696. 4. Where Time Within Which Award Is to Be Made Is Specified. — Anderson v. Miller, 108 Ala. 171; Jordan v. Lobe, 34 Wash. 48, citing 2 AM. AND ENG. ENCYC. OF LAW (2d ed.) 696.

Day for Award Fixed in Submission. — See Eifert v. Wolf, (Ky. 1897) 41 S. W. Rep. 6, holding that a short delay in returning the award, under a submission of a pending suit where the award was to be made the judgment of the court, was not sufficient grounds on which to reverse the judgment on the award.

707. 3. No Liability for Want of Skill. — Chambers v. Goldthorpe, (1901) 1 K. B. 624.

711. 1. Whether Award Must Show that Arbitrators Could Not Agree. — In Manufacturers, etc., F. Ins. Co. v. Mullen, 48 Neb. 620, it was held that where the submission provided for two arbitrators by whom an umpire was to be chosen to act on matters of difference between the arbitrators, but did not authorize one arbitrator and such umpire to make an award, an award signed by one arbitrator and the umpire was invalid where it did not show any difference between the two arbitrators.

When the Arbitrators Agree in Part they should refer to the umpire only the points of difference between them, the terms of the submission so directing. Providence Washington Ins. Co. v. Board of Education, 49 W. Va. 379.

714. 3. Appointment Before Disagreement. — The appointment of the umpire before the arbitrators have disagreed renders the proceeding void. Christenson v. Carleton, 69 Vt. 91.

815. I. DEFINITION AND NATURE. — See note 1.

[“Plans” Defined. — See note 1*a*.]

[Taxation and License. — See note 1*b*.]

816. Must Be Disinterested. — See note 1.

II. SUBMISSION OF PLANS — 1. Submission and Acceptance — No Stipulation as to Approval. — See note 4.

818. III. SKILL AND CARE REQUIRED — 1. Defective Plans. — See note 5.

819. Presumption. — See note 1.

815. 1. Term Defined. — Illinois State Board, etc. v. People, 93 Ill. App. 436, citing 2 AM. AND ENG. ENCYC. OF LAW (2d ed.) 815; Coombs v. Beede, 89 Me. 187, 56 Am. St. Rep. 406; Wilson v. Greenville, 65 S. Car. 426, citing 2 AM. AND ENG. ENCYC. OF LAW (2d ed.) 815.

1*a*. “Plans” Defined. — Plans include blue-prints, and the word “plans” does not necessarily mean the original drawings. School Dist. v. Fiske, 61 Neb. 3.

1*b*. Taxation and License. — A nonresident architect who comes periodically to inspect and superintend a building comes within the taxation laws and is subject to taxation and must procure a license. Wilson v. Greenville, 65 S. Car. 426.

Under an act to regulate the practice of architecture the state board of architects having arbitrarily refused to grant the necessary license certificate to the plaintiff, it was held that the plaintiff, having passed the examinations and furnished the necessary affidavits, could not be denied his certificate. Cardiff v. New Jersey State Board of Architects, 69 N. J. L. 172.

816. 1. Employment by Contractor. — Where an architect accepts employment from a contractor no claim for extra work can be sustained against the owner. Day v. Pickens County, 53 S. Car. 46, citing 2 AM. AND ENG. ENCYC. OF LAW (2d ed.) 816.

Architect Subsequently Becoming Contractor. — Where an architect draws plans and specifications and subsequently becomes the contractor to do the building he cannot say a defect is one of plans and not of building, for he is responsible for both plans and construction. Louisiana Molasses Co. v. Le Sassier, 52 La. Ann. 2070.

4. No Agreement as to Approval of Plans Submitted. — The fact that the owner changes his mind and does not build does not, in the absence of special agreement, excuse him from paying for the plans. Sully v. Pratt, 106 La. 601, citing 2 AM. AND ENG. ENCYC. OF LAW (2d ed.) 816.

Ownership of Plans. — An architect has no right of property in plans and specifications prepared by him for a client after they have been published, e. g., by filing them with the building department of a city, and therefore he has no cause of action against one who copies the plans and specifications so filed for the purpose of erecting a building in accordance with them. Wright v. Eisle, 86 N. Y. App. Div. 356.

Estimate of Cost. — Where an architect is employed to draw plans and estimate the cost of a building he cannot collect a fee where the approximate cost far exceeds his estimate. Feltham v. Sharp, 99 Ga. 260.

Architect Entitled to Recover, Though Building Not Constructed. — Hutchinson v. Conway, 34 Nova Scotia 554.

No Lien Attaches for Unused Plans. — Where an architect made plans for a building to be erected on a certain lot, his compensation being fixed at two and a half per cent. “on the cost of the building,” no lien in favor of the architect can attach under the Mechanics’ Lien Law of Illinois, where the owner abandons his intention of building. Freeman v. Rinaker, 185 Ill. 172.

818. 5. Representations of Requisite Skill. — Chapel v. Clark, 117 Mich. 640, citing 2 AM. AND ENG. ENCYC. OF LAW (2d ed.) 818.

819. 1. A Negligent or Fraudulent Contract may disentitle an architect to compensation for his services—as where he negligently or fraudulently permits a contractor to do poor work or furnish inferior materials. Lasher v. Colton, 80 Ill. App. 75.

819. 2. Care in Superintendence — Must Exercise Reasonable Care and Diligence. — See note 3.

820. See note 1.

3. Question of Fact — Burden of Proof. — See note 3.

IV. POWERS OF ARCHITECT — 1. In General — Alterations — Extra Work. — See note 5.

2. Delegation of Authority — See note 4.

823. VII. REMUNERATION OF ARCHITECT — 1. Rate of Compensation — Fixed Commission. — See note 1.

819. 3. Reasonable Care and Skill Required. — Chapel v. Clark, 117 Mich. 640, citing 2 AM. AND ENG. ENCYC. OF LAW (2d ed.) 818; Straus v. Buchman, 96 N. Y. App. Div. 270, citing 2 AM. AND ENG. ENCYC. OF LAW (2d ed.) 819; Johnson v. Wanamaker, 17 Pa. Super. Ct. 301.

Responsibility resting on an architect for reasonable skill is the same as on a lawyer or doctor who holds himself out to the public service. The undertaking on the part of the architect implies a reasonable skill and ability. Coombs v. Beede, 89 Me. 187, 56 Am. St. Rep. 406.

In making his estimates of the cost of a building and of the time that will be required to construct it, an architect is only required to use a reasonable degree of care and skill, and if he does this, he is not liable for any loss caused by error in his estimates. Grant v. Dupont, 8 British Columbia 7, affirmed 8 British Columbia 223.

Satisfaction Not Warranted. — Coombs v. Beede, 89 Me. 187, 56 Am. St. Rep. 406.

Partially Constructed Building. — An architect employed to complete and superintend the construction of a partially completed building must use reasonable care to see that the timbers already placed in the building were properly secured and fastened. Straus v. Buchman, 96 N. Y. App. Div. 270.

820. 1. Chapel v. Clark, 117 Mich. 640; Ashland Lime, etc., Co. v. Shores, 105 Wis. 122.

St. 484; Day v. Pickens County, 53 S. Car. 47, citing 2 AM. AND ENG. ENCYC. OF LAW (2d ed.) 820; J. C. Wagner Co. v. Cawker, 112 Wis. 532.

Alterations with Consent of Owner. — Where the architect orders alterations in the presence of the owner the architect is presumed to have the authority to so order, although the contract provides that any orders for alterations must be made in writing between the parties. Perry

v. Levenson, 82 N. Y. App. Div. 94, affirmed (N. Y. 1904) 70 N. E. Rep. 1104.

6. Accepting Different Class of Work. — Mallard v. Moody, 105 Ga. 400, quoting 2 AM. AND ENG. ENCYC. OF LAW (2d ed.) 820. But see Smith v. Farmers' Trust Co., 97 Iowa 117.

Failure to Condemn Unfit Material. — Failure by the architect to condemn unfit materials constitutes a waiver of a provision in the contract calling for fit materials. Siebert v. Roth, 118 Wis. 250.

821. 3. Subcontracts. — Watts v. Metcalf, 66 S. W. Rep. 824, 23 Ky. L. Rep. 2189.

6. Employer May Constitute Architect His General Agent for All Purposes. — Langley v. Rouss, 85 N. Y. App. Div. 27.

Architect the General Agent Within the Scope of His Authority. — Vanderhoof v. Shell, 42 Oregon 578; Brin v. McGregor, (Tex. Civ. App. 1898) 45 S. W. Rep. 923; Kilgore v. North West Texas Baptist Educational Soc., 89 Tex. 465.

Estoppel. — An architect employed by a state board to construct a building is so far the agent of the board as to create an estoppel in its favor where the contractor made certain statements regarding the insurance to the architect. Fansen v. Regents of Education, (C. C. A.) 133 Fed. Rep. 24.

7. An architect is an agent of the owner for the purposes of the contract only. Richard v. Clark, (Supm. Ct. App. T.) 43 Misc. (N. Y.) 622.

822. 1. Where by contract the architect is declared to be "the agent of the owner" he has authority to bind the owner for extras and alterations. Langley v. Rouss, 85 N. Y. App. Div. 27.

2. Weggner v. Greenstine, 114 Mich. 310.

4. Architect Delegating Authority. — Monahan v. Fitzgerald, 164 Ill. 525.

An architect may delegate his authority by consent of the parties. Weatherhogg v. Jasper County, 158 Ind. 14.

Delegation to Partner. — An architect's partner, whose name is, however, not in the firm name, who is in charge of the work, and is so recognized by both parties, can bind both parties by signing an arbitration. Wymard v. Deeds, 21 Pa. Super. Ct. 332.

of an architect's compensation. Weatherhogg v. Jasper County, 158 Ind. 14.

Extra Compensation.—A municipal corporation employing an architect annually has authority to allow him an extra compensation on a percentage basis for a new school building not contemplated at the time of the architect's appointment to office. Carling v. Jersey City, (N. J. 1904) 58 Atl. Rep. 395.

Additional work over and above the original contract, entailed by altered plans, entitles the architect to percentage compensation on the additions. Weatherhogg v. Jasper County, 155 Ind. 14.

No Evidence of Fraud.—The fact that the architect received five per cent. of the total cost does not warrant any inference of fraud or inflation of cost. Kelly v. Public Schools, 110 Mich. 529.

Abandonment of Contract.—Where a contract called for two and one-half per cent. of the cost of the building, and the owner abandons the intention of building, there is no way of fixing the amount due on a percentage plan, and hence no lien can attach. Freeman v. Rinaker, 185 Ill. 172.

823. 3. Usage Among Architects.—Sully v. Pratt, 106 La. 601.

5. Employer Liable for Architect's Fees.—An honest mistake or miscalculation on the part of the architect, or dissatisfaction with results on the part of the employer, does not excuse the employer from paying the architect's fees. Coombs v. Beede, 89 Me. 187, 56 Am. St. Rep. 406.

824. 1. Lien in Favor of Architects.—Freeman v. Rinaker, 185 Ill. 172, citing 2 AM. AND ENG. ENCYC. OF LAW (2d ed.) 824; Henry, etc., Co. v. Halter, 58 Neb. 685; Field v. Consolidated Mineral Water Co., 25 R. I. 319.

In Massachusetts the architect is allowed a lien for work and labor done, but not for his "mental conception." Mitchell v. Packard, 168 Mass. 467, 60 Am. St. Rep. 404.

4. Lien Allowed on Lot Where Architect Did Not Superintend Building.—Freeman v. Rinaker, 185 Ill. 172.

Lien for Plans.—Johnson v. McClure, 10 N. Mex. 506.

826. 2a. "Arid Portions of the State."—In a suit to enjoin the use of the waters of a creek for irrigation purposes an instruction that "by arid portions of the state is meant those portions of the state where rainfall is insufficient for agricultural purposes, and irrigation therefore necessary. Where the rainfall is sufficient for agricultural purposes, that portion is not within the arid region, even though irrigation might or would increase the productiveness of the soil there," was held to be correct. Hall v. Carter, (Tex. Civ. App. 1903) 77 S. W. Rep. 19. See also the title IRRIGATION.

3. Arising Out of Employment.—A ticket collector got on the footboard of a train, after it had started, not for any object of his employment, but for his own pleasure. In getting off he was injured. It was held that the accident was not one "arising out of" his employment within section 1 of the Workmen's Compensation Act, 1897, and that compensation was not recoverable under the Act. Smith v. Lancashire, etc., R. Co., (1899) 1 Q. B. 141.

Accrue in the Sense of Arise.—See Union Cent. L. Ins. Co. v. Skipper, (C. C. A.) 115 Fed. Rep. 69.

827. 1. Armed with Dangerous Weapon — Assault.—See State v. Lynch, 88 Me. 195.

829. 4a. In Louisiana.—In Randolph v. Sentilles, 110 La. 419, the court said: "It not unfrequently happens in our state that the word arpent is used when 'acre' is meant; whereas there is a considerable difference between the two, the arpent being of one hundred and ninety-two feet, and the acre of two hundred and nine and a fraction."

5. State v. Hunter, 181 Mo. 316; State v. Brock, 61 S. Car. 144, quoting 2 AM. AND ENG. ENCYC. OF LAW (2d ed.) 829.

Parts of Arraignment.—State v. De Wolfe, 29 Mont. 415; State v. Brock, 61 S. Car. 144.

830. 1. In the Sense of Agreement.—"While it is true that the word arrangement, when taken by itself, has a different signification from the word 'contract' or 'agreement,' yet, when taken in connection with the other allegations in this complaint, it could mean nothing less than that by some mutual agreement between the parties the railroad company was to transport the employees of the copartnership." Boyle v. Great Northern R. Co., 13 Wash. 383.

Resistance Excusable — Instances. — See Pennington v. Com., (Ky. 1899) 51 S. W. Rep. 818; Moore v. State, 40 Tex. Crim. 439.

Verbal Notice. — For the officer, when near the accused, to call to him and tell him he has a warrant for his arrest is sufficient notice. Williams v. State, 70 Ark. 393. See also State v. Taylor, 70 Vt. 1, 67 Am. St. Rep. 648.

What Resistance Justified. — The absence of notice of the officer's authority has been held to justify the accused in using whatever force he deems necessary in resisting, Montgomery v. State, 43 Tex. Crim. 304; but not to justify the killing of the officer, Appleton v. State, 61 Ark. 590.

Notice Unnecessary When Resistance Apprehended. — It has been held that an officer whose duty it is to make an arrest is not required to exhibit his warrant before making the arrest, nor even to notify the accused of his purpose if he has reason to believe that the accused is armed and will make a desperate resistance. State v. Miller, 5 Ohio Dec. 703, 7 Ohio N. P. 458, affirmed 7 Ohio Cir. Ct. 552, 13 Ohio Cir. Ct. 67.

Notice of Intent to Arrest Is Not Necessary when the party is actually engaged in resisting arrest. State v. Phillips, 118 Iowa 660.

Right to Inspect Warrant. — An accused has no right to an inspection of the warrant until he has placed himself peaceably in the custody of the officer. State v. Miller, 5 Ohio Dec. 703, 7 Ohio N. P. 458.

Apprehension in the Commission — Fresh Pursuit. — Notice of authority is not necessary where a party is apprehended on a fresh pursuit. State v. Evans, 161 Mo. 95, 84 Am. St. Rep. 669; State v. Craft, 164 Mo. 631.

Where Officer's Authority and Intent Are Known. — When the person on whom an attempt to arrest is made knows the officer and that the officer is armed with a warrant he is not authorized to resist. Appleton v. State, 61 Ark. 590.

2. The Arrest of a Person under a Wrong Name. — Clark v. Winn, 19 Tex. Civ. App. 223; Newburn v. Durham, 10 Tex. Civ. App. 655. See also Harris v. McReynolds, 10 Colo. App. 532.

Killing in Arresting Wrong Person. — A sheriff is liable for the act of his deputy who kills while attempting to arrest a person other than the one named in the warrant. Johnson v. Williams, 111 Ky. 289, 98 Am. St. Rep. 416.

Middle Name and Initials. — The omission of a middle name from a warrant is immaterial; and the initial of the first name is sufficient, especially where the accused is commonly designated and known by that initial. Cox v. Durham, (C. C. A.) 128 Fed. Rep. 870. So designation by initials was held to be sufficient to justify arrest in Spear v. State, 120 Ala. 351; State v. Miller, 7 Ohio Cir. Dec. 552, 13 Ohio Cir. Ct. 67. See also the title NAME; and see the title WARRANTS, 22 ENCYC. OF PL. AND PR. 1071.

Idem Sonans. — Where a warrant calling for the arrest of "Sawyer" is executed against "Sawyers" the arrest is valid, as the names are idem sonans. Ex p. Sawyers, (Tex. Crim. 1898) 48 S. W. Rep. 512.

The Officer Is Liable for all excessive force over and above what is necessary. State v. Hancock, 73 Mo. App. 19.

Discretion of Officer. — The law does not require an officer in making an arrest to gauge the amount of force necessary to a nicety and with absolute precision, but he may use such force as seems to him, under the surrounding circumstances, to be reasonably necessary to carry out his purpose. State v. Rose, 142 Mo. 418.

Means Other than Force. — It is not necessary that the officer shall have exhausted all other means, such as calling on third parties for aid, before he may use force to accomplish the arrest. Gillespie v. State, 69 Ark. 573.

Probable Cause in Malicious Prosecution as Test of Suspicion. — Kirk v. Garrett, 84 Md. 383, quoting 2 AM. AND ENG. ENCYC. OF LAW (2d ed.) 871, note.

Reasonable Grounds and Probable Cause Defined.

— Such a case must be presented as would induce a discreet, prudent, sober, sensible person to act upon it. Fry v. Kaessner, 48 Neb. 133.

Arrest under Void Warrant. — It has been held that where an officer arrests under a warrant from another county, not signed by a magistrate in his own county, and therefore void, the arrest may be treated as a valid arrest without a warrant, where the void warrant shows that the complaint had been made on reasonable grounds. Ex p. Smotherman, 140 Ala. 168. But see to contrary effect Elwell v. Reynolds, 6 Kan. App. 545.

A Railroad Policeman Is Not a Peace Officer unless he has taken the oath of office under the acts relating to special policemen. Missouri, etc., R. Co. v. Warner, 19 Tex. Civ. App. 463.

Mere Suspicion. — An officer is not justified in making an arrest on the mere suspicion of a third party, and an officer so making an arrest is liable for false arrest. Karner v. Stump, 12 Tex. Civ. App. 460.

Ignorance of Law on Part of Officer. — The officer is not justified by the fact that he thought the crime committed was in law a felony, when in fact it was a misdemeanor. Begley v. Com., 60 S. W. Rep. 847, 22 Ky. L. Rep. 1546.

872. 1. Officer Must Use Diligence to Avoid Mistakes. — Chandler v. Rutherford, (C. C. A.) 101 Fed. Rep. 774; Wells v. Johnston, 52 La. Ann. 713.

Rule of Conduct for Officer Acting Without Warrant. — An officer acting without a warrant must first state his official character and the reason for making the arrest, unless the person about to be arrested is in the actual commission of the offense or in actual flight at the time thereof. State v. Gay, 18 Mont. 51; State v. Appleton, (Kan. 1904) 78 Pac. Rep. 445.

When Notice Not Necessary. — No notice of the officer's intent to arrest is necessary to be given when the party is actually engaged in resistance or in flight. State v. Phillips, 118 Iowa 660.

Amount of Force Permissible. — An officer arresting without warrant on suspicion of felony is authorized to use such force only as is allowable in other cases not felonious, unless the offense was in fact a felony. If he uses greater force, he does so at his peril, and is liable if it turns out that he was mistaken. Petrie v. Cartwright, 114 Ky. 103, 102 Am. St. Rep. 274.

Purpose of Officer. — Although a larceny was committed and the right to arrest for the purpose of taking the prisoner before a magistrate according to law existed, the officer is liable where he makes the arrest for the sole purpose of forcing the accused to return the stolen money. Bergeron v. Peyton, 106 Wis. 377, 80 Am. St. Rep. 33.

Rule Does Not Apply to Mere Threat to Commit Felony. — Allen v. State, (Tex. Crim. 1902) 66 S. W. Rep. 671.

Arrest of One Charged with Felony, but Guilty of Misdemeanor. — Where an arrest was made for a felony and the accused was, unknown to the officers at the time of the arrest, guilty of a misdemeanor by having a concealed weapon, the officer cannot justify the illegal arrest, there having been no felony or reasonable ground of suspicion, on the ground that the prisoner, while innocent of a felony, was actually guilty of a misdemeanor. Snead v. Bonnoil, 49 N. Y. App. Div. 330.

3. Recapture. — McQueen v. State, 130 Ala. 136; State v. Craft, 164 Mo. 631; State v. Shaw, 73 Vt. 149.

So the Retaking of One Unlawfully Released from Jail may be accomplished without a warrant, either by an officer or by a private person. In re Troy, 67 Kan. 186.

No Distinction Between Felony and Misdemeanor in Recapture. — Where a convict has escaped it is immaterial whether he was convicted of misdemeanor or of felony; the same rule of recapture without a warrant applies in both cases. Willford v. State, 121 Ga. 173.

Ten Years After the Escape of a convict the superintendent of convicts cannot make an arrest of the convict without a warrant. State v. Stancill, 128 N. Car. 606.

Charge of Accomplice. — A bare and uncorroborated statement by one confessing himself guilty of a felony, without any facts or circumstances affording reasonable ground for suspicion, is not sufficient to justify an officer in making an arrest of another on the charge that he was also a principal. Wills v. Jordan, 20 R. I. 630.

Liability of Officer. — If the officer acts on insufficient information he does so at his peril. State v. Phillips, 118 Iowa 660.

Mere Suspicion does not justify an officer in arresting on information of third persons, and the person who so procures the arrest is liable. Karner v. Stump, 12 Tex. Civ. App. 460.

The arrest must be on information of a third person based on some knowledge of facts. Wells v. Johnston, 52 La. Ann. 713.

What Amounts to a Request to Arrest. — The mere fact that a citizen has called upon an officer to search for and recover his lost or stolen property will not justify the inference that he "requested or directed" the arrest subsequently made. Joske v. Irvine, 91 Tex. 574.

On Offer of Reward. — A publication by a private person in a newspaper of an offer of a reward for the arrest of one whom he accuses of a crime is not of itself reasonable or sufficient ground to justify an arrest by an officer without a warrant. State v. Evans, 83 Mo. App. 301.

Assault Committed on Officer. — A police officer who is assaulted while trying to preserve the peace can make an arrest without a warrant for the assault committed on himself. Riggs v. Com., (Ky. 1895) 33 S. W. Rep. 413.

Burden of Proof on Officer. — When the legality of the arrest is questioned the burden of proof is on the officer; and the officer also has the burden of proof to show reasonable grounds in all cases. McCaffrey v. Thomas, 4 Penn. (Del.) 437; Marshall v. Cleaver, 4 Penn. (Del.) 450; White v. State, 99 Ga. 16; Franklin v. Amerson, 118 Ga. 860; Edger v. Burke, 96 Md. 715; Com. v. Hughes, 183 Mass. 221; Jackson v. Knowlton, 173 Mass. 97.

By Deputy Not Properly Appointed. — As the law gives this authority to peace officers, it is necessary, in order to justify an arrest by a deputy, to show his proper authority and appointment. Buckles v. Com., 113 Ky. 795.

Presumption. — Where there is no statement whether the arrest was with or without a warrant, the presumption is that a public officer did his duty and that he either had a warrant or that there was a criminal offense committed in his presence. Davis v. Pacific Telephone, etc., Co., 127 Cal. 317.

Card Playing. — Card playing is not an offense for which an arrest is authorized without a warrant, for the authority to arrest without a warrant is limited to felonies and breaches of the peace committed in the view of the officer. Lee v. State, (Tex. Crim. 1903) 74 S. W. Rep. 28.

Counterfeiting. — A government secret service agent has a right to arrest without a warrant where he finds one secreting counterfeit coin to prevent the detection and conviction of a counterfeiter for whom he has a warrant. U. S. v. Fuellhart, 106 Fed. Rep. 911.

Who Are Peace Officers. — Justices of the peace, sheriffs, coroners, constables, watchmen, and all who come to their aid and assistance are peace officers, and a policeman is by statute equivalent to a watchman. McDuffie v. State, 121 Ga. 580; State v. Seery, 95 Iowa 652; Helm v. Com., 81 S. W. Rep. 270, 26 Ky. L. Rep. 165; State v. Evans, 161 Mo. 95, 84 Am. St. Rep. 669; State v. Stancill, 128 N. App. 463; San Antonio, etc., R. Co. v. Griffin, 20 Tex. Civ. App. 91.

Vermont. — State v. Doherty, 72 Vt. 381, 82 Am. St. Rep. 951.

Wisconsin. — State v. Newman, 96 Wis. 258.

Municipal Ordinances. — Where a borough ordinance provides that peddlers shall procure a license, and that any person found violating the ordinance shall be arrested with or without a warrant, an arrest made without a warrant and not on view is illegal. Plymouth v. Williams, 8 Kulp (Pa.) 167.

The fact that an ordinance is subsequently held to be unconstitutional and void does not render the officer who made an arrest under it liable in damages. Tillman v. Beard, 121 Mich. 475.

Concealed Weapons. — In some states it is held that an officer may not arrest, either on his own knowledge or on information, without a warrant, on the bare charge of carrying concealed weapons, unless there is an actual or threatened breach of the peace. Roberson v. State, 43 Fla. 156; Pickett v. State, 99 Ga. 12, 59 Am. St. Rep. 226; Hughes v. Com., (Ky. 1897) 41 S. W. Rep. 294. Compare Jones v. Anniston, 138 Ala. 199; State v. Laudano, 74 Conn. 638; Montgomery v. State, 43 Tex. Crim. 304; Manger v. State, (Tex. Crim. 1902) 69 S. W. Rep. 145; Claiborne v. Chesapeake, etc., R. Co., 46 W. Va. 363.

Construction of Statute. — The Texas statute giving to a peace officer authority to arrest a person where he knows that person to have concealed weapons does not authorize a magistrate to require the peace officer to arrest a person known to the magistrate, but not to the peace officer, to have concealed weapons. Morawietz v. State, (Tex. Crim. 1904) 80 S. W. Rep. 997.

"In the Presence Of," in the statutes, means in the sight of, or requires that the act be done in such a manner that the officer can detect it by sight or hearing as the act of the accused. It does not apply to a case where he cannot detect the act, but has merely a suspicion. Hughes v. Com., (Ky. 1897) 41 S. W. Rep. 294.

Military Offenses. — The right conferred by the statutes applies to breaches of the civil law and not to those against military regulations. Kendall v. Scheve, 2 Ohio Cir. Dec. 303.

Miscellaneous Grounds of Arrest. — For cases upholding the right of an officer to arrest without a warrant for various violations of statutes in the officer's presence, see Gillespie v. State, 69 Ark. 573 (being drunk, swearing, and making threats); White v. State, 99 Ga. 16 (disturbing military parade); State v. Appleton, (Kan. 1904) 78 Pac. Rep. 445 (using vile epithets and cursing); Quinn v. Com., 63 S. W. Rep. 792, 23 Ky. L. Rep. 1302 (selling beer without a license); Com. v. Robinson, (Ky. 1905) 84 S. W. Rep. 319 (being drunk and disorderly); State v. Boyd, 108 Mo. App. 518 (right to arrest inmates and habites of bawdy house); Reynolds v. Board of Education, 33 N. Y. App. Div. 88 (truancy); Jones v. Foster, 43 N. Y. App. Div. 33 (peddling without license); People v. Angie, 74 N. Y. App. Div. 539 (child frequenting wine room or saloon); People v. Hochstim, 76 N. Y. App. Div. 25, (voting or attempting to vote illegally); State v. Pate, 5 Ohio Dec. 732, 7 Ohio N. P. 543 (right to arrest tramp carrying firearms); Lamb v. Stone, 95 Wis. 254 (shooting game at night); Hawkins v. Lutton, 95 Wis. 492, 60 Am. St. Rep. 131 (right to enter disorderly houses and arrest without warrant where disturbance audible outside).

877. 1. Interval of Time After Commission of Offense. — Marshall v. Cleaver, 4 Penn. (Del.) 450; Fuller v. Redding, (Supm. Ct. Spec. T.) 16 Misc. (N. Y.) 634; Percival v. Bailey, 70 S. Car. 72.

In Com. v. Cosler, 8 Kulp (Pa.) 97, it was held that a policeman may arrest without a warrant for a breach of the peace where he is present or where it is evident that a breach was committed immediately before his presence.

But in Stittgen v. Rundle, 99 Wis. 80, thirty minutes was held to be too great a lapse of time.

Antonio, etc., R. Co., (Tex. Civ. App. 1897) 42

S. W. Rep. 319.

4. No Warrant After Arrest Is Necessary. —

When the accused is lawfully arrested without a warrant it is unnecessary to issue a warrant.

People v. Mulkins, (County Ct.) 25 Misc. (N.

Y.) 599; Jones v. Anniston, 138 Ala. 199. Com-

St. Rep. 738.

By Statute authority is sometimes given to make arrests and retain custody of the prisoner

"until a warrant can be obtained." Weser v.

Welty, 18 Ind. App. 664; Harness v. Steele, 159

Ind. 286; Kirk v. Garrett, 84 Md. 383; Fry v.

Kaessner, 48 Neb. 133. Thus, in Nebraska, a warrant is required after arrest by a private person on suspicion of petit larceny. Kyner

App. 463.

Disposition of Escaped Convict. — An officer arresting an escaped convict, without a warrant, must within a reasonable time return him to his proper keepers. McQueen v. State, 130

Ala. 136.

Without Unreasonable Delay. — It is the duty of the officer to take the party arrested before a magistrate without unreasonable delay. Brish

v. Carter, 98 Md. 445; Edger v. Burke, 96 Md.

715; Tobin v. Bell, 73 N. Y. App. Div. 41;

Snead v. Bonnoil, 49 N. Y. App. Div. 330;

Pennsylvania R. Co., 209 Pa. St. 452; Richard- son v. Dybedahl, 14 S. Dak. 126.

What Is Unreasonable Delay. — Where a prisoner is arrested at four o'clock A. M., and an opportunity is given to him to go before a magistrate at nine o'clock A. M., he cannot com-

21 Tex. Civ. App. 326.

From December 31 to the evening of January

2 has been held to be an unreasonable delay in carrying the prisoner before a magistrate. Linen

v. Banfield, 114 Mich. 93.

In Illinois the statute provides that one arrested after four o'clock without a warrant may be held over night, or over Sunday, to await the appearance before a magistrate.

5. Killing While Attempting an Illegal Arrest. — Sossamon v. Cruise, 133 N. Car. 470.

In an attempt to arrest without a warrant, on suspicion of a felony, the killing of a fleeing man cannot be justified without proof of his guilt. Com. v. Greer, 20 Pa. Co. Ct. 535.

906. 1. Prisoner Arrested Lawfully Should Submit. — Petit v. Colmery, 4 Penn. (Del.) 266; State v. Dennis, 2 Marv. (Del.) 433; Brooks v. State, 114 Ga. 6; State v. Smith, (Iowa 1904) 101 N. W. Rep. 110; State v. Hancock, 73 Mo. App. 19; State v. Taylor, 70 Vt. 1, 67 Am. St. Rep. 648.

Liability of Officer for Oppressive Proceedings. — Stephens v. Com., (Ky. 1898) 47 S. W. Rep. 229; Towle v. Mattheus, 130 Cal. 574.

No Right to Resist Though Innocent. — One who is being arrested by an officer with a valid warrant has no right to assault the officer even though he is innocent of the crime charged, nor does the fact that the arresting officer had absolute knowledge of the accused's innocence justify an assault. Tellefsen v. Fee, 168 Mass. 188, 60 Am. St. Rep. 379.

No Right to Resist Special Officer. — One who resists an officer is not excused on the ground that the officer was a special officer appointed for the occasion only. Parish v. State, 130 Ala. 92.

What Amounts to Resistance. — Drawing a pistol and threatening to use it amounts to resistance. State v. Seery, 95 Iowa 652. And pointing a gun at the officer constitutes resistance whether the gun was loaded or unloaded.

State v. Russell, (Iowa 1898) 76 N. W. Rep. 653. See generally the title OBSTRUCTING JUSTICE.

Super. Ct. 512, citing 2 AM. AND ENG. ENCYC. OF LAW (2d ed.) 906. See also supra, this title, 847. 1. et seq.

Arrest Must Be Peaceable if Possible, by Force if Necessary. — State v. Phillips, (Iowa 1902) 89 N. W. Rep. 1092; Allen v. State, (Tex. Crim. 1902) 66 S. W. Rep. 671.

As to the Amount of Force Allowable in case of resistance see Gillespie v. State, 69 Ark. 573; State v. Smith, (Iowa 1904) 101 N. W. Rep. 110; Finnell v. Bohannon, (Ky. 1898) 44 S. W. Rep. 94; Territory v. McGinnis, 10 N. Mex. 269; State v. Pate, 5 Ohio Dec. 732, 7 Ohio N. P. 543; Moore v. State, 40 Tex. Crim. 439; Williams v. State, 41 Tex. Crim. 365. And see supra, this title, 847. 2. et seq.

Surety on Bail Bond. — The surety arresting his principal to deliver him to the jailer in order to relieve himself under a bail bond may use all necessary force, and he is not required to "avoid or avert the danger" in case of resistance. Finney v. Com., (Ky. 1904) 82 S. W. Rep. 636.

Resisting Arrest Defined. — Resisting arrest does not always consist in the use of physical force. A person may resist arrest by fleeing from an officer attempting to arrest him. People v. Brooks, 131 Cal. 311.

3. See North Carolina v. Gosnell, 74 Fed. Rep. 734; Golibart v. Sullivan, 30 Ind. App. 428; State v. Phillips, 119 Iowa 655; Sossamon v. Cruise, 133 N. Car. 470. Compare State v. Smith, (Iowa 1904) 101 N. W. Rep. 110. See generally supra, this title, 847. 1. et seq.

Effect of Illegality of Arrest. — In People v. Hochstim, (Supm. Ct. Spec. T.) 36 Misc. (N. Y.) 562, it was held that there can be no "standing in the way of an officer" or "obstructing justice" where the arrest the officer is attempting to make is other than a lawful one. But in Rhode Island it has been held that it is no defense to an indictment against a third person for obstructing an officer that the arrest which the officer was attempting was illegal. State v. Vidalla, 24 R. I. 186.

Submission to Unlawful Arrest. — Submission and appearance before the justice constitute no waiver where they are compelled by force. Church v. Pearne, 75 Conn. 350.

Presumption Is Against Waiver. — In the absence of an affirmative statement or action, the presumption is that a person wrongfully arrested and illegally held did not consent to the wrong or waive the illegality. In re Baum, 61 Kan. 117.

Submission Outside Jurisdiction of Officer. — Where a sheriff with a warrant meets the accused outside the state, and the accused voluntarily surrenders and submits to arrest, the officer using neither force, deception, nor threats, the extradition papers and defects of jurisdiction are waived. State v. Garrett, 57 Kan. 132.

Any defects in the affidavit must be raised on habeas corpus before the accused is extradited, for they cannot be relied on after the accused is brought to trial in the jurisdiction where the crime was committed. Ex p. Baker, 43 Tex. Crim. 281.

Entering into a Recognizance for appearance at the next session of court has been held to waive all irregularities and defects of the warrant. State v. Stredder, 3 Kan. App. 631; Com. v. Blair County Jail Warden, 8 Pa. Dist. 159; Com. v. Baird, 21 Pa. Co. Ct. 488.

But Where the Arrest Was Void because made on Sunday, in a civil case, it was held that filing a bond for appearance, which act was also performed on Sunday, did not operate as a waiver. Valentine v. Roberts, 1 Alaska 536.

Charring Constitutes a Burning.—See note 3.

924. c. MEANS BY WHICH FIRE IS APPLIED—Object to Which Fire Is Applied.—See note 1.

917. 1. Definition.—State v. Snellgrove, 71 Ark. 101, citing 2 AM. AND ENG. ENCYC. OF LAW (2d ed.) 917; Lipschitz v. People, 25 Colo. 265, citing 2 AM. AND ENG. ENCYC. OF LAW (2d ed.) 917; Boone v. State, (Miss. 1903) 33 So. Rep. 172.

918. 1. Wilful and Malicious Intent Essential.—Morris v. State, 124 Ala. 47, citing 2 AM. AND ENG. ENCYC. OF LAW (2d ed.) 918; State v. Hand, 1 Marv. (Del.) 545; Howard v. State, 109 Ga. 137; State v. Millmeier, 102 Iowa 692; Boone v. State, (Miss. 1903) 33 So. Rep. 172 (holding that there was fatal error in the omission of the word “maliciously” in an instruction as to the facts constituting arson); Knights v. State, 58 Neb. 225, 76 Am. St. Rep. 78.

The Motive of the Defendant in burning the building is immaterial. If the act constitutes arson in all other respects, the crime committed is arson, whether the motive be gain, revenge, or any malicious mischief. People v. Fong Hong, 120 Cal. 685.

2. Accidental Burnings.—Morris v. State, 124 Ala. 47, citing 2 AM. AND ENG. ENCYC. OF LAW (2d ed.) 918; Knights v. State, 58 Neb. 225, 76 Am. St. Rep. 78.

4. People v. Hittel, 131 Cal. 577.

920. 2. Intent to Injure or Defraud—Burning Insured Property.—Jones v. State, 70 Ohio St. 36.

921. 1. Intent Must Be Alleged and Proved—People v. Mooney, 127 Cal. 339.

Evidence of Intent.—Evidence that the owner of an insured building burned it justifies a finding that he did it with intent to defraud the insurer. People v. Vasalo, 120 Cal. 168.

4. Where the Defendant Refused to Produce an insurance policy at the time ordered, standing on his statutory right to more time, it was held to be proper to allow proof of the contents of the policy by oral evidence and written memoranda. People v. Vasalo, 120 Cal. 168.

922. 1. Explosion Distinguished from Burning.—A charge of burning is not sustained by proof that the building was blown up with dynamite, though some of the fragments took fire. The distinction made is between burning the house and burning parts detached from it by the explosion. Landers v. State, 39 Tex. Crim. 671.

923. 1. Building Need Not Be Consumed or Materially Injured.—State v. Spiegel, 111 Iowa 701.

925. 3. Storehouse and Dwelling. — A building wherein the lower floor is used as a store and the upper floor as a dwelling is a dwelling house. State v. Jones, 171 Mo. 401, 94 Am. St. Rep. 786. See also DWELLING, DWELLING HOUSE, ETC., and the cross-references there given.

927. 1. Temporary Absence. — Meeks v. State, 102 Ga. 572.

3. What Constitutes an Actual Presence. — Under the Missouri statute it is sufficient to constitute the crime of arson in the first degree that there was a human being in any part of the building burned. State v. Young, 153 Mo. 445.

928. 3. A Freight Car which has been taken off the wheels, placed on permanent posts near the railway track at a station, and used for storage purposes is an "outhouse" within the Georgia statute. Carter v. State, 106 Ga. 372, 71 Am. St. Rep. 262. See also OUTHOUSE — OUTBUILDING.

930. 3. Statutory Arson. — Lipschitz v. People, 25 Colo. 265; Com. v. Uhrig, 167 Mass. 420; State v. Sarvis, 45 S. Car. 668, 55 Am. St. Rep. 806.

Though statutory arson is an offense against property rights, it is also an offense against habitation as at common law, and therefore it is held to be sufficient under some of the statutes to aver ownership in the occupant, because one of the two reasons for showing ownership is to make it appear that the house burned was not the dwelling of the accused. State v. Copeland, 46 S. Car. 13; State v. Carter, 49 S. Car. 265.

4. Degrees. — See Benbow v. State, 128 Ala. 1; Granison v. State, 117 Ala. 22; State v. Jones, 171 Mo. 401, 94 Am. St. Rep. 786.

931. 1. House Defined as Used in Statutes. — A house used as a residence by a man and his family is an "occupied dwelling house" within the meaning of Pen. Code Ga., § 138, though every member of the family is absent at the time when the house is burned. Meeks v. State, 102 Ga. 572.

3. Subjects of Statutory Arson — Barns. — State v. Fry, 98 Tenn. 328, citing 2 AM. AND ENG. ENCYC. OF LAW (2d ed.) 931.

932. 3. A Corncrib Is Not Included in the Term "Barn" as used in the South Carolina statute declaring the wilful and malicious burning of a "barn" to be arson. State v. Jeter, 47 S. Car. 2.

2. Husband or Wife Burning House of Other. — Jordon v. State, 142 Ind. 422.

4. Statutory Offense Distinguished from Arson. — In some states burning insured property with intent to defraud the insurer is a special statutory offense which is separate and distinct from arson. State v. Young, 139 Ala. 136, 101 Am. St. Rep. 21; People v. Fong Hong, 120 Cal. 685; Jones v. State, 70 Ohio St. 36. See also supra, this title, 920. 2. et seq.

Burning House at Owner's Solicitation. — In South Carolina an owner who procures his house to be burned by another is not guilty of arson. State v. Sarvis, 45 S. Car. 668, 55 Am. St. Rep. 806.

Holding a Horse in order to enable the owner of such horse to set fire to a building has been held to render the holder guilty as an accomplice. People v. Jones, 123 Cal. 65.

3. Mere Soliciting Sufficient to Constitute an Attempt. — Com. v. Peaslee, 177 Mass. 267.

4. Under Some Statutes Overt Act Necessary. — Weaver v. State, 116 Ga. 550; Com. v. Peaslee, 177 Mass. 267.

938. 1. Corpus Delicti Must Be Proven. — People v. Jones, 123 Cal. 65; Chapman v. State, 157 Ind. 300; State v. Millmeier, 102 Iowa 692.

Disproving License from Owner. — In People v. Fong Hong, 120 Cal. 685, it was claimed that since it is not arson in California to burn one's own property, it is, therefore, incumbent on the prosecution in an arson case to prove that the defendant did not have a license from the owner to burn; but the court did not find it necessary to pass on "this novel proposition."

4. Evidence of Felonious Burning. — See People v. Fitzgerald, 137 Cal. 546. See also Hooker v. State, 98 Md. 145, holding particular evidence inadmissible.

Evidence of Other Fires. — People v. Jones, 123 Cal. 65; Knights v. State, 58 Neb. 225, 76 Am. St. Rep. 78; People v. Smith, 37 N. Y. App. Div. 280.

Testimony showing the burning of other property of a corporation, two years previous to the burning charged, is not admissible, unless connected in some way with the crime charged. People v. Fitzgerald, 156 N. Y. 253.

The Confession of the defendant that he had burned another house on the same night and as part of the same scheme is admissible as tending to prove the crime charged. State v. Jones, 171 Mo. 401, 94 Am. St. Rep. 786.

Previous Attempts may be shown. State v. Hallock, 70 Vt. 159.

Circumstantial Evidence Held Sufficient. — People v. Hiltel, 131 Cal. 577.

In State v. Millmeier, 102 Iowa 692, the corpus delicti was held to have been sufficiently proved by evidence that the building burned was unoccupied; that on the night of the fire the defendant necessarily passed it on his way home; that he had previously made threats against the owner of the building; and that footprints similar in size and style to those made by the defendant were found near to and leading from the building.

Evidence of the Odor of Kerosene on the defendant's clothing at the time of the fire is admissible where there is evidence that kerosene was used to burn the building. People v. Bishop, 134 Cal. 682.

939. 1. Testimony of Accomplices. — Carter v. State, 106 Ga. 372, 71 Am. St. Rep. 262.

2. Corroboration of Accomplice. — People v. Butler, 62 N. Y. App. Div. 508. See also People v. Davis, 135 Cal. 162, holding that the witness for the state was sufficiently corroborated by statements of the defendant.

940. 1. Evidence of Motive Admissible. — Prater v. State, 107 Ala. 26; Simpson v. State, 111 Ala. 6; Morris v. State, 124 Ala. 47; Howard v. State, 109 Ga. 137; People v. Fitzgerald, 156 N. Y. 253; People v. Fitzgerald, 20 N. Y. App. Div. 139; State v. Shines, 125 N. Car. 730.

Evidence that the defendant was not on good terms with the owner of the burned building, together with evidence of his proximity to the burned building at the time of the fire, is admissible to show motive. People v. Gotshall, 123 Mich. 474.

Inadmissible Evidence. — Evidence of ill will towards the agent of the owner of the burned premises is inadmissible to show motive, in the absence of threats against the latter. State v. Battle, 126 N. Car. 1036.

Insufficient Evidence. — Failure of the owner of the burned premises to settle with his em-

State*, 39 Tex. Crim. 671, in which case the footprints were not identified as the defendant's and were held to furnish no evidence of his guilt.

943. 3. Seduction. — "Art is the skilful and systematic arrangement or adaptation of means for the attainment of some desired end." Suther v. State, 118 Ala. 88, followed in Hall v. State, 134 Ala. 90.

Patent Law — Synonymous with Process. — Carnegie Steel Co. v. Cambria Iron Co., 89 Fed. Rep. 721.

944. 1. Meaning of Term "Artesian" Explained by Parol Evidence. — "The primary definition in all the dictionaries of the word artesian indicates a well from which the water flows naturally without artificial pressure; but the secondary definition of the word in the Century and Standard dictionaries and others seems to indicate that it may be applied, also, to wells from which the water is made to flow by artificial means. The word artesian, therefore, becomes a term of equivocal significance, standing unexplained in a contract. It was hence competent to introduce parol testimony to show what meaning it had in this particular contract." Hattiesburg Plumbing Co. v. Carmichael, 80 Miss. 66.

947. 2. See State v. Hamann, 109 Iowa 646 (a seduction case).

948. 1. "Artificial" and "Artifice" Synonymous. — "One of the universal definitions of the word artificial is artful, subtle, crafty, and ingenious, so nearly like that of 'artifice' that an attempted distinction would be without a difference." State v. Hamann, 113 Iowa 367 (a seduction case).

The Term "Artificial Alizarin," as used in the Wilson Tariff Act, has acquired "a definite, fixed meaning, by which it is limited to such dyestuffs as are derived from anthracene." Farbenfabriken v. U. S., (C. C. A.) 102 Fed. Rep. 603, affirming 99 Fed. Rep. 554.

Ascertained in the Sense of Judicially Ascertained. — German Nat. Bank v. Farmers, etc., Bank, 54 Neb. 595.

4. Asphalt Pavement. — The term asphalt in a suit for infringement of a patent for repairing pavements "is not limited in its meaning to the Trinidad deposit, or to so-called 'American mixtures,' but includes as well the bituminous paving material used in France and elsewhere, comprising natural rock asphalt and compositions of bitumen and lime or sand particles." U. S. Repair, etc., Co. v. Assyrian Asphalt Co., 96 Fed. Rep. 235, affirmed (C. C. A.) 100 Fed. Rep. 965.

ASSAULT AND BATTERY.

BY GEO. G. ALBAN.

953. I. DEFINITIONS — Assault. — See note 1.

Battery. — See note 2.

II. ESSENTIAL ELEMENTS OF AN ASSAULT OR BATTERY — 1. Intent —

How Far Essential. — See note 3.

954. See note 1.

955. Intent Presumed. — See note 1.

Specific Intent Need Not Be Executed. — See note 2.

956. 2. Overt Act in Assault — a. GENERALLY. — See note 1.

953. 1. Morgan v. O'Daniel, (Ky. 1899) 53 S. W. Rep. 1040, citing 2 AM. AND ENG. ENCYC. OF LAW (2d ed.) 953; Ganaway v. Salt Lake Dramatic Assoc., 17 Utah 41, citing 2 AM AND ENG. ENCYC. OF LAW (2d ed.) 953.

Other Definitions of Assault. — An assault is an attempt with violence to do an injury to another with the means at hand of carrying that purpose into execution. State v. Lockwood, 1 Penn. (Del.) 76; State v. Burton, 2 Penn. (Del.) 472; State v. Jones, 2 Penn. (Del.) 573; Hendle v. Geiler, (Del. 1895) 50 Atl. Rep. 632; State v. Mills, 3 Penn. (Del.) 508; Armstrong v. Little, 4 Penn. (Del.) 255; State v. Lewis, 4 Penn. (Del.) 332; State v. Harrigan, 4 Penn. (Del.) 129; State v. Di Guglielmo, 4 Penn. (Del.) 336.

"An unlawful attempt or offer, with force and violence, to do a bodily injury to another." State v. Hatfield, 48 W. Va. 561.

An assault may be committed by the use of any dangerous weapon, or the semblance thereof, in a threatening manner, with intent to alarm, under circumstances tending to effect that object. Tollett v. State, (Tex. Crim. 1900) 55 S. W. Rep. 335.

An assault is an intentional attempt by force to do an injury to the person of another. Butler v. Stockdale, 19 Pa. Super. Ct. 98.

Facts Held to Constitute Assault. — Where a man lays his hand on the arm of a woman against her will and, when she runs, follows her some distance, this constitutes an assault. State v. Fulkerson, 97 Mo. App. 599.

2. Other Definitions of Battery. — A battery is the laying on of hands in an assault or the infliction of the injury. State v. Burton, 2 Penn. (Del.) 472; Hendle v. Geiler, (Del. 1895) 50 Atl. Rep. 632; State v. Mills, 3 Penn. (Del.) 508; Armstrong v. Little, 4 Penn. (Del.) 255; State v. Lewis, 4 Penn. (Del.) 332; State v. Harrigan, 4 Penn. (Del.) 129.

"The least touching of another wilfully" does not constitute a battery, but touching another in anger is a battery. Alston v. State, 109 Ala. 51. To the same effect see Jacobi v. State, 133 Ala. 1.

"A battery is committed whenever the violence menaced in an assault is actually done, though in ever so small a degree, upon the person." Butler v. Stockdale, 19 Pa. Super. Ct. 98.

3. Intent. — Thomas v. State, 99 Ga. 38; State v. Carver, 89 Me. 74; Shields v. State, 39 Tex. Crim. 13; Fuller v. State, 44 Tex. Crim. 463; Stermmer v. State, (Tex. Crim. 1904) 78 S. W. Rep. 1072; Chambless v. State, (Tex. Crim. 1904) 79 S. W. Rep. 577; Stripling v. State, (Tex. Crim. 1904) 80 S. W. Rep. 376. See also Bartell v. State, 106 Wis. 342.

In Illinois the rule that intent to do injury is of the essence of an assault is applied to civil as well as to criminal actions. Gilmore v. Fuller, 198 Ill. 130.

An Intent to Frighten merely, and not to inflict injury, has been held not to be sufficient to sustain a civil action for assault. Degenhardt v. Heller, 93 Wis. 662.

955. 1. State v. Foreman, 1 Marv. (Del.) 517; State v. Jones, 2 Penn. (Del.) 573; Shriver v. Bean, 112 Mich. 508; People v. Hannigan, 42 N. Y. App. Div. 617; State v. Baker, 20 R. I. 275, 78 Am. St. Rep. 863.

An Intent to Commit Rape May Be Inferred from the conduct of the accused. People v. Johnson, 131 Cal. 511; State v. Smith, 9 Houst. (Del.) 588.

Presumption of Fact. — That one intends the natural consequences of his act is a presumption of fact, and does not mean that one who hurls a stone at another and misses him is presumed to have intended to miss. State v. Hersom, 90 Me. 273.

It Is the Province of the Jury to determine whether, from the facts, an intent to rob is to be inferred. People v. Hite, 135 Cal. 76.

2. Bush v. State, 136 Ala. 85; Jennings v. U. S., 2 Indian Ter. 670; Christian v. State, (Tex. Crim. 1901) 62 S. W. Rep. 422.

General Malice. — In a civil action by one injured by an attempt of the defendant to assault a third person, general malice may be presumed from reckless and wanton acts though there was no specific malice towards the plaintiff. Davis v. Collins, 69 S. Car. 460.

956. 1. Gaskin v. State, 105 Ga. 632, citing 2 AM. AND ENG. ENCYC. OF LAW (2d ed.) 956; Burton v. State, 109 Ga. 134; State v. Jones, 118 N. Car. 1237.

Drawing Pistol. — State v. Llewellyn, 93 Mo. App. 469.

957. b. THREATS AND ABUSIVE LANGUAGE. — See notes 1, 2.

958. 3. Ability in Assault. — See note 1.

Ability Apparent Only. — See note 2.

959. 4. Force in Battery — a. UNLAWFUL FORCE — (1) Generally. — See note 2.

960. (2) Administering Poison or Drugs — In the United States. — See note 2.

Firing a Pistol in the Direction of Another with the intention of frightening or of wounding him is an assault. State v. Baker, 20 R. I. 275, 78 Am. St. Rep. 863.

Person Assaulted Need Not Be Alarmed. — Where the defendant drew a knife with the intent of cutting the prosecutor, but was restrained by a third party, the fact that the prosecutor did not see the knife and was not alarmed is no defense to the charge of assault. Gann v. State, (Tex. Crim. 1897) 40 S. W. Rep. 725.

Necessity of Present Danger. — In Georgia it has been held that one who put poison into a well with intent that the water should be drunk by another was not guilty of an assault with intent to murder where the presence of the poison was discovered before any person had drunk of the water. Peebles v. State, 101 Ga. 585. See also the title POISONS AND POISONING.

Shooting Wide of Mark. — Shooting at a person constitutes an assault, although the bullet went wide of the mark. State v. Hunt, 25 R. I. 75.

An Assault May Be Completed Without Touching the Person of the one assaulted, as by lifting a cane, clinching the fist, or pointing a gun at him. State v. Hatfield, 48 W. Va. 561.

957. 1. Jackson v. State, 103 Ga. 417; Penny v. State, 114 Ga. 77; Prince v. Ridge, (Supm. Ct. Tr. T.) 32 Misc. (N. Y.) 666; Rankin v. Sievern, et c., R. Co., 58 S. Car. 532; State v. Hatfield, 48 W. Va. 561.

Mere Threats. — Cox v. State, (Tex. Crim. 1898) 44 S. W. Rep. 157.

2. Threats Not Legal Provocation — Delaware. — Watson v. Hastings, 1 Penn. (Del.) 47; State v. Burton, 2 Penn. (Del.) 472; Hendie v. Geiler, (Del. 1895) 50 Atl. Rep. 632; State v. Mills, 3 Penn. (Del.) 508; Armstrong v. Little, 4 Penn. (Del.) 255; State v. Harrigan, 4 Penn. (Del.) 129.

Iowa. — Irlbeck v. Bierl, 101 Iowa 240; State v. Leuhrman, 123 Iowa 476.

Louisiana. — Munday v. Landry, 51 La. Ann. 303.

Michigan. — Goucher v. Jamieson, 124 Mich. 21.

Missouri. — Berryman v. Cox, 73 Mo. App. 67; State v. Kaiser, 78 Mo. App. 575.

Pennsylvania. — Com. v. Brungess, 23 Pa. Co. Ct. 13.

Texas. — Hill v. State, 43 Tex. Crim. 583; Gatling v. State, (Tex. Crim. 1903) 76 S. W. Rep. 471.

Insulting Remarks No Defense. — An insulting remark to one's wife does not justify an assault by the husband. Hayes v. Sease, 51 S. Car. 534. Compare Burks v. State, 40 Tex. Crim. 167, holding that insulting remarks concerning the defendant's wife will not reduce the degree of the assault unless it was committed immediately upon the defendant's learning of the remarks.

Rule in Alabama and Georgia. — Johnson v. State, 136 Ala. 76; Rogers v. State, 117 Ala. 192; Moore v. State, 102 Ga. 581; Cross v. Carter, 100 Ga. 632; Samuels v. State, 103 Ga. 3; Mitchell v. State, 110 Ga. 272.

But the rule applies only to words and language used at the time of the assault. Berry v. State, 105 Ga. 683. Thus, an assault offered to the defendant's daughter on the day before the assault was committed is not admissible as justification. Walker v. State, 117 Ga. 323.

Mere grimaces or facial expressions do not constitute sufficient provocation. Behling v. State, 110 Ga. 754.

And abusive language can never justify or mitigate an assault with intent to murder. Nixon v. State, 101 Ga. 574.

In a Civil Case, abusive language is never a bar to the right to recover damages for an assault and battery, but may be considered in mitigation. Berkner v. Dannenberg, 116 Ga. 954.

The Rule in Mississippi is that insulting language will not justify an assault with a deadly weapon. Stone v. Heggie, 82 Miss. 410. See also Barr v. State, (Miss. 1897) 21 So. Rep. 131.

The Use of Vulgar and Obscene Language by the prosecutor will not reduce the degree of the offense. Mozee v. State, (Tex. Crim. 1899) 51 S. W. Rep. 250.

958. 1. Lott v. State, 83 Miss. 609.

Intent Need Not Be Executed. — If the defendant had the present ability to execute his unlawful intent, the fact that he was prevented by a third party from committing the battery is no defense to the charge of assault. Gann v. State, (Tex. Crim. 1897) 40 S. W. Rep. 725. See also Dillard v. State, 65 Ark. 404.

2. Christian v. State, 133 Ala. 109; Thomas v. State, 99 Ga. 38.

Presenting Unloaded Pistol. — State v. Archer, 8 Kan. App. 737, supporting the first paragraph of the original note.

It is held in California that presenting an unloaded pistol at a person, or even a loaded pistol with no attempt to discharge it, does not constitute an assault. People v. Sylva, 143 Cal. 62.

Presenting a Broken Pistol is held in Texas to constitute a simple assault. Pearce v. State, 37 Tex. Crim. 643.

959. 2. State v. Lewis, 113 Wis. 393, citing 2 AM. AND ENG. ENCYC. OF LAW (2d ed.) 959.

Wilfully or Intentionally to Drive a Horse Against One constitutes an assault and battery. State v. Lewis, 4 Penn. (Del.) 332.

Seizing a Gun in the Hands of Another and violently wrenching it from him constitutes a battery. Scott v. State, 118 Ala. 115.

960. 2. Staté v. Monroe, 121 N. Car. 677, 61 Am. St. Rep. 686, holding that a druggist who, at another's request, drops croton oil into Firing at Person to Secure His Arrest. — See People v. Hannigan, 42 N. Y. App. Div. 617.

When a Person Is Violating No Law, an officer has no right to order him to "move on," and, upon his failure to obey, to shove or strike him. State v. Meyers, 174 Mo. 352.

962. 1. Prevention of Unlawful Acts. — One who holds another to prevent his separating two persons who are fighting commits an assault, as a private citizen has a right to interfere to separate those who are committing a breach of the peace. Wilson v. State, (Tex. Crim. 1903) 74 S. W. Rep. 315.

2. Correction of Child by Parent. — Thompson v. State, (Tex. Crim. 1904) 80 S. W. Rep. 623; Goode v. State, (Tex. Crim. 1903) 77 S. W. Rep. 799. See also the title PARENT AND CHILD.

Question for Jury. — Whether punishment of a child by a parent is excessive or cruel is a question for the jury. Hornbeck v. State, 16 Ind. App. 484.

Whether a parent, in punishing a child, acts in good faith and without passion, is to be determined largely from the character of the injuries received by the child. State v. Washington, 104 La. 443, 81 Am. St. Rep. 141.

Delegation of Power. — A mother may authorize another to punish her child, and if the punishment be not excessive it will not constitute assault and battery. Harris v. State, 115 Ga. 578. Compare Donnelley v. Territory, (Ariz. 1898) 52 Pac. Rep. 368.

3. Correction of Ward by Guardian. — Clasen v. Pruhs, (Neb. 1903) 95 N. W. Rep. 640.

5. Correction of Pupil by Teacher. — State v. Boyer, 70 Mo. App. 156; Thomason v. State, (Tex. Crim. 1898) 43 S. W. Rep. 1013; Stephens v. State, 44 Tex. Crim. 67; Reg. v. Robinson, 7 Can. Crim. Cas. (Nova Scotia) 52, quoting 2 AM. AND ENG. ENCYC. OF LAW (2d ed.) 962, and supporting the whole text paragraph. See also the title SCHOOLS.

Proof that Punishment Was Moderate. — The defendant, a teacher, cannot himself testify as an expert that the punishment was not excessive under the circumstances. Howerton v. State, (Tex. Crim. 1898) 43 S. W. Rep. 1018.

A "Patriarch" or Priest who is the spiritual adviser of a community has no right to punish a child of a member of the community, even, it has been held, at the parent's request. Donnelley v. Territory, (Ariz. 1898) 52 Pac. Rep. 368.

Excessive Punishment. — A stepmother is liable for injuries to a child caused by severe punishment inflicted malo animo. Treschman v. Treschman, 28 Ind. App. 206.

Question for Jury. — What is excessive force is a question for the jury. Clasen v. Pruhs, (Neb. 1903) 95 N. W. Rep. 640.

964. 1. Modern Doctrine as to Wife Whipping. — Under the Delaware statute against wife beating one blow may constitute a beating, that being a question for the jury. State v. Harigan, 4 Penn. (Del.) 129.

5. Master of a Vessel. — Dorrell v. Schwerman, 111 Fed. Rep. 209. See also the title MASTERS OF VESSELS.

965. 2. In re Burns, 113 Fed. Rep. 987, quoting 2 AM. AND ENG. ENCYC. OF LAW (2d ed.) 965.

Assault with Intent to Commit Robbery. — Acquittal of the charge of robbery is no bar to a prosecution for an assault committed at the same time. McMahon v. People, 189 Ill. 222. So a conviction for robbery is no bar to a prosecution for assault with intent to rob, committed at the same time. Adams v. State, (Tex. Crim. 1901) 62 S. W. Rep. 1059. See generally the title JEOPARDY, 602. 2. et seq.

4. Texas. — Under the Texas statutes an assault, to be aggravated, need not actually inflict serious injury if the means used be calculated to have that effect. Yeary v. State, (Tex. Crim. 1902) 66 S. W. Rep. 1106. But see Grayson v. State, (Tex. Crim. 1897) 42 S. W. Rep. 293.

A boy of eighteen years of age cannot be convicted under a statute making an assault by an adult male upon a female or child an aggravated assault. Ellers v. State, (Tex. Crim. 1900) 55 S. W. Rep. 813.

As to persons of robust health and strength and "aged" persons, under the Texas statute, see Black v. State, (Tex. Crim. 1902) 67 S. W. Rep. 113.

Force an Essential Ingredient. — Patterson v. State, 11 Ohio Cir. Dec. 602, 21 Ohio Cir. Ct. 184, supporting the first paragraph of the original note.

Where the prosecutrix is under the age of consent, the law conclusively presumes the use of force. State v. Smith, 9 Houst. (Del.) 588.

Desistance on Account of Resistance. — It is no defense that the accused desisted from his efforts on account of interference or because of inability to accomplish penetration. State v. Smith, 9 Houst. (Del.) 588; State v. Williams, 121 N. Car. 628; State v. Mehaffey, 132 N. Car. 1062.

Voluntary Desistance is no defense. People v. Johnson, 131 Cal. 511.

Corroboration. — To the same effect as the cases cited in the original note see Johnson v. People, 197 Ill. 48. See also Cox v. State, (Tex. Crim. 1898) 44 S. W. Rep. 157.

In Nebraska it has been held that direct corroboration of the prosecutrix is not necessary. Proof of incriminating circumstances is sufficient. Dunn v. State, 58 Neb. 807.

Admissibility of Evidence. — In State v. Sargent, 32 Oregon 110, it was held that the mother of an infant prosecutrix may testify as to her manner and appearance, and the condition of her person and apparel, shortly after the alleged assault, but she may not repeat the child's narrative of the occurrence. See also State v. Hunter, 18 Wash. 670.

Evidence of other acts of intercourse between the parties is admissible in corroboration of the testimony as to the particular act. Callison v. State, 37 Tex. Crim. 211.

Attempt to Commit Rape. — In Texas an attempt to commit rape is held to involve an intent to use the same force as would make the defendant guilty of rape or assault with intent to rape if carried out. Moon v. State, (Tex. Crim. 1898) 45 S. W. Rep. 806. But under an indictment for assault with intent to commit rape, the defendant cannot be convicted of attempt to commit rape. Taylor v. State, 44 Tex. Crim. 153. See also Warren v. State, 38 Tex. Crim. 152.

In Connecticut attempt to rape and assault with intent to rape are the same thing. Rooke v. State, 70 Conn. 104.

Overt Act. — In order to convict of an assault with intent to commit rape, some overt act amounting to an assault must be shown. Gaskin v. State, 105 Ga. 631.

An assault with intent to rape may be committed by administering chloroform, although no actual violence is used. Harlan v. People, (Colo. 1904) 76 Pac. Rep. 702.

Slightest Touching Sufficient. — McAvoy v. State, 41 Tex. Crim. 56.

Battery Is Not Necessary to make one guilty of an assault with intent to rape. Goldin v. State, 104 Ga. 549.

974. 1. State v. Smith, 9 Houst. (Del.) 588.

Charge of Rape Includes Assault with Intent. — Rooke v. State, 70 Conn. 104; People v. Dowell, (Mich. 1904) 99 N. W. Rep. 23.

Assault with Intent Included in Rape. — A charge of assault with intent to rape is sustained by proof of rape. Hanes v. State, 155 Ind. 112.

Capacity to Commit Rape Not Essential. — It has been held in Pennsylvania that a boy may be convicted of an assault with intent to commit rape although he is under the age at which, by statute, he would be capable of committing the crime of rape. Com. v. Hummel, 21 Pa. Co. Ct. 445, 7 Pa. Dist. 715.

2. Consenting Female. — Martin v. State, 7 Ohio Cir. Dec. 564, 13 Ohio Cir. Ct. 604; State v. McCune, 16 Utah 170.

Bad Character of Defendant. — In a civil action the bad character of the defendant may not be shown, as his character is not in issue. Barr v. Post, 56 Neb. 698.

2. Evidence of the Bad Character of the Defendant is not admissible except where the defendant has himself placed his character in issue. Maxwell v. State, (Tex. Crim. 1904) 78 S. W. Rep. 516. See generally the title CHARACTER (IN EVIDENCE).

3. Criminal Prosecution — Character of Prosecutor. — Rufus v. State, 117 Ala. 131.

In a Prosecution for Indecent Assault, evidence of the good reputation of the prosecutrix for virtue and chastity is admissible. Wilson v. State, (Tex. Crim. 1902) 67 S. W. Rep. 106.

4. Character of Prosecutor for Peaceableness. — The good character of the prosecutor may be shown where the defendant has testified to previous threats or hostile acts on his part. Rhea v. State, 37 Tex. Crim. 138.

Reputation of Prosecutor for Veracity. — Where an effort has been made to impeach the prosecuting witness, the state may introduce evidence as to his reputation for truth and veracity, but otherwise such evidence is inadmissible. Morrison v. State, 37 Tex. Crim. 601.

Character of Prosecutor Subsequent to Assault. — Evidence of the bad character of the prosecutor at a time subsequent to the alleged assault is not admissible. Burks v. State, 40 Tex. Crim. 167.

5. Proof of Another Offense. — See Silliman v. Sampson, 42 N. Y. App. Div. 623; Maxwell v. State, (Tex. Crim. 1904) 78 S. W. Rep. 516.

1003. 1. Bolton v. State, (Tex. Crim. 1897) 39 S. W. Rep. 672.

1*a*. Assay Value. — Where by an agreement mill men were to return a certain per cent. of the assay value of gold ore worked in the mill, this was held to mean the standard assay value of gold as known everywhere, and not the value of gold bullion at the place where produced. Vietti v. Nesbitt, 22 Nev. 390.

Conflict of Laws. — State Bank v. McElroy, 106 Iowa 258, citing 3 AM. AND ENG. ENCYC. OF LAW (2d ed.) 6.

7. 2. Partial Assignments. — Failure of a debtor to surrender all his property does not render the deed invalid as to the property surrendered. Rosenberg v. Smith, (Ky. 1897) 40 S. W. Rep. 243.

8. 1. In Trust. — Adler-Goldman Commission Co. v. Phillips, 63 Ark. 40; Hillis v. Asay, 105 Ill. App. 667; Morgan Mach. Co. v. Rauch, 84 Mo. App. 514; Young v. Stone, 61 N. Y. App. Div. 370; Reed Fertilizer Co. v. Thomas, 97 Tenn. 478; Birmingham Drug Co. v. Freeman, 15 Tex. Civ. App. 451.

Under the Ohio statute any transfer in trust for creditors constitutes an assignment. Wambaugh v. Northwestern Mut. L. Ins. Co., 59 Ohio St. 228.

An Insolvent's Trust Deed directing payment of the expenses of the trust, wages for labor, certain creditors in full as they appear on the schedule, another list of creditors pro rata, and surplus to the grantor is not a general assignment, but a deed of trust with preferences, and is not subject to the assignment laws. H. B. Claffin Co. v. Lubke, 162 Mo. 648.

The Material and Essential Characteristic of a general assignment is the presence of a trust. The assignee is merely trustee, and not absolute owner. He buys nothing and pays nothing, but takes the title for the performance of trust duties. John P. Kane Co. v. Kinney, (Supm. Ct. Spec. T.) 35 Misc. (N. Y.) 1.

9. 1. Provision as to Surplus. — Smith-McCord Dry Goods Co. v. Carson, 59 Kan. 295, citing 3 AM. AND ENG. ENCYC. OF LAW (2d ed.) 8, 9.

Surplus Belongs to Assignor. — Farnsworth v. Doom, 109 Ky. 794.

2. Absolute Transfer of Title Necessary. — Smith-McCord Dry Goods Co. v. Carson, 59 Kan. 295, citing 3 AM. AND ENG. ENCYC. OF LAW (2d ed.) 9.

Title of Assignee Not Affected by Death of Assignor. — Thaxton v. Smith, 90 Tex. 589, reversing (Tex. Civ. App. 1896) 38 S. W. Rep. 820.

11. 1. Transfers Directly to Creditors. — Davidson v. Kahn, 116 Ala. 427; Roberts v. Burr, 135 Cal. 156; Droop v. Ridenour, 11 App. Cas. (D. C.) 224; Deane v. John A. Tolman Co., 83 Ill. App. 486; Oakford v. Fischer, 75 Ill. App. 544; Turner Hardware Co. v. Reynolds, 2 Indian Ter. 49; Creteau v. Foote, etc., Glass Co., 54 N. Y. App. Div. 168.

The Conveyance of All a Debtor's Property Except His Homestead to creditors, there being no provision as to any surplus, should not be construed as an assignment for creditors. McMorrان v. Moore, 113 Mich. 101.

Where Creditors Were Pressing Claims against an insolvent, payments made to them were held not to operate as an assignment for the benefit of creditors. Diamond Coal Co. v. Carter Dry-Goods Co., (Ky. 1899) 49 S. W. Rep. 438.

12. 1. Rule in New York. — See New York County Nat. Bank v. American Surety Co., 69 N. Y. App. Div. 153. And to the same effect as Brown v. Guthrie, 110 N. Y. 441, stated in the original note, see Delaney v. Valentine, 154 N. Y. 692.

13. 2. Assignments and Sales Distinguished. — Tuers v. Tuers, 131 Cal. 625; Smith-McCord Dry Goods Co. v. Carson, 59 Kan. 295; Appleby v. Lehman, 51 La. Ann. 473; Young v. Stone, 61 N. Y. App. Div. 364, citing 3 AM. AND ENG. ENCYC. OF LAW (2d ed.) 13.

Arkansas. — Henry v. Croom, 63 Ark. 612. South Carolina. — An instrument in form a bill of sale is not an assignment. Ex p. Neal Loan, etc., Co., 58 S. Car. 260.

In Georgia mortgages and assignments of choses in action given to creditors of an insolvent partnership were held not to be governed by the assignment acts of 1881 and 1885, since there was nothing indicating a trust in any one's favor. Fulton v. Gibian, 98 Ga. 224.

Indian Territory. — "The test is, has the debtor absolutely disposed of his property for the purpose of raising a fund to pay his debts, without reserving the equity of redemption? If so, the transaction constitutes an assignment; otherwise, a mortgage." Smith v. Moore, 2 Indian Ter. 126. To the same effect see Westchester F. Ins. Co. v. Blackford, 2 Indian Ter. 370.

Michigan. — Where a corporation gave mortgages to certain creditors for their benefit and that of certain other creditors, the transaction was held not to constitute a common-law assignment for the benefit of creditors. Longley v. Amazon Hosiery Co., 128 Mich. 194, 8 Detroit Leg. N. 611. See also Belding-Hall Mfg. Co. v. Smith, 125 Mich. 54, 7 Detroit Leg. N. 433.

Minnesota. — "Upon principle and authority we hold that if the members of a copartnership, in good faith, solely to secure their debts to one or more but not all of their creditors, transfer to them, by bill of sale or otherwise, the firm property, reserving to themselves the right of redemption, the conveyance is not an assignment for the benefit of creditors, but a mortgage and a valid security, except in insolvency proceedings, even though the debtors were then insolvent, to the knowledge of the mortgagees, and the transfer covers all of the copartnership assets." Dyson v. St. Paul Nat. Bank, 74 Minn. 439, 73 Am. St. Rep. 358.

Ohio. — In a partnership consisting of a son who managed the business and of a father who gave a mortgage on all his realty to secure a partnership note, such mortgage was not an assignment for benefit of creditors. Goodman v. Rawson, 25 Ohio Cir. Ct. 696.

Oregon. — Where a failing debtor executes mortgages to certain creditors, just prior to a general assignment, and there is good faith, such mortgages are not parts of the assignment so as to render it invalid under a statute which provides that a general assignment must be for the benefit of all creditors. Inman v. Sprague, 30 Oregon 321.

A Mortgage to One Creditor Who Agrees to Pay Others will be construed as an assignment for creditors when the instrument shows that such was the intention. Hill v. Mallory, 112 Mich. 387; Conely v. Collins, 119 Mich. 519; Dahlman v. Greenwood, 99 Wis. 163.

In Sweet v. Neff, 102 Wis. 482, where a number of mortgages were executed to creditors at the same time and place and providing that each mortgagee might sell and apply to his own debts, it was held to be a general assignment, and the first mortgagee was a trustee for the subsequent ones.

16. 1. Kentucky Statute. — Where a debtor executed a chattel mortgage to secure a note due in one day the transaction was held to be an assignment for the benefit of all who were at that time his creditors. Trigg v. Ball, (Ky. 1897) 38 S. W. Rep. 701.

The assignment dates from the date of the attempted mortgage, and is valid against attachments subsequent thereto. Throckmorton v. Monroe, 60 S. W. Rep. 721, 22 Ky. L. Rep. 1450.

Under the Ohio Statute also a mortgage made in contemplation of insolvency inures to the benefit of all creditors. State Nat. Bank v. Ellison, 75 Fed. Rep. 354.

17. 2. Strasburger v. Dodge, 12 App. Cas. (D. C.) 37; Lee's Case, 9 Kulp (Pa.) 430; Pauksztis's Estate, 9 Pa. Dist. 80.

By the Kentucky Statutes a judgment suffered in contemplation of insolvency has effect as an assignment for the benefit of creditors. Laughlin v. Georgetown First Nat. Bank, 103 Ky. 742. See also Rouss v. Lampton-Crane-Ramey Co., 59 S. W. Rep. 506, 22 Ky. L. Rep. 1020.

Collusive Judgment. — In Podolski v. Stone, 86 Ill. App. 62, it was held that a judgment secured by collusion has no preference against the assigned estate.

18. 1. Substantial Compliance with All Statutory Provisions for voluntary assignments is necessary. Miller v. Waite, 60 Neb. 431.

2. Iowa. — Where a party who owes money for goods procured by misrepresentations as to credit mortgages such goods and then makes an assignment for creditors, it will be held that the two instruments constituted a general assignment with a preference, and so the mortgage is void. Creglow v. Creglow, 100 Iowa 276; Elwell v. Kimball, 102 Iowa 720.

Deed of Trust. — Where an ordinary deed of trust is given and preferences to certain creditors, it will not be construed as a statutory assignment in the absence of a clear intent that it should be so construed, apparent on its face. Reed Fertilizer Co. v. Thomas, 97 Tenn. 478.

19. 1. Compulsory Preference of Wages. —

19. d. IN EFFECT BANKRUPT LAWS. — See notes 2, 4.

21. 3. Excluding Partial Assignments. — See note 1.

22. IV. WHO MAY ASSIGN — 1. General Rule — Mental Capacity — Disabilities. — See note 1.

23. 2. Agents. — See note 1.

3. Corporations — a. IN GENERAL. — See note 3.

Charter or Statutory Restrictions. — See note 7.

24. b. CORPORATE ASSIGNMENT — HOW EXECUTED. — See note 2.

The Illinois statute making wages for work done within three months of an assignment for creditors preferred claims refers only to funds properly in the assignee's hands, and not to funds transferred in good faith before the assignment. Schwartz v. Messinger, 167 Ill. 474.

The Pennsylvania Act of April 22, 1854, providing for the preference of laborers' wages to the extent of one hundred dollars, applies to those not in the actual employment of the concern at the time of the assignment. Matter of Thompson Glass Co., 186 Pa. St. 383.

One Who Lends Money to Pay Laborers obtains thereby no right to substitution to their claim for preference when their employer assigns for the benefit of creditors. Fair Hope North Savage Fire-Brick Co.'s Estate, 183 Pa. St. 96.

19. 2. Similarity to Bankrupt Laws. — See Howland's Appeal, 67 N. H. 575; Segnitz v. Garden City Banking, etc., Co., 107 Wis. 171, 81 Am. St. Rep. 830.

4. Not Suspended by Bankrupt Laws. — In Texas it is held that an assignment for the benefit of creditors has an effect very different from an assignment in bankruptcy, and is not suspended by the Bankruptcy Act, but can be set aside if made within the period forbidden by that statute. Patty-Joiner, etc., Co. v. Cummins, (Tex. Civ. App. 1900) 59 S. W. Rep. 297.

21. 1. Partial Assessments Prohibited. — Shepard v. Reeves, 39 Fla. 53. See also Kickbusch v. Corwith, 108 Wis. 634. And see the title FRAUDULENT SALES AND CONVEYANCES, 437. 2 et seq.

22. 1. Common Law — Any Person of Sound Mind. — Wambaugh v. Northwestern Mut. L. Ins. Co., 59 Ohio St. 228, citing 3 AM. AND ENG. ENCYC. OF LAW (2d ed.) 22.

The Mere Pendency of a Suit in Which a Receivership Is Prayed does not put a debtor's property in the hands of the court, and so can neither prevent an assignment for the benefit of creditors nor possession by the assignee. Calahan v. Consumers Ice, etc., Co., 7 Ohio Cir. Dec. 349, 13 Ohio Cir. Ct. 479.

23. 1. Assignment by Agent. — Conely v. Collins, 119 Mich. 519.

3. Powers of Corporations to Make Assignments. — Whited v. J. Walter Thompson Co., 86 Ill. App. 76, affirmed 185 Ill. 454; Nathan v. Lee, 152 Ind. 232; U. S. Building, etc., Assoc. v. Jones, (Ky. 1901) 64 S. W. Rep. 447; Boynton v. Roe, 114 Mich. 401; Gilroy v. Somerville Woolen Mills, (N. J. 1904) 58 Atl. Rep. 651; Goetz v. Knie, 103 Wis. 366. See also the title CORPORATIONS (PRIVATE), 741. 1 et seq.

Insurance Companies. — A mutual insurance company organized under the Kentucky Act of March 21, 1895, cannot make an assignment for the benefit of creditors. Beale v. Connecticut F. Ins. Co., 57 C. C. A. 158, 120 Fed. Rep. 790.

An insurance company organized in Missouri cannot make an assignment for the benefit of creditors in that state. McCoy v. Connecticut F. Ins. Co., 87 Mo. App. 73.

7. Statutory Restrictions. — Battery Park Bank v. Western Carolina Bank, 127 N. Car. 432.

24. 2. State Nat. Bank v. Merchants' Bank, 83 Miss. 610; Calumet Paper Co. v. Haskell Show Printing Co., 144 Mo. 331, 66 Am. St. Rep. 425, quoting 3 AM. AND ENG. ENCYC. OF LAW (2d ed.) 24.

By Board of Directors. — See Blanton v. Kentucky Distilleries, etc., Co., 120 Fed. Rep. 318; Boynton v. Roe, 114 Mich. 401; State Nat. Bank v. Merchants' Bank, 83 Miss. 610; Calumet Paper Co. v. Haskell Show Printing Co., 144 Mo. 331, 66 Am. St. Rep. 425; Birmingham Drug Co. v. Freeman, 15 Tex. Civ. App. 451; Cupit v. Park City Bank, 20 Utah 293; Goetz v. Knie, 103 Wis. 366.

By President — Authority — Ratification. — Where an assignment for creditors was executed by the president and secretary of a corporation without authorization by the board of directors, a subsequent approval by the board of directors ratifies the action taken and renders the assignment valid. Miller v. Matthews, 87 Md. 464.

And where the board of directors of a corporation resolves upon a general assignment and empowers the president to select an assignee, the power to execute the assignment is implied, and if the president himself becomes the assignee only the corporation itself can object. Rogers v. Pell, 154 N. Y. 518.

But in Schaefer v. Scott, 40 N. Y. App. Div. 438, a general assignment by the president of a corporation was held to be void as against creditors of the corporation because the board of directors had not authorized it. See also Hilliard v. Burlington Shoe Co., 76 Vt. 57.

By Vice-president. — An assignment by a vice-president of a corporation, the president being away and the managing director being dead, is valid if authorized by the directors. Wagg-Anderson Woolen Co. v. Leshner, 78 Ill. App. 678.

An unauthorized assignment by a vice-president is not good as against an execution issued on a judgment entered on the same day. Leshner v. Friedman, 90 Ill. App. 42, affirmed 198 Ill. 21.

A General Manager of a corporation cannot make an assignment for creditors unless so authorized by the board of directors. O'Brien v. Drayage Transfer Co., 81 Mo. App. 664.

But it has been held that a managing agent of a corporation has authority to assign for the benefit of creditors in a case where the corporation had no meetings and the agent managed the entire business. Conely v. Collins, 119 Mich. 519.

Virginia the stockholders' consent to an assignment for benefit of creditors is necessary. Kyle v. Wagner, 45 W. Va. 349.

And in Powers v. Blue Grass Bldg., etc., Assoc., 86 Fed. Rep. 705, it was held that the directors of a solvent building and loan association cannot assign for the benefit of creditors unless so authorized by the stockholders, and the stockholders may attack an assignment and have a receiver appointed.

25. 3. Personal Property of Partnership. — Parker v. Brown, (C. C. A.) 85 Fed. Rep. 595.

Ratification.—An assignment of firm property by one partner may be ratified by the other partner's acts of assent. Allen v. Meyer, (Tex. Civ. App. 1901) 65 S. W. Rep. 645; Carter-Battle Grocer Co. v. Jackson, 18 Tex. Civ. App. 353.

A partner who consented individually in writing to a firm assignment will be held to have consented as a partner. Tait v. Carey, 3 Indian Ter. 765.

26. 1. Authority and Assent of Partners. — In Pennsylvania it has been held that an assignment by one partner is good unless the other partners positively dissent. Matter of Mill Work, etc., Co., 4 Pa. Super. Ct. 106.

27. 1. Implied Power of Partner. — See generally the title PARTNERSHIP, 155. 2. And see the title FRAUDULENT SALES AND CONVEYANCES, 424. 3 et seq.

2. First — Where It Was Possible to Consult the Other Partner or Partners. — One member of a firm has no authority to assign if the other members can be easily consulted but are not. Mills v. Miller, 109 Iowa 688, citing 3 AM. AND ENG. ENCYC. OF LAW (2d ed.) 27.

Third — Where a Partner Has, by Absconding, Relinquished All Control over the Partnership Property. — In re Grant, 106 Fed. Rep. 496.

A Partner Who Has in Fact Withdrawn from the Firm. — See Meyer-Marx Co. v. Masters, 119 Ala. 186.

Where Partner Was Sole Manager. — Keller v. Smith, 20 Tex. Civ. App. 314.

A managing partner in charge of the business may assign for the benefit of creditors, and the assent of a partner out of the state will be presumed. H. B. Clafflin Co. v. Evans, 55 Ohio St. 183, 60 Am. St. Rep. 686.

29. 2. Firm Assignments — Individual Assets of Partners — Florida. — Firm assignments, to be valid, must include individual property. Sheppard v. Reeves, 39 Fla. 53.

Texas. — Rogers v. Flournoy, 21 Tex. Civ. App. 558.

Utah. — A firm may assign for benefit of creditors without including the individual assets, but a creditor can proceed against the individual property when the firm property is insufficient. Wilson v. Sullivan, 17 Utah 341.

Wyoming. — Under the assignment law of Wyoming a firm assignment that does not assign the individual as well as the firm property is void. Swofford Bros. Dry-Goods Co. v. Mills, 86 Fed. Rep. 556.

Canada. — In British Columbia an assignment of the partnership assets only, to pay the partnership debts, is valid under the Creditor's Trust Deeds Act. Eastman v. Pemberton, 7 British Columbia 459.

See also the title FRAUDULENT SALES AND CONVEYANCES, 438. 3, 4.

30. 1. Assignment by Partner of His Individual Interest in Firm. — Patty v. City Bank, 15 Tex. Civ. App. 475.

2. Power of Surviving Partner. — Burchinell v. Koon, 8 Colo. App. 463; State v. Withrow, 141 Mo. 69; Rogers v. Flournoy, 21 Tex. Civ. App. 556, citing 3 AM. AND ENG. ENCYC. OF LAW (2d ed.) 30, 31.

31. 2. In Missouri the statutes providing for winding up partnerships after the death of a member, under the probate court, are held to take away the right of the surviving partner to assign for the benefit of creditors. State v. Withrow, 141 Mo. 69.

32. 4. California — Sheriff Must Be Assignee. — Under Civ. Code Cal., § 3449, the assignment is required to be made to the sheriff, who takes only the same title as his assignor. San Jose First Nat. Bank v. Menke, 128 Cal. 103.

33. 1. Residence of Assignee — Statutes. — Lanpher v. Burns, 77 Minn. 407; Lucy v. Freeman, (Minn. 1904) 101 N. W. Rep. 167; Duryea v. Muse, 117 Wis. 399.

3. Statute Directory. — The Texas statute directing that an assignee shall be a resident of the same county as the assignor is directory. Burnette v. Foreman, (Tex. Civ. App. 1895) 36 S. W. Rep. 1032.

4. Creditor as Assignee. — In Vermont, when an assignor appoints a creditor as his assignee, the assignment is not valid unless the creditors assent. Farrar v. Powell, 71 Vt. 247. See further the title FRAUDULENT SALES AND CONVEYANCES, 396. 2.

an attorney who as such has a judgment against an assigned estate is not precluded from being assignee.

34. 3. Corporate Officer as Assignee. — Section 48 of the New York Stock Corporation Law, providing that no transfer shall be made to a director for the payment of any debt after the corporation has refused to pay any debt or note when due, does not include a general assignment for the benefit of creditors. Linderman v. Hastings Card, etc., Co., 38 N. Y. App. Div. 488.

35. 3. What Passes by the Assignment — General Rule. — See McDowell v. Columbia Bldg., etc., Assoc., (Ky. 1899) 51 S. W. Rep. 1013; Columbia Finance, etc., Co. v. Morgan, (Ky. 1898) 44 S. W. Rep. 389; McAllister v. Ohio Valley Banking, etc., Co., 114 Ky. 540; Boynton v. Roe, 114 Mich. 401; Howland's Appeal, 67 N. H. 575; Loucheim v. Caspersen, 61 N. J. Eq. 529; *Owens v. Ct. 384; Calisher v. Mathias, (Tex. Civ. App. 1897) 43 S. W. Rep. 265; Snyder v. Murdock, 20 Utah 407.

Rights Fixed as of Date of Assignment. — See Parker v. Brown, (C. C. A.) 85 Fed. Rep. 595; Storts v. Mills, 93 Mo. App. 201; Matter of Hayes, (Supm. Ct. Spec. T.) 37 Misc. (N. Y.) 264; Kunkle v. Reeser, 5 Ohio Dec. 422, 5 Ohio N. P. 401.

A writ of garnishment served after the assignment gives no right to the plaintiff thereunder. Carter-Battle Grocer Co. v. Jackson, 18 Tex. Civ. App. 353.

Distributee's Share in Estate Passes to Assignee. — Gatewood v. Gatewood, 70 S. W. Rep. 284, 24 Ky. L. Rep. 931.

Dower Rights. — Where a husband assigned for creditors, and the wife released her dower for one thousand five hundred dollars but died prior to payment, it was held that the husband could not claim the one thousand five hundred dollars, for it belonged to the assigned estate. Allen v. Patrick, 97 Va. 521.

36. 2. Only Property Embraced in Instrument Passes. — Owens v. Taylor, 23 Ohio Cir. Ct. 612, quoting 3 AM. AND ENG. ENCYC. OF LAW (2d ed.) 36.

Property Excluded from Operation of Assignment Does Not Pass. — Armstrong v. Merchant's Mantle Mfg. Co., 32 Ont. 387.

37. 2. Rents. — Under a trust assignment for the benefit of creditors, possession of the property and the right to collect the rents pass to the grantee. Reed Fertilizer Co. v. Thomas, 97 Tenn. 478.

Rents due to the assignor must be applied by the assignee to the payment of liens valid against the estate. Matter of Neff, 185 Pa. St. 98.

An Equity of Redemption Passes. — Sowles v. Lewis, 75 Vt. 59.

Partnership Realty. — In Ryan v. Ruff, 90 Minn. 169, it was held that where a member of a firm assigned all of his property the assignment conveyed his realty belonging to the co-partnership when title was held in the individual names.

Remainders have been held to pass. Robbins's Estate, 199 Pa. St. 500; Musser's Estate, 12 York Leg. Rec. (Pa.) 145; Wilson v. Langhorne, 102 Va. 631 (under statute). And it is immaterial that the parties were ignorant of such effect. McAllister v. Ohio Valley Banking, etc., Co., 114 Ky. 540.

A Defeasible Fee passes, and the assignee can convey what title and estate the assignor was seized of. Trimble v. Shawhan, 101 Ky. 403.

39. 1. Trade Marks and Names. — Unless a trade name is peculiarly personal to the assignor, it will pass under an assignment for benefit of creditors. Sarrazin v. W. R. Irby Cigar, etc., Co., (C. C. A.) 93 Fed. Rep. 624. Compare Bellows v. Bellows, (Supm. Ct. Spec. T.) 24 Misc. (N. Y.) 482. See also the title TRADEMARKS, TRADE NAMES, AND UNFAIR COMPETITION, 399. 8 et seq., 404. 5, 405. 1.

Actual Delivery of Personalty Not Essential. — Carter-Battle Grocer Co. v. Jackson, 18 Tex. Civ. App. 353.

Monies belonging to the assignor pass though not mentioned in the assignment. Tishomingo Sav. Inst. v. Allen, 76 Miss. 114.

40. 1. Shares Not Fully Paid Up do not pass, when expressly excepted from the operation of the assignment. Armstrong v. Merchant's Mantle Mfg. Co., 32 Ont. 387.

3. Congress Constr. Co. v. Farson, etc., Co., 101 Ill. App. 279; Smith v. Longmire, 24 Hun (N. Y.) 257.

Insurance Policy. — The phrase "all things in action" passes a life-insurance policy, and the assignor cannot thereafter sue on it. Cohn v. Guardian Assur. Co., 68 Mo. App. 376.

So the cash surrender value of a life-insurance policy passes to the assignee. Burnsides v. National Bank, 64 S. W. Rep. 520, 23 Ky. L. Rep. 880.

But where an assignee entirely ignored a life-insurance policy on the assignor's life, paid no premiums, and for eight years made no claims against it, he was held to have no valid claim against it on maturity. Provident Life, etc., Co. v. Fidelity Ins. Trust, etc., Co., 203 Pa. St. 82.

And in Barbour v. Larue, 106 Ky. 546, it was held that an ordinary life-insurance policy, not being convertible into any money, did not pass to the assignee.

41. 1. Where One Partner Assigned for the Firm and Individually and signed his partner's name, the partner's individual property was held not to pass. Jackman v. Fortson, (Tex. Civ. App. 1896) 39 S. W. Rep. 215.

Individual Doing Business under a Firm Name. — Where an individual doing business under a firm name assigned for creditors, a judgment in the firm name may be shown to be individual property. State v. Honousek, 10 Ohio Cir. Dec. 516, 19 Ohio Cir. Ct. 303.

When Both Firm and Individual Property Will Pass. — When an assignment recites that it is made for the payment of firm creditors, but assigns the individual as well as the firm property, both the firm and the individual property will pass. John Hibben Dry-Goods Co. v. Haley, (Ky. 1899) 50 S. W. Rep. 252.

2. Individual Assignment Does Not Pass Firm Property. — Raymond v. Schoonover, 181 Pa. St. 352.

Individual Assignment for Partnership Debts. — A member of a banking institution may assign his individual property for the payment of the bank's debts, but unless he is unable to pay his individual debts, such assignment is limited to the debts of the bank. Heitzenreither v. Long, 4 Pa. Super. Ct. 524.

42. 3. Effect upon Property Exempt by Law. — Dorr v. Schmidt, 38 Fla. 354; Calloway v. Calloway, (Ky. 1897) 39 S. W. Rep. 241; McAllister v. Ohio Valley Banking, etc., Co., 114 Ky. 540; Cunningham v. Britton, 101 Wis. 378. See also the title FRAUDULENT SALES AND CONVEYANCES, 441. 4 et seq.

Crops Planted after the Assignment are not the subject of exemption. Columbia Finance, etc., Co. v. Morgan, (Ky. 1898) 44 S. W. Rep. 389.

Attachment Not Election. — An attachment of exempt property is not an election not to take under the assignment. Patty v. City Bank, 15 Tex. Civ. App. 475.

Waiver of Exemption. — The exemption is not an absolute right, but a privilege, and therefore may be waived as well as lost by laches. The form of the assignment may be such as to operate as a waiver. In re Ley, 7 British Columbia 94.

43. 1. Exemption of Homestead. — Armour v. Doig, (Fla. 1903) 34 So. Rep. 249; Simpson v. Greenwell, (Ky. 1898) 44 S. W. Rep. 433; McNamara v. Schwaniger, 106 Ky. 1; Matthews v. Matthews, 79 S. W. Rep. 188, 25 Ky. L. Rep. 1873; Jordan v. Newsome, 126 N.

Car. 553; Robinson v. McDowell, 133 N. Car. 182, 98 Am. St. Rep. 704; Kunkle v. Reeser, 5 Ohio Dec. 422, 5 Ohio N. P. 401; Starkey v. Wainright, 9 Ohio Dec. 436, 6 Ohio N. P. 32; Finley v. Cartwright, 55 S. Car. 198; Allen v. Meyer, (Tex. Civ. App. 1901) 65 S. W. Rep. 645.

Reference to Statute. — When a deed for the benefit of creditors reserves "a homestead exemption such as a bona fide housekeeper with a family would take under the statute laws of Kentucky," and the statute makes no such provision, the assignor is not entitled to any exemption. Russell v. Russell, (Ky. 1897) 38 S. W. Rep. 1041.

Mortgage Inuring to Creditors. — Where a court has decreed that a mortgage inures for the benefit of all creditors the mortgagor cannot claim an exemption of his homestead. Pease v. Schuh, 4 Ohio Dec. 121, 5 Ohio N. P. 245.

44. 1. Property Acquired Subsequently to Assignment. — Drovers', etc., Nat. Bank v. Roller, 85 Md. 495, 60 Am. St. Rep. 344.

2. Trust Funds Do Not Pass. — Dickinson v. Champlain First Nat. Bank, 64 N. Y. App. Div. 254; Appalachian Bank v. Gatch, 2 Ohio Dec. 366, 7 Ohio N. P. 307.

Misappropriation of Trust Funds. — Whenever an assignor has converted trust funds and such funds have gone to swell the estate, a court of equity may declare that the cestui que trust has a preference over all other creditors. Schwartz Bros. Commission Co. v. Zumbaulen, 85 Mo. App. 671.

But where the insolvent spent trust funds in such a way that they did not go to swell the general estate, no lien exists against the funds in the hands of the assignee. Drovers', etc., Nat. Bank v. Roller, 85 Md. 495, 60 Am. St. Rep. 344. See also Burrows v. Johtz, 57 Kan. 778.

Assignment by Assignee. — Where an assignee for the benefit of creditors in turn assigns for the benefit of his own creditors he does not thereby divest himself of the trust estate. Rutherford v. Loving, (Tex. Civ. App. 1903) 73 S. W. Rep. 418.

An Assignment of Property Held in Trust does not defeat the rights of the cestui que trust. Bank Com'rs v. Security Trust Co., 70 N. H. 543.

To Render an Assignee Liable to Account to a party who had placed money in the hands of his assignor, as for a trust fund, it must appear either that the fund actually came into the hands of the assignee or that it went to swell the estate of the assignor. Travellers Ins. Co. v. Caldwell, 59 Kan. 156; Wallace v. Caldwell, 9 Kan. App. 538.

3. General Rule — Should Be in Writing. — Lacy v. Gunn, 144 Cal. 511; Blackman v. Metropolitan Dairy Co., 77 Ill. App. 609; Lucy v. Freeman, (Minn. 1904) 101 N. W. Rep. 167.

This Is Usually Required by Statute. — Sager v. Summers, 49 Neb. 459.

In Kentucky a parol assignment is valid. Muir v. Samuels, 110 Ky. 605.

56. 2. No Particular Form Necessary. — Wambaugh v. Northwestern Mut. L. Ins. Co., 59 Ohio St. 241.

57. 2. Constructive Assignments Not Allowed Where Intention Was Honest. — People's Deposit Bank v. Campbell, 59 S. W. Rep. 22, 22 Ky. L. Rep. 983.

But in Kentucky, where a partner who is insolvent transfers his individual estate to the firm, also insolvent, the transaction will be construed as an assignment for the benefit of creditors. Louisville Trust Co. v. Columbia Finance, etc., Co., (Ky. 1900) 59 S. W. Rep. 867.

3. Certain Approved Forms. — In Bradley Fertilizer Co. v. Pace, (C. C. A.) 80 Fed. Rep. 862, a conveyance to the assignee and his successors, and not to the assignee and his heirs, was held to be the proper form.

4. Informal Writings Upheld Where Intention Clear. — See Bradley Fertilizer Co. v. Pace, (C. C. A.) 80 Fed. Rep. 862; Graham Paper Co. v. Sanderson, 8 Colo. App. 427.

58. 1. May Consist of Several Instruments. — Ontario Bank v. Hurst, (C. C. A.) 103 Fed. Rep. 231; Hargardine-McKittrick Dry Goods Co. v. Bradley, 1 Indian Ter. 650; Union, etc., Bank v. Allen, 77 Miss. 442; Maas v. Miller, 58 Ohio St. 483.

Where the Defendant Executed Chattel Mortgages. — Where a chattel mortgage was given to a creditor just prior to an assignment for creditors, but the mortgagee never accepted the mortgage nor claimed rights thereunder, it was held that the assignment was good and the mortgage failed. Marlin v. Teichgraber, 63 Kan. 521.

Notes Given as Preferences with a view to an assignment and followed by an assignment have been construed as a part thereof so as to invalidate it. Standard Shoe Co. v. Thompson, 32 Oregon 30.

3. Strict Compliance Not Always Essential. — Failure to state how or when the property must be sold does not invalidate the assignment, but simply clothes the assignees with discretionary powers. Silsby v. Strong, 38 Oregon 36.

59. 1. Assignor's Oath Mandatory. — When schedules were not verified for sixty days, and within three days after their filing the holder of a chattel mortgage, unrecorded, brought replevin against the assignor and assignee, the assignment was held to be inoperative. Keith v. Hamblin, 7 Kan. App. 456.

2. Instances of Imperative Provisions — United States. — Badgett v. Johnson-Fife Hat Co., (C. C. A.) 85 Fed. Rep. 408; Brown v. Parker, (C. C. A.) 97 Fed. Rep. 446.

Indian Territory. — Where an assignment for creditors was made, but no bond or inventory was filed, the assignment was held to be fraudulent and void. Hargardine-McKittrick Dry Goods Co. v. Bradley, 1 Indian Ter. 650. See also Martin Browne Co. v. Morris, 1 Indian Ter. 495; Westchester F. Ins. Co. v. Blackford, 2 Indian Ter. 370.

Kansas. — An assignment does not take effect until the schedules are filed, but a delay of two days will not avoid the assignment when it is made in good faith. Goodin v. Newcomb, 6 Kan. App. 431.

North Carolina. — Cooper v. McKinnon, 122 N. Car. 447; Brown v. Nimocks, 124 N. Car. 417; Martin v. Buffalo, 128 N. Car. 305, 83 Am. St. Rep. 679.

Oklahoma. — Hockaday v. Drye, 7 Okla. 288. Tennessee. — Forshee v. Willis, 101 Tenn. 450.

Canada. — Birks v. Lewis, 8 Quebec Q. B. 517, affirmed 30 Can. Sup. Ct. 618.

60. 1. Silsby v. Strong, 38 Oregon 36.

Failure to Attach the Schedules to a deed does not invalidate the instrument when the assignment describes the property sufficiently for identification. Maul v. Drexel, 55 Neb. 446.

The Inventory Is Not Conclusive, in Illinois and Iowa, as to what property passes under the assignment. Congress Constr. Co. v. Farson, etc., Co., 101 Ill. App. 279; Turrill v. McCarthy, 114 Iowa 681, holding further that the omission of property title to which was in dispute will not invalidate the assignment.

2. Assignments Given Effect Before Schedules Annexed. — Pitman v. Marquardt, 20 Ind. App. 431; Blair v. Anderson, 61 Kan. 376; Hockaday v. Drye, 7 Okla. 288; Snyder v. Murdock, 20 Utah 407.

60. Omissions from Schedules. — See note 5.

62. 9. Assignee as Party — Acceptance — Acceptance of an Assignment. — See note 2.

10. Assent of Creditors. — See note 3. See also the title FRAUDULENT SALES AND CONVEYANCES, 390. 3. et seq.

63. When the Assignment Is Manifestly for the Advantage of the Creditors. — See note 1.

64. When Express Assent Necessary. — See note 4.

11. Acknowledgment. — See note 6.

66. 12. Recording — Necessity of Recording. — See notes 2, 3.

Failure to File Schedules. — In Arizona an assignment for the benefit of creditors is not invalidated by a failure to file an inventory. Babbitt v. Mandell, (Ariz. 1898) 53 Pac. Rep. 577. And in New Hampshire failure to file schedules within the statutory period of ten days does not invalidate the assignment. Howland's Appeal, 67 N. H. 575.

Supplementary Document — List of Creditors. — A supplementary list was allowed in Gordonsville Milling Co. v. Jones, (Tenn. Ch. 1900) 57 S. W. Rep. 630, when it referred definitely to the former assignment and stated that it was a list of creditors and liabilities.

60. 5. Effect of Accidental and Trifling Omissions. — Phillips, etc., Mfg. Co. v. Whitney, (C. C. A.) 102 Fed. Rep. 838; Troescher v. Cosgrove, 46 N. Y. App. Div. 498.

Where an Assignee Is Also an Attaching Creditor his assignment operates to dissolve the attachment. Ryhiner v. Ruegger, 19 Ill. App. 156.

3. Express Assent of Creditors Not Required. — Lacy v. Gunn, 144 Cal. 511; Billings v. Parsons, 17 Utah 22.

When Assent Necessary. — See Seiter v. Mowe, 182 Ill. 351; Davies v. Dow, 80 Minn. 223; Busbey v. Russell, 10 Ohio Cir. Dec. 23, 18 Ohio Cir. Ct. 12; In re Roberg, 5 Ohio Dec. 585, 7 Ohio N. P. 446; Sweet v. Neff, 102 Wis. 482.

Where an Assignor Appoints a Creditor as his assignee, the assignment is not valid, either at common law or under the Vermont statute, unless the creditors assent. Farrar v. Powell, 71 Vt. 247.

An Oral Assent together with a promise of a written assent is sufficient to make the assignment valid. Roberts v. Norcross, 69 N. H. 533.

Assent in One State Subsequent to Record in Another. — Where an assignment was recorded in the state where it was made, and subsequently creditors in another state assented, the record was held to be notice to attaching creditors. Belfast Sav. Bank v. Stowe, (C. C. A.) 92 Fed. Rep. 100. To the same effect see Stowe v. Belfast Sav. Bank, 92 Fed. Rep. 90.

Assignee Agent for Debtor Alone. — In Weston v. Nevers, 72 N. H. 65, it was held that in the absence of assent of creditors the assignee holds the property as agent of, or trustee for, the debtor alone, and it is therefore subject to attachment by the assignor's creditors.

Good as to Assenting Creditors, Bad as to Those Dissenting. — A debtor's trust deed securing specified debts of specified creditors has been held to be good as to those who assent, but bad as to those who do not assent. Kingman v. Cornell-Tebbetts Mach., etc., Co., 150 Mo. 282.

In Canada the assignment is revocable until the creditors either execute or otherwise assent to it. Rennie v. Block, 26 Can. Sup. Ct. 356.

63. 1. General Rule — Assent of Creditors Presumed. — Robinson, etc., Co. v. Thomason, 113 Ala. 526; Inman v. Schloss, 122 Ala. 461; Smith v. Herrell, 11 App. Cas. (D. C.) 425; Weiser v. Muir, 103 Ky. 499; Fearey v. O'Neill, 149 Mo. 467, 73 Am. St. Rep. 440; Kingman v. Cornell-Tebbetts Mach., etc., Co., 150 Mo. 282; Weston v. Nevers, 72 N. H. 65; Gonzales v. Batts, 20 Tex. Civ. App. 421.

64. 4. When Creditors Should Execute Assignment. — Moody v. Templeman, 23 Tex. Civ. App. 374.

Where a mortgage is made in favor of such creditors as accept, and none accept, the assignment is not valid. Prouty v. Musquiz, (Tex. Civ. App. 1900) 59 S. W. Rep. 568.

Procurement of Assent. — Where an assignor procures a creditor's assent by giving a second bond for the payment of that creditor's claim, the others have no right to object. Lobdell v. State Bank, 180 Ill. 56.

6. Acknowledgment of Assignments — Minnesota. — An assignment must be acknowledged before a proper official. Lucy v. Freeman, (Minn. 1904) 101 N. W. Rep. 167.

Nebraska. — The assignment is void unless witnessed, and must be acknowledged. Sager v. Summers, 49 Neb. 459.

New York. — An assignment for creditors by a corporation must be acknowledged, and liens accruing prior to a proper acknowledgment have priority. Matter of High Falls Sulphite Pulp, etc., Co., (Supm. Ct. Spec. T.) 20 Misc. (N. Y.) 626. Where the certificate of acknowledgment is defective, it may be shown by proof aliunde that the acknowledgment was proper. Linderman v. Hastings Card, etc., Co., 38 N. Y. App. Div. 488.

Washington. — An unacknowledged assignment is not void when a creditor had actual knowledge of its terms and the assignee has taken possession of the property. Smith v. Cullen, 18 Wash. 398.

Acknowledgment Before Interested Officer. — An acknowledgment before a deputy clerk is not invalidated by reason of the fact that he is a beneficiary. Reed Fertilizer Co. v. Thomas, 97 Tenn. 478.

66. 2. Recording Deed of Assignment. — McCartney v. Earle, (C. C. A.) 115 Fed. Rep. 462; Parker v. Brown, (C. C. A.) 85 Fed. Rep. 595; Rogers v. Bailey, 121 Ala. 314; Reeves v. Estes, 124 Ala. 303; Schloss v. Inman, 129

Assignment to Single Creditor for His Own Benefit. — The Pennsylvania statute requires all assignments for benefit of creditors to be recorded within thirty days, but this does not apply to an assignment to a single creditor for his own benefit. Earle v. McCartney, 109 Fed. Rep. 13.

Assignment of Special Fund for Special Debt. — An assignment of a special fund for the payment of a particular debt is not such a general assignment as the Kentucky statute requires to be acknowledged and recorded. Botoms v. McFerran, (Ky. 1897) 43 S. W. Rep. 236.

As Against a Subsequent Assignee, an unrecorded assignment for certain creditors is good, but may be avoided by execution creditors of the assignor. Huey v. Prince, 7 Pa. Dist. 110.

Assignment with Preferences. — Where, under the Pennsylvania statute, a deed of assignment with preferences is construed as a general assignment for all creditors, the deed need not be recorded. Penn Plate Glass Co. v. Jones, 189 Pa. St. 290.

Registration Not Notice as to Choses in Action. — Under the Tennessee statute the registration of assignments for benefit of creditors is not notice as to choses in action. Chicago Sugar Refining Co. v. Jackson Brewing Co., (Tenn. Ch. 1898) 48 S. W. Rep. 275.

66. 3. Arkansas. — In support of the original note see Moore v. Goodbar, 66 Ark. 161.

Minnesota. — To the same effect as Paulson v. Clough, 40 Minn. 494, cited in the original note, see Lucy v. Freeman, (Minn. 1904) 101 N. W. Rep. 167.

Nebraska. — "The failure to file a deed of assignment for record within the time fixed by statute would not ipso facto divest the assignee's ownership of the trust estate. If such failure be regarded as a condition subsequent it would not, under the provisions of section 6 of the assignment law, * * * work a forfeiture of the assignee's title in favor of a creditor who had not acquired a lien on the property." Miller v. Waite, 59 Neb. 319.

New York. — Delay of a few days in recording an assignment is not fraudulent when ninety per cent. of the creditors request the assignee to make such delay while they decide whether recordation will be best. Irving Nat. Bank v. Wilson Bros. Woodenware, etc., Co., 34 N. Y. App. Div. 481.

Ohio. — When a trust deed is made in contemplation of insolvency, to prefer one or more creditors, it need not be filed with the probate court, unless some creditor applies to have it construed as an assignment for benefit of all the creditors. Mengert v. Brinkerhoff, 67 Ohio St. 472.

Texas. — An assignment in another state of personality in Texas need not be registered in Texas. Carter-Battle Grocer Co. v. Jackson, 18 Tex. Civ. App. 353.

67. 5. Where Assignments to Be Recorded. — Under the Ohio statute, where an assignor resides in one county and the land is located in another the assignment need not be filed for record in the county where the land lies. Harrison v. Chatfield, 7 Ohio Cir. Dec. 692, 14 Ohio Cir. Ct. 599.

An individual assignment the effect of which is to convey the assignor's interest in partnership property need not necessarily, under the Florida statute, be recorded in the county where the partnership assets are situated. Bradley Fertilizer Co. v. Pace, (C. C. A.) 80 Fed. Rep. 862.

68. 1. See Maul v. Drexel, 55 Neb. 446; Wambaugh v. Northwestern Mut. L. Ins. Co., 59 Ohio St. 241; Huey v. Prince, 187 Pa. St. 151; Earle v. McCartney, 109 Fed. Rep. 13 (under the Pennsylvania statute).

3. What Constitutes Delivery. — Where an assignor handed the deed of assignment to the assignee, who indorsed thereon his acceptance, but immediately returned it to the assignor to be filed, it was held not to be good against a chattel mortgage filed before the deed was filed. Matter of Day, 15 Wash. 525.

Delivery to the Assignor's Attorney for the purpose of recording has been held to pass title as against the assignor. Wright's Estate, 182 Pa. St. 90.

69. 1. Conditional Delivery. — Where a general assignment was signed with the agreement that it should be delivered only in case the assignors could not procure extensions it was held not to be invalidated because not filed until four days after it was signed. Pierce Steam Heating Co. v. Ransom, 16 N. Y. App. Div. 258.

2. Bloomingdale v. Maas, (Supm. Ct. Spec. T.) 30 Misc. (N. Y.) 672.

Delivery of Deed Entitles Trustee to Immediate Possession. — Avery v. Monroe, 172 Mass. 132, 70 Am. St. Rep. 250.

Title Passes on Delivery, and an assignment in a sister state duly executed and delivered has preference over an unrecorded mortgage. Wright v. Franklin Bank, 59 Ohio St. 80. See also Carlisher v. Mathias, (Tex. Civ. App. 1897) 43 S. W. Rep. 265.

70. 5. Bond Necessary. — Wambaugh v. Northwestern Mut. L. Ins. Co., 59 Ohio St. 241.

gating the full amount is sufficient. Bradley Fertilizer Co. v. Pace, (C. C. A.) 80 Fed. Rep. 862.

An assignment of a claim for a tort, in trust to an attorney, to pay doctors' bills and his own fee and give the surplus to the assignor, is not an assignment for benefit of creditors requiring a bond. United Railways, etc., Co. v. Rowe, 97 Md. 656.

Assignee Out of State. — One appointed assignee in another state may sue in the Kentucky court without filing a bond. Peach Orchard Coal Co. v. Woodward, 105 Ky. 790.

A Bond by a Surety Company duly authorized by law is sufficient. Miller v. Matthews, 87 Md. 464.

An Omission to State the Penal Sum in the bond avoids the assignment in Wisconsin except as between the parties. Stannard v. Youmans, 100 Wis. 275.

70. 6. Badgett v. Johnson-Fife Hat Co., 1 Indian Ter. 133; Westchester F. Ins. Co. v. Blackford, 2 Indian Ter. 370.

But failure to file a bond does not invalidate an assignment, for the filing of a bond within ten days is a condition subsequent. Moore v. Goodbar, 66 Ark. 161.

The Arkansas statute is in force in Indian Territory, by Act of Congress. Martin-Browne Co. v. Morris, 1 Indian Ter. 495.

Removal of Assignee. — The Texas statute provides that on failure to give a bond a county or district judge must remove the assignee and appoint a competent one on the application of any creditor. Birmingham Drug Co. v. Freeman, 15 Tex. Civ. App. 451.

inure to all creditors equally. Gay v. Strickland, 112 Ala. 567.

In Indian Territory.—Where a man owed his wife and son-in-law, he was allowed to prefer them in an assignment for benefit of creditors. Noble v. Worthy, 1 Indian Ter. 523.

The Kansas Courts will endeavor to uphold assignments and will disregard any effort at fraud, so as to apply the whole estate for the benefit of all creditors. Marshall v. Van De Mark, 57 Kan. 304.

Directions in an assignment inconsistent with the general assignment statutes do not invalidate the instrument, but should be disregarded. Reese v. Platt, 4 Kan. App. 801.

It Is Definitely Settled in Michigan that a debtor has a lawful right to prefer a creditor, and that the courts are not alert to deprive him and the preferred creditor of their rights, where the intention of the debtor is manifest and the instruments do not legally constitute an assignment and there is an absence of fraud. McMorran v. Moore, 113 Mich. 101. Compare Webber v. Hayes, 117 Mich. 256.

In New York a preference clause will be construed, if possible, so as to support the assignment. Pearson v. Eggert, 15 N. Y. App. Div. 125.

Canada. — Codville v. Fraser, 14 Manitoba 12, reversing 37 Can. L. J. 671; Beattie v. Wenger, 24 Ont. App. 72.

Illustrations. — In Taylor v. Seiter, 199 Ill. 555, a deed by the assignor to a corporation, retained by the assignor as president of the corporation without filing until the very day on which he made an assignment for the benefit of creditors, was held to be voidable by his creditors.

In Iowa, where a mortgage was executed and delivered, but not recorded, the fact that the mortgagee learned the next day of the mortgagor's assignment for creditors does not affect the bona fides of the mortgage transaction. Matter of Windhorst, 107 Iowa 58.

In Kentucky, when a debtor in contemplation of insolvency makes a payment to one creditor for the purpose of preferring him, the other creditors can by suit have the transaction declared an assignment for the benefit of all creditors. Farmers' Bank v. Rosenthal, (Ky. 1897) 42 S. W. Rep. 731. See also Oliver v. Sutton, 102 Ky. 334; Williams v. Borches, 102 Ky. 494.

Under the Ohio statute a chattel mortgage given to secure the fees of an attorney for services rendered in connection with the assignment for creditors cannot operate to secure a preference. In re Merling, 5 Ohio Dec. 390.

In Oklahoma it is held that the rights of a debtor to prefer one or more creditors and to assign for the benefit of all creditors are distinct rights, and any bona fide disposal to one creditor will be upheld. Smith v. Baker, 5 Okla. 326.

Validity of Assignment. — In Kansas an attempted preference by means of mortgages executed at the same time as an assignment will not invalidate the assignment; but the fact that the assignor acted in good faith will not validate the mortgage. Sturtevant v. Sarbach, 58 Kan. 410.

Where the bulk of assigned property is delivered to the assignee, void chattel mortgages and a comparatively insignificant reservation will not render the assignment void, where it appears that compliance with the statute can be substantially performed. Marshall v. Van De Mark, 57 Kan. 304.

In New York an attempted preference, ineffectual either because the chattel mortgage was void or because the preference exceeded one-third of the assignor's property, does not invalidate the assignment. Pierce Steam Heating Co. v. Ransom, 16 N. Y. App. Div. 258.

In Mississippi an assignment that preferred two clerks for more than the wages due to them was held not to be void where the facts showed bona fides. Yerger v. Carter Dry-Goods Co., (Miss. 1900) 27 So. Rep. 989.

6. Robinson v. Belt, 2 Indian Ter. 360; McElwee v. McGill, 57 S. Car. 6; Long v. Meriden Britannia Co., 94 Va. 594; Hart v. Maguire, 29 Nova Scotia 181, affirmed 28 Can. Sup. Ct. 272.

7. Assignment Must Be of All the Property. — McCord-Brady Co. v. Mills, 8 Wyo. 258, citing 3 AM. AND ENG. ENCYC. OF LAW (2d ed.) 86. See also supra, this title, 7. 1, 35. 3 et seq.

8. Partnership Assignment. — In Wyoming a firm creditor who releases the firm and who accepts a dividend from the assignee releases the individual liability of the partners. McCord-Brady Co. v. Mills, 8 Wyo. 258.

87. 4. Limit of Thirty Days Held Valid. — National Bank of Commerce v. Bailey, 179 Mass. 415.

89. 1. When Provision Prejudicial to Creditors. — Rosenstein v. Coleman, 18 Mont. 459; Wil- loughby v. Reynolds, 19 Mont. 421, holding that a grant of power to the assignee to sell for cash or on credit in his discretion renders the assignment void.

2. When Provision Beneficial to Creditors. — Hurst v. Leckie, 97 Va. 550, 75 Am. St. Rep. 798.

Authority to Make Notes or Accept Bills is not implied from an authority to conduct the business. Boyd v. Mortimer, 30 Ont. 290.

Reasonable Dispatch. — A provision that the assignee shall sell with all reasonable dispatch is not void. Armour v. Doig, (Fla. 1903) 34 So. Rep. 249.

90. 2. Attorney's Fees. — See Union Nat. Bank v. Mead Mercantile Co., 151 Mo. 149; Berkeley v. Green, 102 Va. 378.

A reservation making an attorney's fee a preferred claim, if not fraudulent, does not invalidate the assignment as to other matters. Little Rock Bank v. Frank, 63 Ark. 16, 58 Am. St. Rep. 65.

5. To Compromise with Debtors. — O'Gwinn v. Winner, (Miss. 1899) 25 So. Rep. 354.

92. 5. Lippincott v. Rich, 19 Utah 140.

93. 4. Discretion as to Private or Public Sale. — In John Hibben Dry-Goods Co. v. Haley, (Ky. 1899) 50 S. W. Rep. 252, a provision that the assignee might sell at public or private sale, at his discretion, though in violation of the statute, was held not to invalidate the assignment.

Provision for Sale at Public Auction. — A direction concerning the disposition of an assigned estate that the assignee shall "dispose of the same in the manner provided by said law" is not a direction to sell at public auction, and is not void under the Arkansas statute. Adams v. Allen-West Commission Co., 64 Ark. 603.

95. 4. Property Held in Trust. — The Kentucky statute provides that "debts due by an assignor as guardian, committee, trustee of an express trust created by deed or will, or as personal representative, shall be paid in full before the general creditors receive anything." Weiser v. Muir, 103 Ky. 499.

When a partnership used funds belonging to the ward of one partner such funds constitute a preferred claim upon the firm estate in an assignment for creditors. Adams v. Allen-West Commission Co., 64 Ark. 603.

96. 1. See Sanger v. Burke, 18 Tex. Civ. App. 106.

4. Secured Debts. — A creditor is entitled to hold his securities, whatever they may be, until he gets his pay; but where a claim is partly paid out of the proceeds of collateral, the creditor's claim will be reduced by that amount in the final distribution. Doolittle v. Smith, 104 Iowa 403.

98. 3. The Arkansas Statute requires the sale of assigned property within one hundred and twenty days of the giving of the bond, and where a reservation in a deed requires the sale to be within one hundred and twenty days of date the assignment is good when the bond was given on that date. Mansur, etc., Implement Co. v. Wood, 63 Ark. 362.

Length of Time Does Not Invalidate. — A trust assignment is not void on its face by reason of the length of time allowed to the assignee in which to act. Reed Fertilizer Co. v. Thomas, 97 Tenn. 478.

6. Property Cannot Be Reached by Creditors. — Forrest v. Letellier, 24 Quebec Super. Ct. 215.
